WAR MUST GO ON: LLOYD-GEORGE TO GERMANY

MRS. BARNES WEEPS OVER HER OWN STORY

Lawyer Pictures Her Innocent Victim of Three Deceivers.

Attorney Edward S. Day yesterday sketched a word picture of the life of his client, Mrs. Iva Barnes—a sketch that seemed to impress deeply the jury trying her for the murder of her husband. The defendant herself wept after he had concluded.

As he closed the outline of the case for the defense with a "Thank you, gentlemen, that is all," Mrs. Barnes appeared—momentarily, at least—a wife who had remained devoted to the interests of her husband through years of abuse and enforced loneliness, but who had no intention of killing him even when she believed her own life endangered at his hands.

WAS SHE DRUGGED?

Attorney Day said he would prove Mrs. Barnes was drugged by the police before she made her confession. At the night session Dr. John J. Mar[illegible] and Dr. Charles Bennett, [illegible] surgeons of the Hyde Park station, testified they had given her a dose of medicine used for delirium tremens patients before the confession was made.

Physicians at the bridewell hospital when asked by a reporter if the medicine would affect the mental qualities of the patient said she merely would be put to sleep for a time.

"Is there any opiate in the preparation?"

"None."

Mrs. Emma Hunting, a teacher in the public schools, said Mrs. Barnes a few minutes before she met her husband the night of the murder seemed happy at the prospect of seeing him again.

ROOMER TELLS OF QUARRELS.

Mrs. Louisa Thompson, a widow, who roomed in the Barnes apartment for a considerable time, and who, she said, knew Mrs. Barnes from the time she was 11 years old, said Barnes had a habit of "cussing" his wife when he got up in the morning. She also told of numerous quarrels between the Barnesses.

This morning the story will be heard again, and in even greater detail, from Mrs. Barnes' own lips. She will follow her sister, Mrs. H. Ingersoll, on the witness stand. Both sides promise "surprises" before she leaves it.

REVIEWS HER LIFE.

In his outline of the defense Attorney Day reviewed the life of Mrs. Barnes from the days of her childhood in Michigan to the night of Sept. 5 in Washington park, when her husband fell dead at her feet with four bullets in his head from her revolver.

Warren, her first husband, was portrayed as an habitual crook who deceived her; Barnes as a master of abuse through most of the years of their married life, and Ray Shelhammer, bartender Lancelot of the parrot episode, as "a snake who attempted to force his attentions on her."

ADDRESS TO JURY.

Attorney Day's address to the jury follows:

"Mrs. Barnes was born in Decatur, Mich., on Jan. 14, 1886. Later her parents moved to Mishawaka, Ind.

"Her mother died while she was young. For years the grandmother took care of the motherless babe. When she was 5 or 6 years old she had an attack of brain fever. We will show that from that time on she was nervous and neurasthenic.

"Later she started a millinery store of her own in Mishawaka. When she was 18 years old she met a man named Warren. He told her he was of wealthy parents who lived in Boston, made ardent love to her, and soon afterward led her to the altar.

"A few days later Warren was arrested on a charge of forgery and was convicted. He obtained all of Mrs. Barnes' money.

"She was discouraged after this and came to Chicago, lived at the Y. W. C. A., and worked in several millinery stores. She was married to Barnes on Oct. 28, 1908. She was 28 and he 43.

SLIPPED HER HIS CARD.

"Mrs. Barnes met her husband in a downtown restaurant. She was dining with a gentleman friend and it was raining. Her friend went to call a cab. While she was waiting for him to re-

Movie Game of Blind Man's Bluff May Cost $3,500

"Sightless" One Who Got Injury Award Falls for Film Man's Trap.

If Peter Zyla had not elevated his eyebrows and blinked at the sight of a pretty ankle in the back yard of his home at 3251 South Paulina street last Wednesday, he might now be enjoying the income from $3,500.

The act may cost him the $3,500 and cast him in the villain's role instead of that of hero. At least that was the opinion of some of the shrewdest lawyers in Chicago when the thrilling little one reeler entitled "The Country Girl in the Big City" was thrown on the screen before the state industrial board yesterday afternoon.

The Light That Fails.

Peter Zyla was employed in the plant of the Chicago Raw Products company in the stockyards for two weeks last February. The last day he worked there his fellow workers saw him pass his hands over his eyes and then grope blindly about.

He was taken home in an ambulance. Two days later he consulted an attorney and said he thought he was entitled to damages under the workmen's compensation act.

The case was taken to the state industrial board. Peter was awarded $3,500 to be paid in installments. Experts had testified that alternating heat and cold in the plant had blinded Peter.

Adjuster's Eyes Wide Open.

The Hartford Accident and Indemnity company insures the stockyards plant against loss under the compensation act. Ralph Potter, who defended Will Orpet, is attorney for the insurance company. He called in the company's adjuster, Albert Lane. Two weeks ago Lane went to Peter's home in the disguise of a teamster. Lane knocked on the rear gate. Peter appeared.

"I want to buy some of your fine pigeons," said Lane.

"What kind would you like?" asked Peter.

Zyla dived into the corner of the dark coop and came up with the pigeon. Lane bought other birds, designating them by color, and Zyla picked them out.

A Girl and a Camera.

Two days later Lane appeared on the same errand. He was just about to leave with the pigeons when two men with a moving picture camera and a pretty girl strolled into the yard.

"Are you the owner of this property?" asked the movie director of Lane. Lane directed them to Peter.

"O, sir," said the pretty girl, "would you mind letting us take pictures of your house and yard? We are just finishing the great photoplay sensation, 'The Country Girl in a Great City,' and, why, you have chickens—this is just the place.

The actress asked Peter to bring out some clothes and hang them on the line. He did. Then, after filming the girl in several "scenes," the director asked Peter if he would mind taking an extra part. Peter was delighted to become a movie star. He pulled clothes lines, caught chickens, carried ladders down flights of stairs and hammered nails in the fence.

Can't Keep 'Em Shut.

Finally the director asked the actress to lift her skirt, just a trifle. Zyla was taking down the clothes. When the skirt went up Peter couldn't make those $3,500 eyes behave.

That was the testimony given by Lane, when he was called by the insurance company, to the hearing before the state industrial board in the City Hall Square building yesterday. Attorney Potter had re-opened the case.

"Call in Peter Zyla," shouted Judge J. B. Vaughn, chairman of the board.

Peter Totters Into Trap.

A middle aged man, supported by two sturdy companions, was brought into the room. Under each arm was a crutch. He told his story. He said he was blind and disabled. He said he could not see anything.

Then they sprang the movie.

GERMANY FOR DISARMAMENT TO WIN PEACE?

Berlin Officials in U. S. Also Say That Reparation Would Be Agreed To.

BULLETIN.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—It was stated authoritatively tonight the United States will continue to act only as an intermediary, tween the belligerents. The official view is that the British premier's speech has shown that any positive action by the United States toward mediation not only would be premature but might embarrass such action later.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—If Great Britain wants to know the terms of peace Germany will respond with a proposal for disarmament, the formation of a league of nations to enforce peace, and a definite invitation to a preliminary conference on details at The Hague.

If England makes reparation the condition of a peace parley Germany will agree, with the suggestion that the Teutonic powers also want reparation.

This is the official German view of the prospects of peace as they appear since the statement of the British attitude toward Berlin's overtures by Premier Lloyd-George in the house of commons today.

END STILL FAR OFF.

Although official Washington believes that the allies will render a reply to the German peace note designed to elicit Berlin's proposals, Premier Lloyd-George's speech is regarded here as evidence that the end of the great war is still far off.

"Another year of war, at least," was the comment of a high administration official as he read the report of the premier's cool reception of the German peace overtures.

Diplomats representing the entente allies here are confident that their governments will refuse to be drawn into a preliminary conference at The Hague next month unless Germany proposes peace terms deemed worthy of consideration.

MAY FORCE BERLIN'S HAND.

It, therefore, is expected the allies will answer the German note in a way that will require Berlin to propose a basis of agreement, in order to procure consideration of the suggestion to hold a preliminary conference.

Entente diplomats entertain little hope that Germany would propose terms that would induce the allies at this time to send envoys to The Hague.

Lloyd-George's speech set in motion a good deal of international wire pulling, chiefly directed at Washington. The Teutonic powers are exerting every possible influence to induce President Wilson to seek to persuade Great Britain to enter into negotiations with Germany.

OTHER NEUTRALS EYE U. S.

Dr. Ritter, the Swiss minister, and Mr. Riano, the Spanish ambassador, called on Secretary of State Lansing and inquired whether the administration contemplates making any peace representations to the allies, now that Great Britain, France, Russia, and Italy have stated their attitude toward the German overtures.

Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, when asked for an opinion of the British premier's speech, said:

"Great Britain apparently does not close the door on further peace discussion. I think there will be at least one more exchange of notes."

"Great Britain is not alone in declaring that there must be reparation," said a high German official here. "Germany also will insist on reparation. England wants reparation for the damage sustained by Belgium. Germany wants reparation for the damage sustained by East Prussia as a result of the Russian invasion. But money indemnities should not be a stumbling block to peace, for the whole amount of reparation on both sides would be less than the cost of continuing the war another year."

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF

[Copyrighted: 1916: By John T. McCutcheon.]

COLD WAVE WILL REMAIN TODAY ALL OVER ILLINOIS.

Zero Weather in Kansas and Nebraska and 36 Below in Manitoba Reported by Bureau.

The present cold wave, severest of the present winter, is to remain, according to the government weather forecast, which predicts colder weather today and snow for all Illinois.

By last night the cold wave had extended itself over the central and northern part of the continent, registering temperatures as low as 36 degrees below zero in Manitoba. Kansas and Nebraska reported zero readings.

The prediction for tomorrow holds that the cold will continue, under fair skies, and with fresh to strong northerly winds.

SUES LAWYER FOR $50,000.

Charles E. Doose Declares Fred J. Rathje Bungled in Matrimonial Peace Parley.

Contending that his lawyer, Fred D. Rathje, did not exercise proper discretion in attempting a settlement of his matrimonial difficulties, Charles E. Doose started a suit for $50,000 damages yesterday in the Superior court.

In 1914, Doose declares, he was having some trouble with his wife, Adela Doose, and retained Attorney Rathje as counsel. He wished to make satisfactory settlement out of court and effect a reconciliation.

Instead, he avers, his wife went through with the case and was granted a divorce. He was compelled to surrender to her real estate valued at $9,000, personal property worth $2,000, and pay other expenses amounting to over $1,000.

THIS BOY KILLED BY TRAIN; WHAT MOTHER IS WAITING?

Youth of 13, Stocking Cap, Reddish Gloves, Blue Serge Suit, Short Black Overcoat—Found on Track.

Some mother may have wondered last night why her boy did not come home. Today, perhaps, she will learn that the boy's body was picked up last night on the St. Paul railroad tracks at Wabansia avenue. Both legs were cut off above the knee, and the boy had been dead several hours. The body was taken to undertaking rooms at 3817 West North avenue. Description: About 13 years old, stocking cap, reddish gloves, blue serge suit, short black overcoat, white waist. Not an article was found in his pockets.

LONDON PRESS SUPPORTS FIAT OF LLOYD-GEORGE.

Times Says He Expresses Wishes of Nation; Door to Peace Not Bolted and Barred.

LONDON, Dec. 20, 3:30 a. m.—The bulk of the morning papers agree that Premier Lloyd-George expressed the views of the British nation in his speech in the house of commons dealing with Germany's peace proposal.

"Premier Lloyd-George," says the Times, "expressed the thoughts and wishes of the nation and laid down a program which will command its hearty support."

The Daily News says the door is not necessarily banged and bolted and that the allies' flat refusal of Hollweg's offer is not meant to indicate that the allies do not wish peace, but that Germany must ask it in the role of the vanquished and not the victor.

The Mail says: "There is no obstacle whatever to peace if Germany really wants it. She has merely to withdraw from the occupied countries and we are willing enough to discuss reparation and guarantees for the future."

ENGLAND WITH ALLIES; SPURNS BERLIN PEACE

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—The text of the German note announcing Germany's readiness to discuss peace was made public here this evening. In substance it is identical with the outline contained in the speech of Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, the German imperial chancellor, last Tuesday.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—The announcement in the house of commons this afternoon by David Lloyd-George, the new prime minister, that the first act of his administration was the rejection of the proposal of the central powers for a peace conference constituted one of the most momentous scenes in parliamentary history.

WHAT BERLIN MUST DO.

The new premier declared that before the allies could give favorable consideration to such an invitation they must know that Germany was prepared to accede to the allies' terms, giving "complete restitution, full reparation, and effectual guarantees." He added:

"To enter a conference upon the invitation of Germany, proclaiming herself victorious, without any knowledge of her proposals, would be putting our heads into a noose with the end of the rope in Germany's hands."

NO TERMS GIVEN.

Mr. Lloyd-George asserted that at the moment Germany was penning the note, assuring her convictions as to the rights of other nations, she was dragging Belgians into slavery.

He announced that the note presented through Washington contained no proposals or terms, but was a paraphrase of Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg's speech, and that the allies had separately concluded to reject it, although they had informally exchanged views, and would within a few days present a joint reply.

ASQUITH BACKS PREMIER.

Mr. Asquith, the former premier seconded Mr. Lloyd-George's decision with even stronger words, and almost at the same moment Earl Curzon was informing the lords that the government would enter no conference that did not guarantee for Europe the free and independent existence of nations great and small.

OUTLINES HIS PROGRAM.

The day was a doubly important one for the commons, because the new premier unfolded his program for wide reaching war measures, and Mr. Asquith closed the last chapter of his nine years of leadership with an accounting of his war stewardship.

The principal feature of Mr. Lloyd-George's program is a measure for national service, matching Germany's latest scheme, whereby every citizen will be liable for enrollment to perform work for which the authorities consider him best equipped.

Arthur Neville Chamberlain, mayor of Birmingham and a member of the famous family whose energy and business capacity are rated high, will be director of the national service, with civil and military directors responsible to him.

OTHER WAR MEASURES.

Other war measures proposed by the new premier are:

Drastic steps in regard to excess profits, to insure that the wealth of the nation is at its disposal.

Complete national control of food.

The nationalization of shipping.

An imperial conference to give the dominions a larger share in the control of the war.

A settlement of the Irish question, though on what grounds was not stated.

CHAMBER IS CROWDED.

Such was the interest in the premier's speech that every member of the house of commons, with the exception of those kept away by illness and those in active service in distant countries, were in their seats.

Dozens of members just back from the trenches and clad in uniform occupied their seats for the first time in many months.

Ambassadors of the allied and neutral countries sat in the distinguished strangers' gallery. Every seat in the peers' gallery was filled with members of the nobility of England, nearly all khaki clad. Behind the grill in the women's gallery were many women.

On the benches reserved for lords were many members of the upper house who took a prominent part in bringing about the recent change in government. Among them were Lords Northcliffe, Reading, Burnham, Islington, and Pirrie.

ENTENTE CHIEFS REPLY TO BERLIN

MR. LLOYD-GEORGE:

[In the House of Commons.]

"Any one who wantonly prolongs this conflict has a crime on his soul which oceans of tears could not cleanse, but any one who abandons the struggle without attaining the object would be even more guilty. Are we likely to attain our object by accepting the German proposals? To accept the proposals would be to put our heads into a noose. . . ."

"We will wait until we hear what terms and guarantees there are other than those, better than those, surer than those which Germany so lightly broke. Meanwhile we shall put trust in our unbroken army rather than in broken faith. . . ."

"Without reparation peace is impossible."

[In French Senate.]

"The entente allies will send tomorrow a concerted reply making known to the central powers that it is impossible to take their request for peace seriously."

EX-PREMIER ASQUITH:

[Speech in House of Commons.]

"We all yearn for peace, but it must be an honorable, not a shamefaced peace. If the Germans are prepared to give us reparation for the past and security for the future let them say so."

MARQUIS OF CREWE:

[Government leader in House of Lords.]

LLOYD-GEORGE'S SPEECH

Rising in the house a few minutes after 4 o'clock, the prime minister said:

"I appear before the house of commons today with the most terrible responsibility that can fall upon the shoulders of any living man as chief adviser of the crown in the most gigantic war in which this country was ever engaged—a war upon the events of which its destiny depends.

"It is the greatest war ever waged. The burdens are the heaviest that have been cast upon this or any other country, and the issues the gravest that have been attached to any conflict in which humanity was ever involved.

WILL DO AS ALLIES DO.

"The responsibilities of the new government have been suddenly accentuated by the declaration made by the German chancellor. The statement made by him in the reichstag has been followed by a note presented by the United States without note or comment. The answer given by this government will be given in full accord with all our allies.

"Naturally there has been an interchange of views, not upon the note, because it has only recently arrived, but upon the speech which impelled it, and as the note itself is practically only a reproduction of a paraphrase of the speech, the subject matter of the note itself has been discussed informally between the allies.

"I am glad to be able to state that we each, separately and independently, arrived at identical conclusions.

WITH FRANCE AND RUSSIA.

"I am very glad that the first answer given to the statement of the German chancellor was given by France and Russia. They have the unquestionable right to give the first answer to such an invitation. The enemy is still on their soil and their sacrifices have been the greater.

"The answer they have given has already appeared in the papers and I simply stand here to give clear and definite support to the statement they have already made.

MUST ACHIEVE PURPOSE.

"Any man, or set of men, who wantonly or without sufficient cause prolongs a terrible conflict like this would have on his soul a crime that oceans could not cleanse.

"On the other hand, it is equally true that any man, or set of men, who, from a sense of weariness or despair, abandoned the struggle without achieving the high purposes for which we entered it, would be guilty of the costliest act of poltroonery ever perpetrated by any statesman. I should like to quote the words of Abraham Lincoln under similar conditions:

"'We accepted this war for an object, and a world object, and the war will end when the object is attained under God. I hope it will never end until that time.'

AVOID "GERMAN NOOSE."

"Are we likely to achieve the object by accepting the invitation of the German chancellor? What are the proposals? There are none.

"To enter, on the invitation of Germany, proclaiming herself victorious, without any knowledge of what proposals she proposes to make, into a conference is to put our heads into a noose with the rope end in the hands of Germany.

"This country is not altogether without experience in these matters. This is not the first time we have fought a great military despotism overshadowing Europe, and it won't be the first time we have helped to overthrow a military despotism.

RECALLS PAST ERRORS.

"We have an uncomfortable historical memory of these things, and can recall one of the greatest of these despots, whose favorite device was to appear in the garb of an angel of peace either when he wished time to assimilate his conquests or to reorganize his forces for fresh conquests, or, secondly, when his subjects showed symptoms of fatigue and war weariness, an appeal was always made in the name of humanity. He demanded an end to the bloodshed at which he professed himself horrified, although he himself was mainly responsible.

"Our ancestors were taken in once, and bitterly did they and Europe rue it. The time was devoted to reorganizing his forces for a deadlier attack than ever upon the liberties of Europe.

"Examples of this kind cause us to regard this note with a considerable measure of reminiscent disquietude.

MUST KNOW BERLIN PLANS.

"We feel that we ought to know, before we can give favorable consideration to such an invitation, that Germany is prepared to accede to the only terms on which it is possible peace can be obtained and maintained in Europe. Those terms have been repeatedly stated by all the leading statesmen of the allies. They have been stated repeatedly here and outside. To quote the leader of the house last week:

"'Reparation and guarantee against repetition, so there shall be no mistake, and it is important that there should be no mistake in a matter of life or death to millions.'

"Let me repeat: Complete restitution, full reparation, and effectual guarantees.

NO HINT OF REPARATION.

"Did the German chancellor use a single phrase to indicate that he was prepared to accept such a peace? Was there a hint of restitution? Was there a suggestion of reparation? Was there an implication of any security for the future that this outrage on civilization would not again be perpetrated at the first profitable opportunity?

"The very substance and style of the speech constitutes a denial of peace on the only terms on which peace is possible. He is not even conscious now that Germany has committed any offense against the rights of free nations.

"Listen to this from the note:

"'Not for an instant have they [the central powers] swerved from the conviction that respect of the rights of other nations is not in any degree incompatible with their own rights and legitimate interests.'

CONTRARY TO METHODS.

"When did they discover this? Where was respect for the rights of other nations in Belgium and Serbia? That was self-defense, menaced, I suppose, by the overwhelming armies of Belgium. I suppose the Germans had been intimidated into invading Belgium, and burning Belgian cities and villages; into massacreing thousands of its inhabitants, old and young; into carrying the survivors into bondage. Yea, and they were carrying them into slavery at the very moment when this note was being written about their unswerving conviction as to the respect due the rights of other nations.

"Are these outrages the legitimate interest of Germany? We must know. That is not a moment for peace. If excuses of this kind for palpable crimes can be put forward two and a half years after exposure by the grim facts, is there any guarantee that similar subterfuges will not be used in the future to overthrow any treaty of peace you may enter into with Prussian militarism?

"The note and speech prove that they have not yet learned the alphabet of respect for the rights of others.

MUST BE REPARATION.

"Without reparation peace is impossible. Are all these outrages against humanity on land and sea to be liquidated by a few pious phrases about humanity? Germany leaves us to exact the damage for all future violence committed after the war. We must exact it now, so as not to leave such a grim inheritance to our children.

"Much as we all long for peace, deeply as we are horrified with war, this note and speech, which heralded it do not afford us much encouragement to hope for an honorable and lasting peace.

"What hope is given in the speech that the whole root and cause of this great bitterness, the arrogant spirit of the Prussian military caste will not be as dominant as ever if we patch up peace now? The very speech in which these peace suggestions are made resounds to the boast of Prussian military triumph. It is a long paean over the victory of Von Hindenburg.

PURPOSE MUST BE ACHIEVED.

"We must keep a steadfast eye upon the purpose for which we entered the war, otherwise the great sacrifices we have been making will be in vain.

"The German note states that it was for the defense of their existence and the freedom of national development that the central powers were constrained to take up arms. Such phrases are intended to delude the German nation into supporting the designs of the Prussian military caste, who ever wished to put an end to their national existence or freedom of development. We welcomed their development so long as it was on the paths of peace.

"The allies entered this war to defend Europe against the aggression of Prussian military domination, and, having begun it, they must insist that the only end is the most complete effective guarantee against the possibility of that caste ever again disturbing the peace of Europe.

PRUSSIA A BAD NEIGHBOR.

"Prussia, since she got into the hands of that caste, has been a bad neighbor, arrogant, threatening, bullying, shifting her boundaries at her will and taking one fair field after another from her weaker neighbors and adding them to her own dominions.

"With her belt ostentatiously full of weapons of offense and ready at a moment's notice to use them, she has always been an unpleasant, disturbing neighbor in Europe. She got thoroughly on the nerves of Europe; there was no peace near where she dwelt. It is difficult for those who are fortunate enough to live thousands of miles away to understand what it has meant to those who live near.

ALWAYS DISTURBING FACTOR.

"Even here, with the protection of the broad seas between us, we know what a disturbing factor the Prussians were with their constant naval menace. But we can hardly realize what it meant to France and Russia. Several times there were threats directed against them even within the lifetime of this generation, which presented the alternative of war or humiliation. There were many of us who hoped that the internal influence in Germany would be strong enough to check and ultimately to eliminate it.

"Now that this great war has been forced by the Prussian leaders, it would be folly not to see to it that this swashbuckling through the streets of Europe and this disturbance of peaceful citizens was dealt with here and now as the most serious offense against the law of nations.

AWAIT GERMAN TERMS.

"We will wait until we hear what terms and guarantees the German government offer other than those, better than those, surer than those, which she so lightly broke. And meanwhile we shall put our trust in our unbroken army, rather than in broken faith.

"For the moment I do not think it would be advisable for me to add anything upon this particular invitation. A formal reply will be delivered by the allies in the course of the next few days."

STINGERS IN SPEECH.

Then the speaker, referring to the new cabinet, said:

"I have no doubt that the old cabinets were better adapted to navigate the parliamentary river with its shoals and shifting sands, and perhaps for a cruise in home waters. But a cabinet of twenty-three was rather topheavy for a gale. I do not say that this new craft is best adapted for parliamentary navigation, but I am convinced that it is best for war.

WAR IN FEW HANDS.

"It is true that in a multitude of counsellors there is wisdom. That was written for oriental countries in peace time. You can't run a war with a sandhedrin. That is the meaning of our cabinet of five and of its members doing sentry duty outside, manning the ways and defending the council chamber against attack while we are trying to do our work inside.

"You can't have absolute equality in sacrifice. In war that is impossible. But you can have equal readiness to sacrifice from all. There are hundreds of thousands who have given their lives; there are millions who have given up comfortable homes and exchanged them for daily communion with death. Multitudes have given up those whom they loved best.

FOR NATIONAL LENT.

"Let the nation as a whole place its comforts, its luxuries, its indulgences, its elegances on the national altar consecrated by such sacrifices as these men have made! Let us proclaim during the war a national Lent! The nation will be better and stronger for it, mentally and morally as well as physically. It will strengthen its fiber and ennoble its spirit. Without it we shall not get the full benefit of this struggle.

"Our armies have driven the enemy out of the battered villages of France and across the devastated plains of Belgium. They might hurl him across the Rhine in battered disarray. But unless the nation as a whole shoulders part of the burden of victory it won't profit by the triumph, for it is not what a nation gains, but what it gives that makes it great."

GRAIN OUTLOOK BAD.

Mr. Lloyd-George, after dealing with the peace problem, touched upon the general policy which would be inaugurated by the new government. With respect to the question of food supplies he said:

"The main facts are plain. The harvests of the United States and Canada are failures and the Argentine promises badly. Russia is unavailable, and our own harvest is poor, while only three-eighths of the normal winter sowing has taken place owing to bad weather. Under these circumstances the late government decided to appoint a food controller.

"We appeal to the nation to assist the government in distributing our resources so that no man shall suffer hunger because somebody else has too much. That means sacrifice. But the men on the Somme are enduring far greater sacrifices."

DRASTIC MOVE FOR EFFICIENCY

Announcement was made by the premier that more drastic steps would be taken regarding excess profits.

He referred also to the proposal for universal mobilization of labor, saying:

"We propose to appoint immediately a director of national service who will be in charge of the matter of universal national service. The military director will be responsible for recruiting for the army. The civil director will begin by scheduling all industries and services according to their character as essential or nonessential to the war.

"Certain industries will be classed as indispensable, while others will be drawn upon for men required either for the army or for indispensable industries.

"The nation is fighting for life and is entitled to the best services of all citizens. The government has been fortunate in inducing Arthur Neville Chamberlain, lord mayor of Birmingham, to accept the post of director general under this scheme. He will immediately proceed to organize a great system of enrollment for industrial purposes."

REFORM IN SHIPPING.

After making an announcement in regard to the nationalization of shipping, Mr. Lloyd-George said the shipping controller was now conferring with the admiralty and that he hoped it would be possible shortly to announce not merely the plan for more effective use of ships on the register but for the construction of ships to make good the wastage of war.

Dealing with the war situation, the premier said he had to paint a stern but not gloomy picture. The Roumanian blunder was an unfortunate one, but at the worst it only prolonged the war and could not affect it. It might have a salutary effect, in calling the attention of the allies to obvious defects of organization. To prevent the Roumanian situation from becoming worse they had taken strong action in Greece. They were taking no risks. They had decided to recognize the agents of Former Premier Venizelos.

PREDICTS VICTORY IN FRANCE.

Speaking of the western front, he referred to the growth of the British armies there and added:

"I am convinced ultimate victory is sure if the nation shows the same spirit of endurance and readiness to learn as the mud-stained armies at the front."

Of the cooperation between the entente allies he said:

"As to our relations with our allies, I venture to say we should seek two things—unity of aim and unity of action. Before we can take full advantage of the enormous resources of the allies there must be some means of arriving at clear decisions and carrying them out. I believe if this is done it will serve to equalize conditions.

ALLIES MUST GET TOGETHER.

"There must be more consultation between men; in the matter of the direction of affairs there must be less feeling that each country has got only its own front to look after. There must be a just policy of a common front. There must be recognition by all the allies that there is only one front, instead of having overwhelming guns at one spot and bare breasts, gallant breasts, at another."

The solution of the Irish problem, said the premier, was largely one of a better atmosphere.

"I wish I could say something definite about Ireland," he continued. "I have already had preliminary conferences regarding Ireland, and the cabinet will take the matter up. I look upon an Irish settlement as a great and necessary war matter, and a satisfactory solution would be a great victory for the allied cause.

"I am convinced that the Irish situation is a misunderstanding, partly racial, partly religious. We shall ask men of all creeds and faiths to help us do something which will be a real contribution in winning the war."

Paying tribute to the contributions of the dominions to the prosecution of the war, Mr. Lloyd-George said the new administration was just as full of gratitude as the old "for the superb valor of our kinsmen," and he believed the dominions ought to be more fully consulted as to the progress and course of the war, as to the steps that ought to be taken to secure victory, and as to the best methods of garnering its fruits.

"We propose, therefore, at an early date," he went on, "to summon an imperial conference and place the whole position before the dominions and take counsel with them as to what further action they and we should take together in order to achieve an early and complete triumph for the ideals they and we are fighting for."

REGRETS BREAK WITH ASQUITH

"It is one of the deepest regrets of my life that I parted from Mr. Asquith, and some of my friends have known how I strove to avert the parting. I am proud to say we never had a personal quarrel. It was with the deepest grief that I found it necessary to send my resignation."

Turning to the more purely political of the domestic problems before the new ministry, Mr. Lloyd-George said:

"We are anxious to avoid all controversial questions. The functions of the premier and the leader of the house of commons have been separated because it was believed the double tasks were too much for one. The organization of the new cabinet is best adapted for the purpose of war. In war you want prompt decision, and the allies have suffered disaster after disaster from tardiness of decision."

PREMIER'S PERORATION.

The premier's peroration was as follows:

"If in this war I have paid scant heed to the call of party it is because I realized from the moment the Prussian cannon hurled death at a peaceable and inoffensive little country that a challenge had been sent to civilization to decide an issue higher than party, deeper than party, wider than all partisan issue upon the settlement of which will depend the fate of the men in this world for generations, when existing parties shall have fallen like dead leaves on the highway.

"Those issues are the issues I want to keep in front of the nation, so that we shall not falter or faint in our resolutions.

STRUGGLE FOR RIGHT.

"There is a time in every prolonged war when in the passion and rage of conflict men forget the high purpose with which they entered it. This is a struggle for international right, international honor, international good faith—the channel along which peace, honor, and good will must flow among men.

"The embankments laboriously built up by generations of men against barbarism have been broken and had not the might of Britain passed into the breach Europe would have been inundated with a flood of savagery and unbridled lust of power.

"It is not a mere haphazard law of supply and demand that will accomplish that which is necessary to save a nation within the time that it is essential it should be accomplished. It is not a question of years, it is a question of months, perhaps weeks, and unless not merely the material resources of the country, but the labor of the country is used to the best advantage and every man is called upon to render such service to the state as he can best give, victory is beyond our reach.

IRISH FRICTION A PROBLEM.

"I wish it were possible to remove the misunderstanding between Great Britain and Ireland which for centuries has been such a source of misery to one and an embarrassment and weakness to the other. I should consider it a great victory for the allied forces.

"I tried once to remove the misunderstanding between England and Ireland. I was drenched with suspicion of Irishmen by Englishmen and of Englishmen by Irishmen, and, worse and most fatal of all, suspicion by Irishmen of Irishmen. It was a quagmire of distrust which clogged my footsteps and made progress impossible.

"That is the real enemy of Ireland. If that could be slain I believe it would be to accomplish an act of reconciliation that would make Ireland greater and Britain greater and make the United Kingdom and the empire greater than they ever were before.

HOPES FOR BETTER FEELING.

"That is why I have always thought and said that the real solution of the Irish problem is largely one of better atmosphere. I am speaking not merely for myself but for my colleagues when I say we shall strive to produce that better feeling.

"The policy of a common front must be a reality. It is on the other side. Austrian guns are helping the German infantry and German infantry is stiffening the Austrian arms. The Turks are helping the Germans; Austrians and Bulgarians mix with all. There is an essential feeling that there is but one front, and we have got to get that more and more instead of having overwhelming guns on one side and bare breasts and gallant breasts on the other."

John Redmond, leader of the Irish Nationalists, referring to the premier's remarks with regard to Ireland, appealed to him to take drastic action for a settlement of the Irish question, but not to link it with difficulties of anything of the nature of conscription for Ireland.

TO THE NEW ARMY!

Lloyd-George's Tribute to the Valor of British Fighting Men.

In the course of his peroration yesterday in the house of commons Mr. Lloyd-George said:

"An absolutely new army! The old had done its duty and spent itself in the achievement of that great task. This is a new army. A year ago it was ore in the earth of Britain,—yea, and of Ireland. It became iron. It has passed through the fiery furnace and the enemy knows that it is now fine steel.

"An absolutely new army! New men, new officers, taken from schools, from colleges, from counting houses, never trained to war, never thought of war; many persons never handled a weapon of war; generals never given an opportunity of handling great masses of men.

"They have faced the greatest army in the world, the greatest army the world has ever seen, the best equipped, the best trained, and they have beaten them, beaten them, beaten them!

"Battle after battle, day after day, week after week, in the strongest entrenchments ever devised by human skill, they have driven them out by valor, valor which is incredible when you read the story of it."

NO LETUP IN WAR, CURZON SAYS TO HOUSE OF LORDS

Demands Full Reparation by Germany and That Peace of Europe Shall Be Secure.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—In presenting the policy of the government in the house of lords this afternoon, Earl Curzon, who is a member of the new war council, said:

"The policy of the new government is that the war must be conducted with the utmost prosecution; that there must be an ample return for all sacrifices; that full reparation must be made by the enemy for his countless crimes, and security given, that those crimes will not be repeated, and that the sacrifices we make shall not have been in vain.

"The government's aim is that the peace of Europe shall be reëstablished on the basis of the free and independent existence of nations, great and small, and that as regards this country it shall be free from the menace which the triumph of Germany and the German spirit would entail.

England Fighting for Life.

"Our answer to Germany's latest move must be swift and sure. It is not too much to ask the people to take upon themselves for a few months the obligations which Germany has imposed upon Europe. The nation is fighting for its life and is entitled to the best and fullest service of its sons."

Alluding to the position of Roumania, Earl Curzon said that Germany's success was by no means so great as she was trying to make out.

"Evidence is forthcoming daily of the central straits of Germany at home and in the field," he said. "The position of the central powers is not so good as they would have the world believe. Our attitude should not be one of despondency or alarm."

Has Fear of Greater War.

Earl Curzon spoke for an hour and sixty minutes and was followed by the Marquis of Crewe, lord President of the council in the late government.

"We haven't much hope that Germany's peace offer will lead to anything," he said. "The offer, however, means an indication of the strength of the pressure of our blockade.

"If peace were made on German terms, while the present age may not see war again, nobody can say that our children will not witness another war and greater horrors. We must carry it on to the last man and the last shilling."

Baron Courtney of Penwith, a peace advocate, said that from what he could see the nation would never be able to attain its end through successful military operations.

"We want peace," he declared, "if the German chancellor wants peace, and can we not look sympathetically toward his words and his speech and if it is not possible for ourselves to come to an agreement, then not the intervention of some powerful friend help us find a solution and so end this terrible war?"

SAYS GERMANY IS NOW AT BAY

Premier Briand Calls Peace Proposal "a Last Bluff."

PARIS, Dec. 19.—Premier Briand in the senate today announced that a concerted reply will be made tomorrow by the entente to the German peace proposals. He said it is impossible to treat the request seriously.

The matter came up when M. Touron, senator from the invaded department of the Aisne, asked the premier for a public explanation concerning "the latest challenge launched by Germany." He said he had received a few days previously a call from a refugee from the invaded district, who had told him that no one in his department desired peace without the liberation of territory. Loud applause greeted this remark.

"No one is duped by Germany's maneuver," Premier Briand replied. "Tomorrow a concerted reply will make known to the central empires that it is impossible to take their request for peace seriously.

Central Powers at Bay.

"The central empires are at bay. Their request for peace is a last bluff that Germany wishes to try. She would like also to exonerate herself by making believe that the war was imposed upon her, but the war had been decided upon by her forty years ago. It was in the blood of the Germans, who felt certain they would conquer."

M. Briand recalled Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg's speech in which he said Germany was compelled to violate the neutrality of Luxemburg and Belgium and added:

"Germany will bear before the ages the responsibility of having unchained this war."

Briand Under Fire.

Henry Berenger, senator for Guadeloupe, earlier in the session accused the cabinet of weakness and dilatory policies.

M. Briand, in replying, deprecated reproaches against the government at this grave period, "because the men in power must be able to work with the necessary freedom of mind, have uninterrupted confidence at home and for their actions abroad, and our allies must not be allowed to think that our government is under suspicion and the menace of interpellation."

Points Out Difficulties.

"I am ready," M. Briand continued, "to make way at any time for him who may be judged more worthy than I. But I ask you, with the system employed up to this time, what government could resist? As for me, I have gone more than forty-four times before the committees (each committee composed of forty-four members), and lately was detained ten entire days in secret sessions of the chamber. I ask you, under these conditions, how a president of the cabinet can be a 'war president,' a president of energetic action? When you know the facts of the terrible task to which I am bound, then you may judge me and condemn me if you think fit."

VIEWS ON BRITAIN'S REPLY

What Chicagoans Think of Lloyd-George's Position Toward Kaiser's Overtures.

FEW Chicago followers of the affairs of war see promise of an early peace in Lloyd-George's statement of Britain's attitude toward Berlin's overtures. For the most part the new premier's position was commended, some even declaring they had expected a more militant expression. Appended are the opinions of several prominent men.

The Rev. F. W. Gunsaulus, Central church, Auditorium theater — Lloyd-George is the greatest orator I have heard in England since the days of Gladstone. He has the enthusiasm and vision of the English race. It was impossible to expect anything less brilliant or decisive from this man of the people. It is no time for him or for men of his faith to believe that a government of the people, by the people, and for the people, in Lincoln's phrase, should perish from the face of the earth. He therefore rejected the German plan.

John W. O'Leary, president Association of Commerce—This appears to mean an indefinite continuance of the war. But every expression from either side is one step nearer peace, although immediate peace is another proposition.

Graham Taylor, Chicago Commons—All concerned may well hesitate at this time, because they still have to reckon with their people and show to what extent the terrific losses have been justified. If peace should come before any more decisive military operations, it will be an everlasting discredit to war as a method of settling international disputes, because those nations would hark back to the status before the war without any justification for any of the participants for the awful losses that have been incurred.

J. Paul Goode, University of Chicago—The allies are pulling together. Germany's proposal at the time it came was significant. It meant that Germany then was on the crest of a wave and had attained the ultimate in power, strength, and punch, and was going down hill from that moment. I am sure now the allies eventually will get what they demand, and not accept peace proposals from Germany.

Harry A. Wheeler, Union Trust company—I am not at all surprised at the position taken. It is asking something definite before the answer is given. Without denoting anxiety to invite a proposal, it asks: "What have you to offer?"

Judge Hugo Pam—I do not think any set of men at the head of a nation has the right to say whether there should be peace or war. The people were drawn into war without any consultation of their wishes or desires. Now that it is a question of whether this war should continue, the people should be given an opportunity to decide.

B. E. Sunny, Chicago Telephone company—I am a little disappointed that it was not more definite. I had hoped that there would be a little more of the attitude shown in the Russian and French replies, which took a very strong ground that this is not the time to talk about peace—that they would have to proceed along the lines they are following now until a decision can be more clearly defined by the usual result of war.

Harrison B. Riley, president Chicago Title and Trust company—I think the speech was a little unwise. The proposition made by the German chancellor was in sweeping language and should have been taken seriously and negotiations opened. If then it should appear that the German proposition did not accord with the tone of the German chancellor's speech Germany would have been convicted before the world of a lack of sincerity. The allies had everything to gain and nothing to lose by entering into negotiations.

Thomas F. Holgate, acting president Northwestern university—Just what we expected. I think the speech was strong and kindly. We expected nothing less and perhaps nothing more at this time.

ASQUITH BRANDS FOE'S PEACE PLEA NECESSITY MOVE

Will Support Lloyd-George and Says No Patched Up Compromise Will Satisfy.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—The former premier, H. H. Asquith, in the house of commons today, after declaring that his first duty was to extend congratulations, which he did with all his heart, to Mr. Lloyd-George upon his accession to the highest and most important office in the service of the crown, made a pointed reference to the question of peace.

"The country," he said, "has just received some so-called peace proposals from Germany. True, these proposals are wrapped up with the familiar dialect of Prussian arrogance. But hom comes it after two years of war that a power which professes itself conscious of military superiority and ultimate victory begins to whisper—nay, even to shout so that all the world can hear—'peace.'

"Is this from a sudden access of chivalry? When did the German chancellor become so sensitive to the dictates of humanity?

All for Honorable Peace.

"We must look elsewhere for the origin of these proposals. They are born of military and economic necessity. We all yearn for peace, but it must be an honorable, not a shamefaced, peace. There must be no patched up, precarious compromise. It must be a peace that achieves the purpose for which we entered the war. Such a peace we would gladly accept. Anything short of it we are bound to repudiate by every obligation of honor, and above all by the debt we owe those who have given their lives to the cause.

"I see nothing in the note from Germany which gives me the least reason to believe that they are prepared to give us reparation and security. If they are in such a mood—if they are prepared to give us reparation for the past and security for the future—let them say so."

Will Support Lloyd-George.

Mr. Asquith, in congratulating Mr. Lloyd-George, said that if he spoke from where he did it was not because he claimed to be the leader of the opposition. Opposition there was none, and his one great desire was to place at the disposal of the government whatever experience he possessed.

While it was a relief to be free from the almost insupportable burden, continued Mr. Asquith, it also was a matter of regret to leave unfinished the task for which he had labored so long. He did not assume the rôle of apologist for the late government, and he denied that there had been slackness on its part.

CHINA PRAYING FOR PEACE.

China is praying for an end to the great war.

Dr. Wellington Koo, Chinese minister to the United States, told twenty-one members of the official family of the Continental and Commercial National bank of his country's attitude yesterday when he was the luncheon guest of George M. Reynolds.

"From the standpoint of humanity and as people who love peace and grieve to see human beings killed," he said, "the people of China hope and offer prayers for the ending of the horrible bloodshed.

DEFENDS FATE OF COLUMBIAN

Germany Says Ship Was Sunk Because It Sent Warning to U-Boat.

HELD UNNEUTRAL ACT.

BERLIN, Dec. 19.—[Wireless to Sayville.]—The German government's answer to the inquiry of the United States in regard to the sinking of the American steamship Columbian by a German submarine has been handed to Joseph C. Grew, the American chargé d'affaires. The note states, according to the Overseas News agency, that the steamer was stopped by a warning shot, and continues:

"While the submarine was proceeding under water it was observed that the steamer carried the American flag and bore the name 'Columbian, New York,' and also had wireless apparatus.

"On account of the difficulty of having boats come to the submarine for the purpose of making an investigation the commander of the submarine gave up his intention of inspecting her papers and signaled to the steamer, 'You are dismissed,' and, running above water, left the steamer. Thereupon the steamer resumed its former course.

"A short time afterward it was reported to the commander of the submarine by his wireless station that since the submarine had emerged wireless messages sent by the American steamer had been read which, in addition to the signal of distress, contained in plain English reports regarding the submarine such as, for instance, 'a submarine is cruising around us,' and the position of the submarine.

"These wireless messages prompted the commander to return, stop the steamer a second time, and reach an understanding that the steamer's wireless was to be used with diminished intensity, only for intercourse with the submarine."

"The submarine, the Columbian, and the Norwegian steamer Balto, which had been stopped previously and had a prize crew on board, traveled westward during the night and in the morning, after inspecting the papers of the Columbian, the German commander decided to sink the ship because of the assistance it had given contrary to neutrality.

"From the statements made above, the conduct of the commander of the submarine appears fully justified, for the Columbian by its wireless reports regarding the position of the submarine, which apparently were intended to call thither hostile naval forces, had voluntarily put itself into the service of the hostile defense against submarines."

ITALIANS AWAIT BASES FOR PEACE BEFORE REPLYING

Foreign Minister Says Entente Will Be Unit in Answer to Germany.

ROME, Dec. 18, via Paris, Dec. 19.—Foreign Minister Sonnino said in the chamber of deputies today that several resolutions in the chamber in regard to the peace proposals of the central powers seemed to be based on the supposition that the government had or would have concrete and precise indications as to the bases on which negotiations would be opened.

"As I said on Saturday, this supposition does not correspond with the facts," the foreign minister continued. "There is no sign of conditions or bases for negotiations in the enemy's note. I possess no information in regard to eventual conditions of peace beyond the note from the enemy, which I read in the chamber.

"Should propositions be made subsequently, we should consider what to do, but it would be neither practical nor proper to discuss that question today.

"Moreover, it should be understood clearly that no one of the entente allies could take into consideration any condition whatever which by hypothesis might be eventually offered to him under separate form.

"We all wish peace, and lasting peace. But we consider a lasting peace to be a careful settlement. If we were in the presence of genuine proposals, with bases of a nature to satisfy the general postulates of civilization and justice, none would reject them abruptly. But there is nothing to show even faintly that this is the case.

"I do not desire to use exaggerated language, but the accent of boastfulness and the lack of sincerity which characterize the preamble to the enemy's note certainly inspire no belief."

WEALTHY OIL MAN IS SLAIN: MYSTERY FOR KANSAS CITY.

Police Say It Is Murder—Wife of Dead Man Has Relatives in Chicago—Was Coming Here.

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 19.—Police authorities of Kansas City, Kas., were convinced tonight that Arthur B. Sim, wealthy secretary of an oil company of Wichita, Kas., was murdered and robbed and his body thrown off the Interurban viaduct from an automobile.

On that theory, after having found Sim's body, his skull crushed and his back broken, beside the railroad tracks beneath the viaduct this morning, the police were searching tonight for the driver of a closed motor car that sped past the viaduct tollkeeper between 1 and 2 o'clock this morning.

Mrs. Sim, who was here on a shopping trip, did not know of her husband's death, it was said, until she read of it in a newspaper. She went to her rooms in an uptown hotel immediately and would not discuss the tragedy.

Mrs. Sim was on her way to Chicago, where a married sister lives. It is said she intended to establish a legal residence there to secure a divorce. Her father, C. W. Jackson, also is said to live in Chicago.

CAPITALS REPORT OPERATIONS ON VARIOUS FRONTS

ROUMANIAN FRONT

GERMAN

BERLIN, Dec. 19.—The general staff today reported on activities in the Roumanian war theater as follows:

Front of Archduke Joseph—On the Gutin Tomnatek, in the wooded Carpathians, Russian patrols were repulsed, as were attacks by Russian battalions on the Valeputna road.

Army group of Field Marshal von Mackensen—During the last two days in local engagements more than 1,000 Russians and Roumanians were brought in as prisoners and many vehicles, most of them laden with provisions, were captured.

RUSSIAN

PETROGRAD, Dec. 19.—The war office today gave out the following report on Roumanian operations:

In the wooded Carpathians the enemy, about two companies strong, attempted to attack our position on the heights two versts east of Hollo, south of Mount Lamantelu. He was repulsed by our fire.

Roumanian front — Two enemy squadrons with a battery of horse artillery deployed in the region of the village of Batogu, west of Vizuru, but retired in disorder under the fire of our artillery. Two cannons and a limber were abandoned by the enemy.

MACEDONIAN FRONT

GERMAN

BERLIN, Dec. 19.—The general staff today reported as follows on Macedonian operations:

On the Struma river front enterprises were undertaken with results favorable for the Bulgarian and Turkish troops.

FRENCH

PARIS, Dec. 19.—The war office today says regarding operations in Macedonia:

No important events occurred yesterday.

FRENCH FRONT

FRENCH

PARIS, Dec. 19.—The official statement tonight from the war office on western front operations reads:

There was spirited artillery activity on both sides on the right bank of the Meuse, especially in the regions of Bezonvaux, the Caurieres wood, and Chambrettes. There was no infantry action.

On the rest of the front intermittent artillery actions took place.

Belgian communication:

In the course of this afternoon the artillery was active in the region of Lizerne and Steenstraete. Nothing particular occurred on the rest of the front.

The day communication, covering last night's operations, says:

South of the River Somme yesterday evening German troops undertook a surprise attack upon our trenches north of Chilly. One detachment of the enemy was successful in penetrating a unit of our advanced trenches, but they were immediately driven out.

On the right bank of the River Meuse the enemy artillery was active during the night in the region of Louvemont and Chambrettes. There is nothing to report from the remainder of the front.

During the day of Dec. 17 two German aeroplanes were brought down by French pilots on the Verdun front. One of the enemy machines fell at Herbebois and the other came down at a point near Ornes.

During the night of Dec. 18-19 French bombing squadrons threw down 1,300 pounds of projectiles on the railroad stations at Dun-Sur-Meuse and at Montmedy and upon certain barracks near Azannes

BRITISH

LONDON, Dec. 19.—The report from British headquarters in France issued tonight reads:

We successfully blew three mines early this morning south of Neuville-St.-Vaast. A small mine blown by the enemy yesterday south of Ypres did no damage to our trenches.

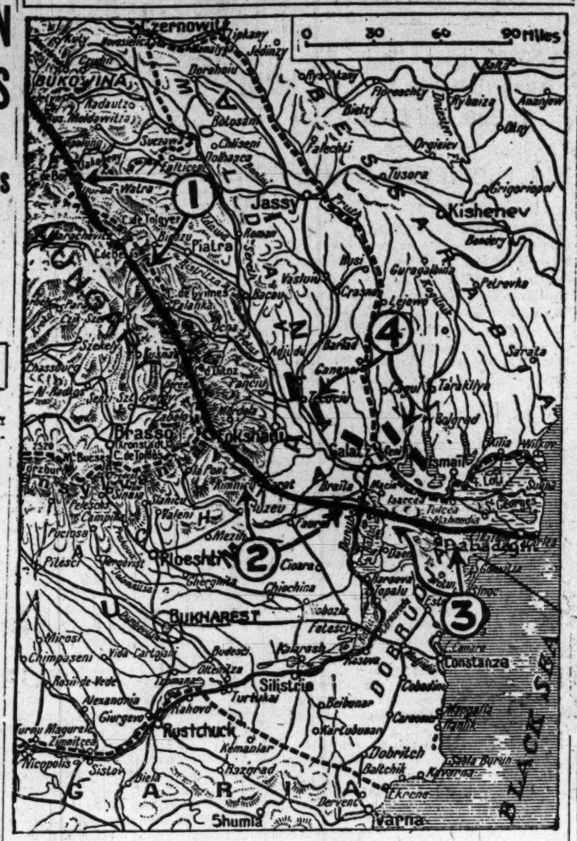
GERMAN

BERLIN, Dec. 19.—The general staff today gave out the following report on operations on the western front:

Army group of Crown Prince Rupprecht—On both banks of the Somme the artillery and mine thrower fire was temporarily livelier. Northwest and north of Reims French detachments, advancing upon our trenches after strong artillery preparation, were repulsed.

Army group of the German crown prince—On the east bank of the Meuse [Verdun front], during the afternoon the artillery engagement increased in intensity. The French attacked Fosse's wood. Chambrettes, which lies before our position, remained in their hands after hand to hand fighting. At all other places on the front of the attack they were repulsed.

TEUTON CAMPAIGN IN ROUMANIA



1—In the wooded Carpathians Berlin reports repulse of Russian patrols. Petrograd reports enemy attacks in this sector were beaten back.

2—Local engagements before the Sereth river line netted the Germans 1,000 Russian and Roumanian prisoners, Berlin says.

3—Berlin reports that in northern Dobrudja the Russo-Roumanian army continues its retreat beyond its new fortifications.

4—Roumanian armies continue to re-equip along Sereth river, where a final stand against Teutons is expected to be made.

RUSSIAN FRONT

RUSSIAN

PETROGRAD, Dec. 19.—The following statement on military operations against the Germans was issued today by the war office:

In the region of Grankovs, which is on the Tarnopol-Zlochoff railway, our batteries dispersed an infantry column about a battalion strong.

GERMAN

BERLIN, Dec. 19.—Regarding operations against Russia the general staff reports:

ITALIAN FRONT

ITALIAN

ROME, Dec. 19.—The war office today issued the following statement on military operations against Austria:

In the Trentino there were the usual artilelry actions which were particularly heavy in the area of the upper Astico valley, where our batteries effectively shelled an enemy column on the march.

On the Julian front there were only artillery duels. Our batteries shelled enemy entrenchements on Monte Cucco, on the middle Isonzo and the railway station of Volciadraga and Ovoiadraga, southeast of Goritz, and dispersed enemy troops on the march on the Carso.

Hostile aircraft dropped bombs in the upper Cordevole valley and on Auronzo [in the Dolomites], where one of our hospitals was hit and some persons were wounded. The damage was slight.

COUNCIL OF EMPIRE BACKS DUMA IN SPURNING PEACE.

Unanimously Refuses to Enter Into Any Negotiations with Germany Under Present Conditions.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—The council of the empire today adopted an order of the day identical with that passed by the duma, declaring the council unanimously in favor of refusing to enter under present conditions into any peace negotiations with Germany, says a dispatch to Reuter's Telegraph company from Petrograd.

DEFENDS RAIDS ON BELGIUM AS GERMANY'S DUTY

Governor Replies to Protests Claiming Procuring of Work Aids Conquered.

HAVRE, Dec. 19.—The reply of Gen. von Bissing, German governor general in the occupied portion of Belgium, to the protests of Belgians senators and deputies now living in Brussels against the deportation of Belgians has been received by the Belgian government. It is addressed to M. Favereau, president of the senate, and follows:

"Your Excellency: In reply to your letter of Nov. 9 asking me to renounce the sending of workers to Germany, I would explain to you why I am not able to yield to your request. Since the beginning of the war a large part of the Belgian laborers have abandoned work. One reason was the stoppage of numerous industrial undertakings for lack of material caused by the isolation created by the enemy. Another is the refusal to work.

Duty to Provide Work.

"The long continuance of this situation began to be felt by evil effects, and as administrator of the occupied territory I had a duty, conformable to international law, to take adequate measures.

Clear sighted Belgians in the spring of 1915 drew my attention to the dangers of idleness and distaste for work. They showed that assistance, from whatever direction it came, constituted finally a burden upon the economic life of Belgium, and brought with it also idleness.

Collaboration with Belgians.

"Guided by those motives and in collaboration with competent Belgian ministers my decrees against idleness were issued in August, 1915, and supplemented by a decree of May 15, 1916. These decrees did not anticipate compulsory labor, except when a person refused to work without sufficient reason.

"A large part of the simple people have in them sane business, and it is by tens of thousands that Belgian workers have gone already into Germany, where they were placed upon the same footing as German workers. They have earned wages higher than those which they have ever received in Belgium, supporting themselves and their families, while their companions live in misery in Belgium.

"You must acknowledge, after these details, that, thanks to the transportation of idle Belgians to Germany, Belgian economic interests are entirely safeguarded."

Girls' New Tub Frocks

Ready in Time for Gift Choosing

These frocks are from the fine new collections of tub frocks, which are attracting so much enthusiastic interest to the little girls' apparel sections.

They are most charming evidence of the care and thought which has gone into planning even the most moderately priced frocks in this advance season showing.

At $1.75—Frocks of Gingham Plaid and Plain

This is a one-piece frock with the blouse on "middy" lines. The ribbon lacings are daintily touched with color to match that of the frock. In sizes 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. Sketched at the right.

At $1.95—Chambray Frocks with Bloomers

At $1.95—Frocks of Gingham in Tiny Checks

A bit of smocking in this frock, too, and a cunning pocket tucked into the belt—surely here is a frock to delight any little maid of 6, 8 or 10 years. With bloomers. Sketched at the right center.

At $2.95—Frocks of Gingham Striped and Plain

Partly striped and partly plain and both parts so cleverly combined we have the most unusual frock sketched at the left center. In pink or blue, and sizes 6 to 14 years.

Other frock groups offer almost infinite suggestions in tub frocks and party frocks, with the pricings unusually moderate.

BAKER FOR PLAN OF COMPULSORY ARMY SERVICE

Not Sure Whether Universal Training or Selective Conscription Is Better.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—The agitation for some form of compulsory military service in the United States received qualified support from Secretary Baker today before the house military committee, encouraging opponents of the present volunteer system to predict that legislation for a change might be framed which would be sanctioned by Mr. Baker and possibly by President Wilson himself.

The president has said he would not attempt to reach a decision on the subject until a definite plan was placed before him.

Secretary Baker was questioned as to his views on compulsory military service.

Obligation Is Universal.

"The obligation to serve the country is a universal one," he said, in reply. "The question of how to bring about preparation for national defense is one of policy rather than theory. Whether universal military service or a selective conscription is the correct answer I do not know. The theory of a common interest in a common country would be satisfied by a method of selecting soldiers that was not voluntary in character."

The secretary told the committee, however, that since congress had rejected the continental army plan in favor of the national guard system, he believed the guard should be given a fair trial. Secretary Baker was warm in his praise of the enlisted regulars and informed the house committee that he had approved a suggestion that their pay be raised to $25 a month.

Scott Gives Border Data.

Maj. Gen. Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff, was again before the senate committee, urging universal service legislation, and submitting the report on the mobilization of the national guard for border duty compiled by Col. W. C. Brown from all information available at the war department.

The conclusion of the general staff, Gen. Scott said, that no adequate defense could be built up under the present volunteer system was fully substantiated by the reports of departmental commanders, inspector-instructors, and others, which disclosed vital and inherent faults in the guard system.

The mobilization report shows that of 128,000 enlisted men of the militia inspected on the border, 81,179, or 63 per cent, were either transferred from militia organizations not called out or were new recruits, leaving only 37 per cent of the force "representing the national guard or the organized militia element on the rolls of the organizations in question at the date of call."

As to the training of the force before it reached the border, the report says, 46 per cent, or 81,263 men, had had less than three months' military training of any kind and more than 60,000 none at all.

Turning to the marksmanship of the state troops, the report shows that 56,813 never fired a military rifle at all.

Gen. Scott said that despite an almost house to house canvass to get recruits, the regular army still is short about 26,000 men of the peace requirement under the new law.

Senator Thomas asked if national defense was not regarded by most persons as an impersonal question.

"Yes," replied the general. "We 'let George do it.'"

Gen. Scott gave his indorsement to a measure which has been tentatively worked up by the general staff of the army, which would make "all able bodied male inhabitants of the United States" liable "to be trained for a period of six months during the calendar year in which they shall reach the age of 18 years."

Tomorrow the hearing of the senate committee will be devoted entirely to civilians. Howard H. Gross of Chicago, president of the Universal Military Training league, is among those who will appear.

Miss De Visco Will Show Jury in Courtroom in $50,000 Suit Her Leg Is Not Wood.

Miss Loretta DeVisco

To prove that she has not a cork leg, Miss Loretta De Visco will exhibit it to the jury. Miss De Visco, through her attorney, P. S. Roe, has filed suit for $50,000 breach of promise against Hugo D. Klein, president of the Sterne & Klein company, clothing manufacturers. Miss De Visco walks with a slight limp, due to an automobile accident six years ago which resulted in the amputation of her foot at the ankle. Miss De Visco says Mr. Klein invited her to ride downtown in his automobile. She alleges they became very friendly and that he made love to her and promised to marry her. She says he bought her clothes and took her to all the leading hotels in Chicago and to dinner dances at the Illinois Athletic club. She says they made two trips on a boat across the lake. Miss De Visco denies she was ever in the state's attorney's office or that she ever saw any one connected with that office.

WARN CARRANZA BLAME IS ON HIM IF BREAK COMES

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 19.—Secretary of the Interior Lane and his colleagues on the Mexican-American joint commission placed on Gen. Carranza today the responsibility of deciding whether the American government should continue its efforts to effect a satisfactory and amicable adjustment of the questions affecting the relations of the two countries, and then adjourned until after the holidays.

Through his representatives on the commission they sent to Carranza a communication further explaining the position of the United States government and containing protestations that there exists no intention to violate the sovereignty of Mexico.

It was made clear, however, that there can be no modification of the conditions on which the American troops will be withdrawn from Mexico and that the attitude of the government as outlined in the declaration of policy made by Secretary Lane when the protocol was signed at Atlantic City, has not been altered.

Rebels Capture Three Towns.

El Paso, Tex., Dec. 19.—Puebla and Orizaba have fallen into the hands of soldiers of Felix Diaz and Jalapa is in the hands of other revolutionary forces, according to reports received today by United States government agents here.

Seven foreigners, all of whom at various times had been reported killed by bandits in Mexico, arrived at Eagle Pass, Tex., today, according to a telegram received by officials of a railroad company here.

More Illinoisans Ordered Home.

San Antonio, Tex., Dec. 19.—The first unit of the 16,000 national guard troops ordered home from Mexican border service to report "ready to entrain" was A company, Illinois Signal corps. Orders were issued immediately for the transfer of rolling stock to Camp Wilson here, and it is expected that the corps will start northward next Thursday, Dec. 21.

BOSTON VOTERS RETAIN SALOONS

Campaign on Liquor Question Liveliest in Years—Vote Is Nearly 2 to 1.

FACTIONS PARADE CITY.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 19.—Boston today voted to continue the licensed sale of liquor after the liveliest campaign on the liquor question that the city has had in years. The vote in favor of license was 53,459, with 29,997 against. Last year the vote for license was 46,115 and 31,877 against.

The total vote was the largest ever cast here on the license question, which overshadowed all other issues in the campaign.

Women holding banners bearing pictures of small children and the words: "Please Protect Us by Voting No License" were stationed in the vicinity of most of the polling booths. Motor trucks and brewery wagons carrying printed appeals to vote "yes" were sent through the city by the license forces.

The Rev. William A. Sunday, who is conducting an evangelistic campaign here, took a prominent part in the fight. He delivered several addresses on the liquor issue and urged the voters who attended his meetings to vote "No."

Wet or Dry Capital?

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—The way was cleared in the senate today for a final vote on Senator Sheppard's bill for prohibition in the District of Columbia, and unless there is an unexpected filibuster it will be put on passage tomorrow. Friends of the measure expect it to pass.

The main fight came over Senator Underwood's amendment providing a referendum of the question to district residents. After many minor changes had been made in its phraseology the amendment was beaten in committee of the whole, 38 to 38. Senator Underwood gave notice that he would ask for a separate vote on it when the bill, with amendments, came up for final action.

Suffrage Amendment Adopted.

Before the vote on the referendum the senate adopted, 54 to 15, a change suggested by Senator Williams which would permit all persons, "regardless of sex," to participate, and approved, also amendments confining suffrage to the literate and those who are not delinquent in tax payments, and extending it to residents of other states domiciled in the district.

SUSPECT FOUR MEN NOW OF DOWNSTATE DUAL MURDER.

Bodies of Aged Becker Couple Will Be Buried Today—Two Arrests in Kenosha, Wis.

Bloomington, Ill., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Four men are believed to have had part in the murder of John P. Becker and his wife, wealthy octogenarian farmers near Mason City. An arrest which it is said will be sensational is expected soon.

The two suspects under arrest, Charles L. Thomas and his 13 year old brother, Jack Thomas, are being held at Havana. Walter Mangold, a grandson of the Beckers, is still under close surveillance in Mason City.

This makes three suspects. Who the fourth man is whose arrest is planned is a mystery which the authorities are guarding.

The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Becker were removed to the farm today. The funeral will be held tomorrow.

Two Arrests in Kenosha.

Kenosha, Wis., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Earl Wentworth and William H. Simons, claiming Flint, Mich., as their home, are held here. It is thought possible that they may know something about the murder of John Becker and his wife at Mason City, Ill.

They came here from Chicago this morning.

HOW WILSON WOULD RATHER BE RIGHT THAN PRESIDENT.

Brotherhood Chief Tells How Executive Was Rolled by Mixing of Eight Hour Edict with Politics.

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—How President Wilson told representatives of the railroad brotherhoods who went before him last summer that he did not care whether their votes reelected him and was concerned only with settling the eight hour question correctly was told tonight by Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, in a debate with Robert S. Walker on the subject at the Society for Ethical Culture.

"I had never seen President Wilson angry until then," Mr. Stone told the audience. "He had just said he favored granting us the eight hour day when some one in the back hall cried out: 'If you say that publicly we'll reelect you president in November.'

"President Wilson reddened, and in a firm voice delcared: 'Gentlemen, we might as well understand this right now. I would rather have it said fifty years from now that my position was right on the eight hour work day than be reelected president?'"

MRS. BARNES WAS DECEIVED

"Mrs. Barnes kept the card and after several days called the number.

"They made an appointment to have lunch. He suggested a trip to Milwaukee. She refused. He asked her to have dinner that night. She consented. He bought an elaborate dinner and was very courteous.

"They frequently went to theaters. They corresponded. He suggested marriage. She objected because he was on the road too much of the time. He said he would quit the road and establish a business of his own. She told him of her previous marriage and he said if he were her husband he would protect her.

"Finally the marriage ceremony was performed. But the glamour of the new found love soon faded.

"When they returned from their honeymoon they went to the Warner hotel. There he was seen to strike and curse her.

"That was the beginning of a stormy wedded life.

The Parrot.

"To relieve the monotony, Mrs. Barnes had pets. She hoped the parrot would break her husband of the habit of cursing and swearing. On July 19 she went to the park with her parrot. The evidence will show that this gay Lothario came up behind her and stared insolently at her.

He asked if the parrot was real, and she made a short answer. He then sat down without an invitation. He was so offensive that Mrs. Barnes attempted to get up and leave.

". . . This was how the bird got away and flew into the tree. She turned to the man and said, 'please help me get my bird.' 'I will if you will hold my coat and hat,' he replied.

"He retrieved the bird and she returned his hat and coat. He asked if he could accompany her home. She said he could not. He then said he lived on Sixty-first street with a widowed mother, and would have to walk the same way she did. It was at this time that this gay mariner displayed his brawny, sun burned arms. He invited her to go swimming, and she repulsed him.

She Repulses Him.

"He said, 'Look at my clothing and my hands.' He asked permission to wash his hands and clean his clothes. She said if her husband returned he would not understand and she would be unable to explain. He followed her in, however.

"He finally threw her on the bed. . . . This dance, or lope, as he called it, was Mrs. Barnes fighting him off. Finally she said, 'Are you a Mason?' and he said, 'Yes.' She replied, 'I am the daughter of a Mason,' and he then said, 'I never force any one.'

"He started to leave, but when he reached the door he returned, and for the second time attempted to attack Mrs. Barnes. At this time the key turned in the door and her husband, who should have been her protector, entered.

"Mrs. Barnes went to him and said, 'There is a man in the room; go in and get him.'

She Hired Detectives.

"Mrs. Barnes will testify that she tried to convince her husband of her innocence and hired detectives to find Shelhammer.

"When she found him and had him arrested Mrs. Barnes wired her husband, who was in New York, and told him she could prove her innocence. He wired he would do nothing without the advice of his attorney. He did not return, but subsequently filed a bill for divorce.

"Mr. Barnes telephoned his wife on Sept. 5. She went to the drug store. Soon Mr. Barnes came and beckoned to her, and she came out. They went to the apartment.

"Mrs. Barnes had her grip packed. On top of the clothing was the revolver he had told her how to get when she told him of the prevalence of holdups. She kept it there because she had been alone for two or three nights.

Continued Quarreling.

"They continued quarreling. She wanted him to sit down, but he said it was too hot and wanted to go walking. He told her to come along if she wanted to, but she would have to walk back alone. She demurred. He said, 'Take this with you,' pointing at the revolver.

"At length he said, 'Here is where I leave you.' She put her arms on his shoulder and said, 'Come on, Jim, take me home.' He cursed her and struck her in the breast. He knocked her into the shrubbery. She got up and he walked toward her with his right hand upraised. When he reached her he placed his left hand on her throat and started to choke her.

"She said, 'Jim, you know what I have here.' He released his hold on her throat and both his hands clutched her hand in which the revolver was held. They whirled around and Barnes was in a stooping position. There were shots fired and he fell on the sidewalk.

She Stands Dazed.

"She stood in a daze for a moment. She dimly saw lights in the distance, and she turned and ran towards them. She saw a policeman on her way and told him her husband was shot.

"When she was taken to the Hyde Park station she was nervous. A physician, an ambulance doctor, administered a powerful sedative."

The morning session opened with the cross examination of Ray Shellhammer, the debonair bartender.

Q. Did you go into the park to look for women?

A. No.

Q. Did you sit down beside Mrs. Barnes without an invitation? A.—Without a verbal invitation.

Q.—And she did not resist when you put your arms around her? A.—She certainly did not.

Q.—Did you release your hold on her when you heard her husband's key being put in the door? A.—I didn't hold her.

KATIE KNOWS THIS CHRISTMAS IS HER LAST ONE

Yet This 11 Year Old Girl Smiles, Like the 'Darlint' That She Is.

"Eist! You gay gossoons of the Emerald Isle, here's an Irishman wid his back agin the dure, afightin' of a wolf devil and askin' ye for the loan of a shillelah, the which to tan the hoide."

This is going to be Katie's last Christmas. She knows it. She is 11 years old and out back o' the yards where she lives, she is known as the "golden haired darlint."

There's no sign of death in her happy blue eyes; her flaxen curls seem to grasp greedily every ray of sunshine that sifts through the smoke clouds and ventures into that unwholesome back yard room out on West Forty-fifth street.

And Katie smiles. Her face is wan, but her smile is kindling. She is not a cripple; no deformity mars the child's beauty. She is not confined to bed; she can walk about, but slowly—very slowly. She cannot lie down; she cannot go out of doors; she is dying.

She knows it and she smiles.

The Darlint Child.

"She's the darlint child," said the mother of Katie H. as she pressed the corner of her apron to her eyes.

"You let she is, mister," piped up little Patrick, 7 years old and dirty faced, from his chair behind the stove, where his bare feet dangled, awaiting the return of shoes that had been sent on one more trip to the shoemaker's.

Helen, 12 years old, and Elizabeth, 15 years old, helped their mother elevate freshly washed and steaming clothes to the line that partitioned the combination kitchen, dining room, bedroom, living room, and laundry.

"It's the lungs and the heart," said Mrs. H. with a shake of the head, "and the doctor said there is nothing to do. She might leave us at any minute. Sure 'tis strange to be talking here about it in her presence, but what with the doctors and the priests and the holy sisters and all of us worried about it all the time, Kate knows it just as well as we do.

Sometimes she watches the children playing in the snow out on the roof of the shed, but most of the time she spends near the kitchen stove, making wonderful doll babies and doll baby garments. She likes dolls and books.

True Irish Pluck.

Katie's dad is a man with spirit. One week before Thanksgiving day he started back to work after six weeks in bed with an attack of appendicitis. He went back on the job in a weakened condition and against the doctor's orders.

On Thanksgiving day while in the railroad yards he was caught between cars and brought home with four broken ribs. One week ago he defied the doctor's orders again and went back on the job, and yesterday he was tramping the snow in the railroad yards again, gritting his teeth every time the pain reminded him of the cast he wears about his body.

There are just four days more in which you can be a Good Fellow. This is going to be Katie's last Christmas. There are thousands of other poor kiddies in Chicago who will have no Christmas at all this year unless you prove that you are a Good Fellow.

COMPLETE WORK ON CITY'S HUGE CHRISTMAS TREE

Towering Pine Will Be Blaze of Multi-Colored Lights When the Switch Is Thrown.

The actual construction of Chicago's municipal Christmas tree was completed yesterday and today a small army of electrical workers will weave the metal threads to carry the energy that will make the towering pine a blaze of multi-colored lights.

At noon the vice president of the Chicago Christmas Festival association, which, in conjunction with the Chicago Examiner, is responsible for the project, will meet at the University club and review the final details for the illumination of the tree on Christmas eve.

Chorus of 1,000 Voices.

Miss Frances Brundage, general superintendent of the Civic Music association, will lay before the vice president her recommendations for the musical program, which will be conducted by choral societies numbering 1,000 singers and the musicians of the Chicago Band association. Father William J. Finn, who will lead the Paulist choristers when they sing from the balcony of the Auditorium hotel, has completed a program of Christmas carols.

Arcade of Smaller Trees.

The main tree rises from the center of a semi-circle arcade of smaller trees and greenery. From the uppermost branches, one hundred feet above the ground, a star of Bethlehem, five feet in height, shoots back, bright rays of light from the cut brilliants with which it is set.

The promoters of the spectacle, among them J. Allen Hains, expect an attendance of 100,000 persons Sunday night.

POSTOFFICE TO TAKE CARE OF LETTERS TO SANTA CLAUS

Burleson Orders Mailed Missives Turned Over to Philanthropic Institutions and Individuals.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Postmaster General Burleson has taken steps to see that letters to Santa Claus deposited properly in the postoffices of the country will be answered. He issued orders to postmasters today to turn over to charitable institutions or reputable individuals in the town or city of address all such letters.

Until a few years ago all such letters were forwarded to the dead letter office in Washington. Then one Christmas it occurred to Congressman Madden of Chicago to gather those deposited in the Chicago office and answer the worthy ones. Next year the postoffice department adopted the plan.

Fifteen of the foremost men and women both here and abroad tell how they explain the paradox of the great war and the Christmas spirit, in a notable symposium in this week's issue of

—Stephen Decatur.

FOR OUR NATION'S LIFE.

For the first time the subject of national defense is being presented to congress on its own merits. Much of the sentimental rubbish which surrounded it at the time of the outbreak of the European war has been cleared away. It is realized that if we are to continue as a nation we must have defense, and the question has resolved itself into one of method.

Roughly, the United States has only two choices—an adequate professional army backed by a nation of wholly untrained civilians liable to draft in emergency or a small regular establishment backed by a constantly changing army of nonprofessional soldiers, men who return after their service to all kinds of civilian life.

There is still a large group of men and women who will do anything to avoid universal military service. They have a horror of it. They hate to think that their sons may be called upon to spend six months or a year in barracks life with the colors and under military discipline. In general they are for a larger regular establishment.

The United States could support a large professional army. It could get one and keep one if it paid a sufficient wage. To double or triple the present wage would attract large numbers of young men to the colors, especially if the term of enlistment were shorter. The army wage now is spending money, pocket money. Soldiers can save it all if they like. They are cared for in food, shelter, and clothing. If there were any assurance of coming out of the army with a thousand dollars or so saved up in two or three years boys would be glad of the opportunity. We can have a large professional army if we are willing to pay for one. The price would be vast.

Those who believe in universal service, however, believe in it for reasons other than those of pure national defense. A large professional army to their minds is of enormous danger. We might as well pay tribute to Japan for defense against other nations. A large body of efficient Japanese might be obtained for a price less than the cost of a professional army of our own. Advocates of universal service prefer the exaction of service from each citizen for a stated period of his life on the ground that every citizen owes not only taxes but service to the state.

The fact of service, whether voluntary or not, is of the utmost importance to national spirit and national solidarity. Military service makes better citizens. It also insures absolutely against militarism. While every man is a soldier and every soldier becomes a voter, there is no danger of dominance by a military caste. There is no danger that military interests, such as those inherent in a professional army, controlled largely of course by bureaucrats, will dictate national policies. The citizen army such as would be made up from conscription of citizens is simply a competent organization of the nation for a particular purpose.

Gen. Wood and Gen. Scott are interested in promoting universal service because, although they are professional military men, they are Americans. They do not want a professional army in control any more than the rest of the country does. We have always had a citizen army in the past—at least a reserve of citizens. The trouble with it is that the reserve was almost of no use at all. Our most pretentious experiment in a voluntary citizen army has just proved "a tragic failure," in the words of Gen. Wood. Neither he nor Gen. Scott regarded the mobilization of the militia with the sweet complacency of Secretary Baker. They knew that if the mobilization of the militia had been against anything it would not only have been a tragic failure but a bloody tragedy. And the next time we are required to mobilise it will not be against a vanished enemy.

The voluntary citizen army has failed, as it has always failed here and everywhere. It is not good enough and it cannot be made good enough. But a citizen army can be made good enough if we try hard enough. The objections of opponents to universal service are that it will not provide a sufficiently large first line. But they are going on the assumption that we will not try hard enough, that our citizen armies will be in the future as futile as they have been and now are. But if we try hard enough to get an efficient citizen army we can do so, just as we can support an adequate professional army if we pay enough.

The danger of course is that we will not try hard enough, that we will funk it. We cannot have an efficient citizen army if it amounts only to a series of voluntary or even compulsory Plattsburgs. We want, of course, to spend the minimum of time in military schooling. But if we cut it down too much we had as well spend no time at all. That is why we must listen to Gen. Wood and Gen. Scott. They know how much time is necessary to the training of a private, of a noncommissioned officer, and of an officer. They know the best methods of training them. When Gen. Wood says that six months with the colors is the shortest possible time we cannot safely compromise and make it six months at a summer school or two months with the colors. If we are going to do that we had much better not do anything, for in addition to wasting time and money we should be deceiving ourselves.

In the matter of national defense there is no good in half measures. If we need defense we need defense and not pretense. It is pretense which invites trouble. It will do no good, for instance, to train a lot of men on the theory that it is training and not service. If organizations cannot be called upon to serve when needed there is little use in training them. Men must not only be trained as individuals but they must be trained in organizations. It is the organizations which count. Eleven super-football players who had never played together and who knew no signals can be defeated by eleven comparatively inferior men who act as one.

Congress has the evidence before it so clearly that it cannot pretend to misunderstand it. Its choice is between a professional army at high cost —four hundred thousand men at $50 a month would mean $20,000,000 a month in wages alone—and an effective citizen army costing a certain amount of time from every man. Congress has one other course, to create a fake professional army or a fake civilian army, but that course is the course of treachery.

LLOYD-GEORGE ON PEACE.

The only two nations which are distinct gainers in the war are Germany and Great Britain—forgetting Japan as an incidental belligerent. Germany has Russian, Belgian, French, Serbian, Montenegrin, and Roumanian territory to keep, to dispose of to her allies, or to trade in for compensations.

Great Britain has German African colonies, the making of a great African dominion. Great Britain has learned organization. It is a much stronger empire now than it was before the war, a much more formidable power. Its losses in men have found compensation in a stronger social structure.

Great Britain has not won victories. It has won benefits. Germany has won victories and benefits. France has won victories, but lost men and territory. Russia has won victories, suffered reverses, lost territory, and its gains do not compensate for its losses.

Great Britain, the winner of practical benefits, waited for France and Russia, the losers, to say what they thought of the German peace note.

Lloyd-George, in his awaited speech, echoes French and Russian statements. His declaration is against peace with the prospects offered. Reparation must be made for damage done. Europe must be protected against Prussian militarism. The peace of the world must not be at the whim of a swaggering officer caste. These are flashes of the British indignation which broke out against Germany at the start of the war.

The British know that a military spirit cannot be broken down by an enemy edict. If there is a dominant Prussian military spirit the only way it can be destroyed from the outside is the way the Polish military spirit was destroyed—by destroying the nationality of the people. Napoleon tried to break Prussian military organization and was completely and disastrously deceived even when he had Prussia under the yoke.

If Lloyd-George means that Europe must have assurance against another outbreak of the Prussian militarist he must have in mind either a social revolution in Germany or the overrunning of Germany by her enemies. The inclination is to put this down as a phrase.

If the Germans do not like their form of military socialism they will dispose of it themselves in the course of time, and if they do like it their instinct to recreate it can be destroyed only by destroying them.

The apparent things that Great Britain needs to conclude a paying peace are the restoration of Belgium to protect the British coast and waterways from the menace of a great power, a naval agreement with Germany to escape costly building rivalry, the protection of France that a continental ally can be preserved, the retention of all of Africa that it is possible to retain, and protection against the extension of German influence through a dominated Turkey in the direction of Persia and India.

Compensation to Belgium for injuries suffered because of the war may be a sentimental necessity. It adds nothing to Great Britain's practical benefits except as it would strengthen Belgium to interpose resistance if Germany again tried to break down her neutrality and threaten British waters.

Great Britain might enter a peace conference, and, trusting to reliable British diplomacy, come out a greater, stronger empire than existed before the war. If the British withdraw the allies collapse. Not even French heroism and Russian courage and resolution could stand the transfer of the control of the sea from the British to the Germans. The French, for the lack of coal alone, might be defeated.

British consideration of peace terms must be understood to proceed from this basis of fact. The war has been sentimentally disastrous. Materially it has been successful. It has superficial aspects of defeat—some high achievements in defense, as when the drive on Calais was stopped—some notable disasters in which military leadership was found to be a void.

But it must be remembered that aside from sentiment the British are in a different position from that occupied by France and Russia. Nevertheless they reject the peace proposals, which France and Russia cannot accept unless they concede that they have exhausted their efforts and will come in another year or two of war to no result other than greater loss of men and money.

The conviction that peace was only remotely suggested by the German proposal for negotiation is sustained by the statements of the French, Russian, and British governments. Great Britain has won, but France and Russia have not, and British sentiment has been too outraged for acceptance of present conditions.

It seems that the war map must change some more before peace can be considered.

HERMAN SCHUETTLER.

So long as Herman Schuettler wanted to remain indefinitely a police officer he did not want the position of chief of the department. Schuettler now is ready to retire from the department at the end of the term of the present administration and for that reason is willing to take the office of general superintendent and wind up his police work as chief.

It is said that Mayor Thompson has decided to give him the place. Schuettler's record has constantly maintained public confidence in him. He understands the police force and he can direct it as an efficient organization. He can command the coöperation of the members of the force.

We should be inclined to put a good deal of reliance upon his desire to make a commendable administration of the department. He knows police work from the ground up. We believe that if the mayor appointed Schuettler and then kept hands off him when he ought to be undisturbed and kept other politicians' hands off him when he ought to be protected the new chief's desire would be to give Chicago an experience with genuine police management.

A prediction is risky. The position is one which has an almost unbroken record of breaking men. Schuettler might come to smash, but we believe that he would make Chicago a safer place for citizens and a more dangerous place for crooks and thugs than it has been for many years.

OUR JOE MILLER CONTEST.

Abe Fletcher says that the oldest joke is the one about the Hebrew traveling man who returned after a bad trip. "Levi," sighed the traveling man, "I wish I could die and go to hell!" "For why?" demanded his employer. "Because everywhere I go the merchants say, 'Business has gone to hell,'" replied the traveling man.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Sir: The two outstanding developments of the past week were the kaiser's proffer of peace to the encircling enemy and the Line's grant of a 50 per cent wage increase to its phalanx of needy contribs. HOUSING IN LIVERPOOL.

FIFTY years ago Liverpool became convinced that something must be done about housing. The city had grown very rapidly during a period when men knew little, and cared less, about the sanitation of a city, and, in consequence, houses had been thrown together without regard to health and occupants were allowed to do about as they pleased. Shipping from all the world centered in Liverpool. It was noticed that certain slums were foci from which epidemics of typhus, cholera, and smallpox spread out over the city periodically, while constantly consumption, typhoid, diphtheria, and scarlet fever, bred there, was being carried into other parts of the city.

They started in to get rid of the poor houses. They began by tearing down insanitary houses and boarding up cellars out of which people had been compelled to move. In all 20,000 insanitary houses have been pulled down by the city. In the last eight years 1,500 houses have been closed. In 1916, 100 have been closed and are waiting to be torn down. Only about 2,000 insanitary houses are left in the city. Of the 11,000 cellars occupied as dwellings, all have been emptied except 300.

But Liverpool found out early that driving people out of poor houses was not enough. The old houses must be torn down, new ones built, and, as far as is possible, the occupants of the old houses must be moved into the new ones. They adopted the municipal policy of buying the insanitary house and the ground on which it stood, tearing down the house and building a cheap, sanitary house in its stead. They now have 3,000 corporation houses. These two, three, and four room dwellings rent for from 43 cents to $1.75 a week. Three years ago there were 10,223 people living in these rooms.

The death rate among the people in these slum districts before the houses were built ranged from forty to sixty. The tuberculosis rate was four. In 1913 the death rate was 27.7, the birth rate was 57.7. The consumption rate was two and the baby death rate was 145.7 per 1,000 births. The typhoid rates have decreased even more than have the general death rate and the consumption death rate. Typhus and cholera have wholly disappeared, and smallpox practically so. Other contagious diseases have greatly diminished.

Dr. Hope, the health officer, reports in the Journal of State Medicine: "The habits of the people are vastly improved; less drunkenness, less squalor, and that feature which forced itself upon the attention of every thinking person—namely, the shocking amount of child neglect—has largely diminished. The slum areas, or, at all events, the great bulk of them, have been swept away and in their places we have decent, healthy tenements situated in wide streets, with plenty of air space and playgrounds for the children. The amount of money spent for ground and improvements is $6,000,000. The rent collected in 1915 was something less than $150,000. A good part of the return on the $6,000,000 is in less sickness and fewer deaths, not only in the district but in the city at large.

TROUBLE WITH TEETH.

A mother writes: "My 6 year old girl has spent most of the time for eighteen months having her teeth treated for abscess caused by dead nerves and gum boils filled with pus. Last spring she was ill for two months from pus infection following a long siege of gum boils and being vaccinated at the time. Does this indicate there is something lacking in her health to cause the death of her teeth nerves? She has hay fever and asthma each year, beginning with the roses and lasting until frost. A cold at any time of the year brings on asthma. I have had her tonsils and adenoids removed. She developed this the first year of her life, being born of a mother who had been a victim for twenty years. Any nervous strain or excitement brings on legaches, which are relieved by hot applications. If her general health were built up would the nerves of her teeth be less apt to die? Can this condition be avoided? She has a small appetite and is slightly constipated."

REPLY.

Give her calcium chloride according to the following method: Calcium chloride crystals, four ounces; distilled water, one pint. Give her a teaspoonful after each meal. Keep this up for six months. Do not let her eat much meat, eggs, or milk. Give her bread, vegetables, cereals, fruit, butter, and some meat. Have her go to the dentist as often as she needs. Keep her teeth clean. Keep her in the open air as much as possible. Inheritance is a large factor in her condition. I think her low resistance to pus bacteria and her asthma are a part of the same diathesis.

COUSINS MARRYING.

D. S. C. writes: "Is there any harm in first cousins marrying?"

REPLY.

LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

[Copyright: 1916: By the Brentwood Co.]

LORD ALINGTON is announced as selling his estates. But the estates are not those in Dorsetshire, where he makes his home, at Crichel, but his real estate in London, especially along the Regents canal and in the Hoxton district, which produces now a steady income of $250,000 a year, and that at the present rate will yield a million yearly within the next ten years.

Whether or not Lord Alington will succeed in selling this London real estate advantageously just now is open to question. For the title is not quite clear, and is connected with what is known as "the romance of the Mobbs millions."

The property in London originally belonged to the manor of Wenlock, which formed part of the endowment of St. Paul's cathedral. The latter sold the manor to William Drayton, a rich London distiller.

He had an only daughter, who, after her father's death, married John Mobbs, who had been his coachman. She died a few years later without issue, leaving her entire fortune to her husband, who thereupon married again in 1781 and had two sons, James and William.

In spite of his wealth John Mobbs, who lived to be nearly 100 years old, became involved in difficulties towards the close of his existence and was obliged to borrow large sums from John Yardley of Hoxton, to whom, owing to his years and infirmities, he delegated the task of collecting the rents of the property.

The older son of John Mobbs was insane and the younger son, William, who had quarreled with his father, was earning his living as a bootmaker. When William, some time after his father's death, endeavored to ascertain what had become of his father's property he was informed by John Yardley that the money which he had advanced to John Mobbs had not been his own, but had been furnished by Charles Sturt of Crichel, Dorsetshire, the great-grandfather of the present Lord Alington, who had made the investment on the advice of his family lawyer.

It was explained that Charles Sturt had the title deeds to the real estate in London at his country house at Crichel and William Mobbs, being unable to furnish the money needed to repay the loans and recover the deeds, the latter remained in the possession of the Sturts.

From time to time since there have been suits and announcements of suits against the Sturts, brought by alleged descendants of John Mobbs, for the recovery of the latter's property in London.

In one case the plaintiff was a clown named Joshua Mobbs, who died in 1886. In two other instances it was proved that the plaintiffs were either illegitimate or else impostors. The last occasion on which the so-called Mobbs millions came before the public was in March, 1887, when the London Times contained the following advertisement:

"Legal notice. The Mobbs estate. I, the undersigned, do hereby give notice to all lessees, tenants, and occupiers of premises on the Mobbs estate, derived from John Mobbs (here follows the enumeration of the streets and buildings comprised in the estate) that Messrs. James Brown, etc. (here follow the names of purchasers of a portion of the property from the Sturts) have no right or title to any portion of this estate, and that they are simply trespassers, and will be treated accordingly. (Signed) Edward James Ward, Arundel street, Strand, solicitor for John Mobbs, the claimant."

Since then we have heard nothing and the presumption is that the claimants have come to the conclusion that the statute of limitations would prove an insuperable obstacle to their recovery of the property.

However, since Lord Alington is endeavoring to dispose of the remainder of the former Mobbs estate the claimants may make trouble in order to secure a sum of money for the abandonment of their claims so as to render the title clear.

With regard to the Dorsetshire estates, they came into the family of Lord Alington at the beginning of the eighteenth century through the Napiers. The first Lord Alington was William Alington of Alington hall, in Cambridgeshire, descendant in a direct line from Sir Hildebrand Alington, marshal to William the Conqueror, at the battle of Hastings. He was elevated to the Irish peerage as Lord Alington by James I. in 1642.

On the death of the fourth Lord Alington the estates went to his only sister, Catherine Alington, who married Sir Nathaniel Napier, Bart., of Crichel, in Dorsetshire, member of parliament for that county. She had an only daughter, Diana, who, as the sole heiress of the Napiers of Crichel and of the Alingtons, married Humphrey Sturt of Horton, Dorset, son of Sir Anthony Sturt, high sheriff of Hampshire and grandson of Anthony Sturt, a leading alderman of London in the reign of Charles II.

Humphrey Sturt's great-grandson, Henry Gerard Sturt, popularly known as "Bunnie" Sturt, was raised to the peerage by Queen Victoria in 1876 as Lord Alington of a new creation and married twice, his first wife, mother of the present peer, being Lady Augusta Bingham, daughter of Gen. Lord Lucan of Crimean war fame, while his second wife, who was childless, was Miss "Evie" Leigh of Luton Hoo, a beautiful woman.

The present Lord Alington's sisters include the former Viscountess Chelsea, now the wife of the admiral of the fleet, Sir Hedworth Meux. Another sister was the charming and popular Winifred, wife of Lord Hardinge, now permanent undersecretary of state for foreign affairs. She succumbed to an operation in London, while he was viceroy of India.

The present Lord Alington is a tall, fair man. His wife, formerly Lady Feo Yorke, sister of the late Lord Hardwicke, is noted for her brilliancy. Her style of beauty has always had something oriental in its character. Both she and her husband are great friends of Queen Alexandra and were high in the favor of the late King Edward, who was a yearly visitor to Crichel.

The latter has long been famous for its "White farm." Everything connected therewith is white, including a white sacred bull from India. There are white cattle, white cart horses, white pigs, and last, but not least, an immense white turkey cock. All the flowers about this farm are white and all the buildings are snowy white.

A charming trait of Lord Alington is his love of animals. Although fond of shooting and preserving game strictly, he, like his father before him, has never permitted a gun to be fired in the great park around Crichel itself, and consequently it has become a refuge for every kind of bird, especially herons, the feathered visitors being fed each morning from the windows.

In the garden around Crichel are a number of trees, planted by members of the reigning house, on the occasion of their visits, and in order to commemorate the latter. A popular superstition prevails to the effect that when a tree is planted the person who planted it thrives as long as the tree thrives.

It is a remarkable fact that the trees planted at Crichel by King George's elder brother, the late Duke of Clarence, by King Edward, and by the latter's youngest brother, the late Duke of Albany, all of them flourished until suddenly and unaccountably blighted just twenty-four hours before the death of these royal personages who had planted them.

CROSSING PROTECTION IN MAYFAIR.

Chicago, Dec. 12.—[To the Friend of the People.]—There have been a number of deaths recently at the Sunnyside avenue crossing of the Chicago and Northwestern and Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul tracks in Mayfair. Cannot gates be installed which will minimize the danger to which the public using this crossing is subjected? READER.

We are in receipt of a communication from Mr. F. C. Hart, general manager of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway company, as follows: "The matter has received careful investigation and we find that on account of both Chicago and Northwestern and Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul tracks at this crossing the installation of gate protection would not be practicable. Authority has therefore been issued for an additional flagman to be on duty during the daytime. This will make five flagmen who are on duty for the protection of these tracks during a twenty-four hour period, and should, in our opinion, afford all the protection that could reasonably be required at that crossing." We also learn that the tracks at this point are soon to be elevated.

WILLIAM BURGESS,
Executive Secretary Public Safety Commission.

PROTECTION OF FOOD IN STORES

Chicago, Dec. 13.—[To the Friend of the People.]—What is the ordinance covering the protection of food in grocery and other stores from flies and handling? Where may I secure a copy of same? V. S. H.

The ordinance requiring food protection from dust, flies, and handling by visitors provides that any article of food, confection, condiment, or drink used for human consumption, including raw cut meat, but excluding raw vegetables and other articles of food usually peeled, shelled, or cooked, shall be protected. The protection required for windows in rooms free from flies shall be made of glass, wood, sheet metal, or other impervious material, or twenty mesh screen. A copy of this ordinance can be had on application to the bureau of food inspection, room 707 city hall. JOHN DILL ROBERTSON, Commissioner of Health.

RELIEF FOR COMMUTERS—MAYBE.

Chicago, Dec. 12.—[To the Friend of the People.]—About two months ago a number of passengers using the Grayland station of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway sent a request to that road to have a shed built on the west side of the station. Some mornings south bound trains are late and we have to wait in the rain, wind, or snow without shelter, as the side where the station house is located is separated from the south bound track by a closed gate. A condition like this certainly would not be tolerated along the north shore. Is there a way by which we can get what we demand? SUBURBANITE.

The fact is that the space there is limited and to establish a shed that would answer its purpose for shelter would encroach on the clearance so as to make it hazardous for a person to stand between the shed and the track, while some of the high speed trains that do not stop there were passing. However, the matter has not been dropped, and we may succeed in working out something that will be practicable. S. T. HART, General Manager C., M. & St. P. Ry.

STREET SIGN HAS BEEN ERECTED.

MILITARY TRAINING FOR HEALTH.

Chicago, Dec. 18.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—The Swiss system, or some other equally good system, perhaps taken from the German system of military training, should be taught in our schools throughout the land, for the purpose of making our youths physically strong, as evidenced by the samples of German and Austrian young men in our midst who have had military training. This training should begin at once, not merely to make of our boys and men soldiers for defense of their country against invasion, but for their health's sake and their morals.

Statistics prove to use that tuberculosis is gaining on us, which is almost as bad as another kind of invasion, and it behooves those in control of the welfare of the school children of the country to talk and write less and act soon in their behalf in practical ways. Let this be our motive for military training and gymnasium work: To build up the youth into powerful men, physically as well as morally. A nation-wide campaign should be begun with this object in view. CORA MAWHINNEY.

In everything else that Mr. Bryan has piped the people into the results have been undesirable. Why not, also, in his newest roundelay—prohibition?

ANOTHER AMERICAN ON GOLDBECK.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 17.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I read today the attack on Mr. Goldbeck in the Voice of the People. Count me as one of those who "thank God" for Goldbeck. In this day when we as a nation have forgotten our own interests through subservience to England, his services are of incalculable benefit. I'll wager there are not many of your readers whose strain is as pure "American" as my own. And, yet, to me it seems there is no writer who points out the facts for the development of this nation more clearly than Goldbeck. Strength to his elbow. ROBERT PERRY.

SOLVING THE TRANSPORTATION QUESTION.

Chicago, Dec. 18.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—While our transportation experts are discussing ways and means for a subway, let me offer a few suggestions which should alleviate the crowded condition of our street cars during the rush hours. Instead of starting all north and south cars from Devon, and Howard avenues, start some from Lawrence avenue and some from Irving Park boulevard.

This would give patrons living in these districts an opportunity to get a seat and the increase in cars would obviate the necessity of packing them as they do. In handling the through route cars I would suggest that certain of these cars be turned back at Twenty-second, Thirty-ninth, and Forty-fifth streets instead of making the complete trip. A quicker transportation can be had by running a car three blocks without a stop.

Place a red light on one car, a blue light on the next, and green on the third. Have the poles at the cross streets painted in like colors indicating the stopping point for each car. NORTHSIDER.

COLORED, SHE CAN'T GET WORK.

Chicago, Dec. 18.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I get so much pleasure from your paper that I am now seeking good. Why cannot an experienced, efficient young colored woman be employed as a stenographer? The papers are full of advertisements for stenographers. It is "Water, water everywhere and not a drop to drink." I have advertised, answered advertisements, and applied at the employment agencies without avail. Surely one qualified for a better position in life should be given a chance—if one is capable of being a stenographer, why be a maid? E. C.

PEACE AND GERMANY.

Urbana, Ill., Dec. 17.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Peace will not come to Europe through the efforts of the American government or the arguments of American newspapers, but for our own sake it is important that we understand the situation. By offering peace on preposterous terms Germany seeks to win the sympathy, and, perhaps, the aid of neutrals in her prosecution of the war. Unfortunately, many Americans will be deceived by this move.

But the evidence on both sides has been presented in this country, and every American who has the power to reason knows that when Germany asserts that the war "has been forced upon us," she says what is false. Why should we think of a government which pretends to offer peace on such a basis?

MORE CONCERNS GRANT BENEFITS FOR EMPLOYES

Bonuses, More Pay, Insurance for Workers, and Pension Contributions Announced.

Three Chicago firms joined the Christmas benefit procession yesterday by giving employés increased salaries, pensions, or bonuses.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Northern Trust company it was voted, in recognition of the high cost of living, to make a gift to all of the employés of the bank who entered the service prior to Jan. 1, 1916, and who are in receipt of an annual salary of $1,500 or less, of a sum equal to 10 per cent of their annual salary, and to such of the employés who receive an annual salary between $1,500 and $3,000 the sum of $150 each. To those who have been in the employ of the bank less than a year a smaller sum will be given. It was also voted to make an additional contribution to the pension fund of the bank.

First Natonal Bank.

The following statement was issued concerning benefits by the First National bank:

"With the establishment of a pension fund in 1899 the First National bank of Chicago ceased the annual custom of distributions in addition to regular salaries, believing that the annual contributions to the pension fund would be of the greatest benefit to our clerical forces.

"These contributions are to be continued and the fund has been increased to a point where its stability cannot be questioned and the results to such of our employés as have retired under its provisions have been most satisfactory.

"The extraordinary conditions of the present year resulting in such high cost of living have induced the First National bank and First Trust and Savings bank to increase salaries to a greater extent than in past years and to vary from their established custom by the distribution of certain additional funds."

At the Adams & Westlake company it was announced that a system of insurance for employés had been adopted. Depending on age and length of service, insurance of from $100 to $1,000 is provided, with the option of a cash payment upon retirement.

Directors of the board of trade at their meeting voted to give each of the employés of the exchange a Christmas gift of $10. About 300 employés will receive this gift, which is the first of its kind ever bestowed by the institution.

Theater Firm Boosts Wages.

Jones, Linick & Schaefer have posted in each of their various theaters and in departments in their general office, the following bulletin:

"Beginning with Christmas, Monday, Dec. 25, we will increase the salary of every one of our employés, excepting musicians, stage employés, and moving picture operators, as these are working under a union scale better than any other city in America. We take this means of showing our appreciation to our employés."

STANDARD OIL BONUS.

Hammond, Ind., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—All employés of the Standard Oil company at Whiting, 3,000 in number, are to receive a Christmas bonus amounting to 10 per cent of their year's wage or salary, it was announced today.

Jury Advises Crossing Guard.

A recommendation that the Lincoln highway crossing over the Illinois Central railroad tracks at Matteson, Ill., be safeguarded either with mechanical devices or by having flagmen stationed there night and day was made by a coroner's jury yesterday. The crossing was the scene of a fatal accident on Sept. 17.

Judge Doesn't Blame Youth for Overdressed Girl's Offenses.

John Petris, 19 years old, of 4444 North Richmond street, saw 18 year old Theresa Pattock on the street. They flirted. That started it. The finish was approached yesterday when John and Theresa and her mother, who lives at 2251 Southport avenue, appeared in the Court of Domestic Relations

"You are to blame for all the trouble this little girl is in," said Judge John Stelk, but he wasn't looking at young John when he said it. In fact, he was talking directly to the girl's mother.

"The clothing worn by your daughetr now is not respectable," the judge continued. "She is dressed to attract attention. I would advise you hereafter to dress her decently."

A Full Dress Suit—drafted to your order at $35

HERE is a concrete illustration of the truly remarkable money-savings that this great wholesale tailoring house is offering to its home town folks in its new Chicago retail department.

Think of this! A made-to-your-measure Full Dress Suit—genuinely custom-tailored—cut to a blue print of your figure—hand felled and hand needled in its workmanship—silk faced and silk lined in its trimmings.

To your order for $35!

And then think of this! A Tuxedo or Dinner Suit—equally lavish in its appointments—silk faced and silk lined—made to your specific order at $30!

Only a national purveyor—splitting his overhead and his running costs among half a million confirmed patrons could offer values like these!

This is your exclusive opportunity—as a Chicagoan—to order the finest made-to-measure Evening Clothes direct from America's leading wholesale tailoring house—at about half the usual "local-tailor" price.

Six Day Schedule deliveries. You order today—your suit is ready one week from today.

Special—to Non-Residents

Our new retail department is operated solely for Chicago voters and tax payers. It is not open to non-residents. But if you live outside of Chicago you can obtain Royal Service of the authorized local Royal dealer in your town.

Precisely the same patterns and fashions; precisely the same prices; precisely the same sweet-running tailoring service and faultless tailoring quality.

Your local Royal dealer is an expert measure taker. He has to be—or he never could retain a Royal dealer franchise.

JAIL BONDSMEN, AND NOBODY TO BAIL THEM OUT

Three Lawyers Lose Money In Landis' Court and Another Is Squelched.

Five glum bondsmen, moping in jail, exemplified the adage yesterday that "a prophet is without honor in his own country." They were sent to jail three days ago by Federal Judge Landis on charges of perjury in connection with giving bonds. And despite their knowledge of the tricks of the game and much strenuous effort on the part of friends, they have been unable to get any of the brethren in the same line of business to come near enough to bail them out.

When the five, with a dozen other prisoners involved in the Smiglak bankruptcy hearing, were herded into court by deputy marshals they presented a gloomy picture. They knew they were in for another hard day and many deep, damp moans emanated from the sorrowful group. And not a spectator shed a tear.

Besides the bondsmen and other prisoners, four lawyers talked themselves into difficulties, and three of them lost money by it. Two of them have been suspended from federal practice. Louis Friedman, a jail guard, also faces suspension because of his connection with the bond of one of the litigants in the hearing.

Jails Near S. R. O.

The hearing was a continuation of the suit started a week ago by Attorney David Stansbury on behalf of a client, Joseph Smiglak, a Halsted street shoe store owner, who was robbed by his own son. Revelations were made by Attorney Stansbury that caused Judge Landis to wade right into the midst of three separate organized bands of alleged criminals, with the result that twenty-four bondsmen, lawyers, and alleged bankrupts have gone to jail.

From the number of subpœnas issued it was predicted that at least a dozen more will find their way to cells before the hearing is over. One bit of information obtained by the judge yesterday was the location of the "rendezvous" of the gang of professional bondsmen. It is a saloon owned by George Murphy, across the street from the Criminal court building.

Introducing Lawyer Bowen.

Murphy was subpœnaed and he admitted that his saloon practically was the headquarters of the bondsmen who infest the courts on the north side. As he took the stand Frank H. Bowen, an attorney, leaped to his feet and shouted:

"I am this man's attorney, and I want to see the charges."

Judge Landis gazed at him with mild surprise for a few moments and then began wiping his specs.

"You'll find a chair right behind you," replied the judge.

"I would like to see the charges against my client," insisted the attorney.

"Take him away," directed the judge to a deputy marshal.

"I object," shouted Bowen.

"All right, object, replied the judge as the marshal led Bowen out.

Upon questioning Murphy the judge learned that Bowen had not been hired or asked to attend the trial. Bowen, he said, had formerly been his attorney, and he emphasized the word "formerly."

Moran, the Explainer.

Attorney Eugene Moran, who has been extricating himself from serious difficulties for the last two years, did a lot more explaining, but the judge held his decision in abeyance.

A little amusement was furnished by a tilt between Arthur Fink, suspended assistant corporation counsel, and Abraham Rubenstein, an attorney, who has been held to the grand jury. Fink and Rubenstein had been fast friends until yesterday. Then they broke and the judge allowed them to cross examine each other. Rubenstein got the better of the argument by snatching a note for $1,200 which he had given to Fink and keeping it.

MAYOR INDORSED BY DRY CHIEFS

TRIBUTE TO LANDIS.

Mayor Thompson, to the intense surprise of politicians who have been watching the local and state political moves, was indorsed yesterday by the Anti-Saloon League of Illinois. Sixty members of the state board of trustees, in session at the Great Northern hotel, adopted resolutions strongly boosting the mayor and his "acts and suggestions for strengthening existing laws" against the saloons.

The resolutions proceeded to adopt the platform that will govern the anti-saloon forces in the coming session of the legislature, and while they didn't say as much, there is every expectation among the representative men of the Anti-Saloon league that Mayor Thompson will endeavor to deliver to the league program enough votes in the house to swing the dry program.

Controlled by Mayor.

The Anti-Saloon league people have the quiet belief that the mayor and the city hall organization control at least a half dozen state representatives from the Chicago districts now listed as wets but who would be sufficient in number to join with the pledged drys and put through the complete anti-saloon platform.

The main plank in this platform, as adopted yesterday, and as was forecast in THE TRIBUNE two months ago, is a state-wide vote on prohibition, with the women voting. It would come by way of the submission of an act establishing statutory prohibition, which would become effective when ratified by a vote of the people. The act would prohibit the sale and manufacture of intoxicants, the purpose being to put the distilleries and breweries out of commission as well as the saloons.

Tribute to Landis.

The indorsement of Mayor Thompson was coupled with one of Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, which read:

"Federal Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis has spoken most strongly from the high place of the Federal court, admonishing mayors and chiefs of police to enforce the laws, and already Mayor Mollman of East St. Louis is obeying the impressive suggestion of the court."

PERILS OF THE DEEP TAME TO ALIMONY ORDER ASHORE.

"Capt." William M. Deneau, diver, who aided in recovering the bodies of 250 Eastland victims, and who discovered the submarine Fool Killer in the river, faced commitment to the county jail for failure to pay alimony to his wife, Frances Deneau, yesterday. He was cited to appear before Judge Thomson. His wife in her suit for divorce, filed July 12, charged cruelty.

Owing to the nearness of Christmas and Deneau's plea of hard luck, Judge Thomson gave him two weeks' more time.

LOOP DRUGGIST EXONERATED

George A. Hochhaus, druggist in the Republic building, yesterday was freed of six charges of selling heroin on undated prescriptions when he appeared before Judge Kearns.

The charges against Hochhaus were made in connection with the complaints of the state board of pharmacy against Mrs. Bertha Yates, and Dr. N. La Doit Johnson. Inspector John J. Conroy of group in October. His charge was that Mrs. Yates had received through her doctors from the druggist 2,192 grains of heroin within 412 days.

The six charges against Hochhaus for the state board asked the arrests of the failing to date prescriptions were nolle prossed by Attorney T. J. O'Hare, special counsel for the attorney general and the state board.

Mail Chief Seeks Divorce.

A wife's austerity of temper and jealous disposition are alleged by Carl C. Hungerford, superintendent of mail weighing, who sued yesterday for divorce.

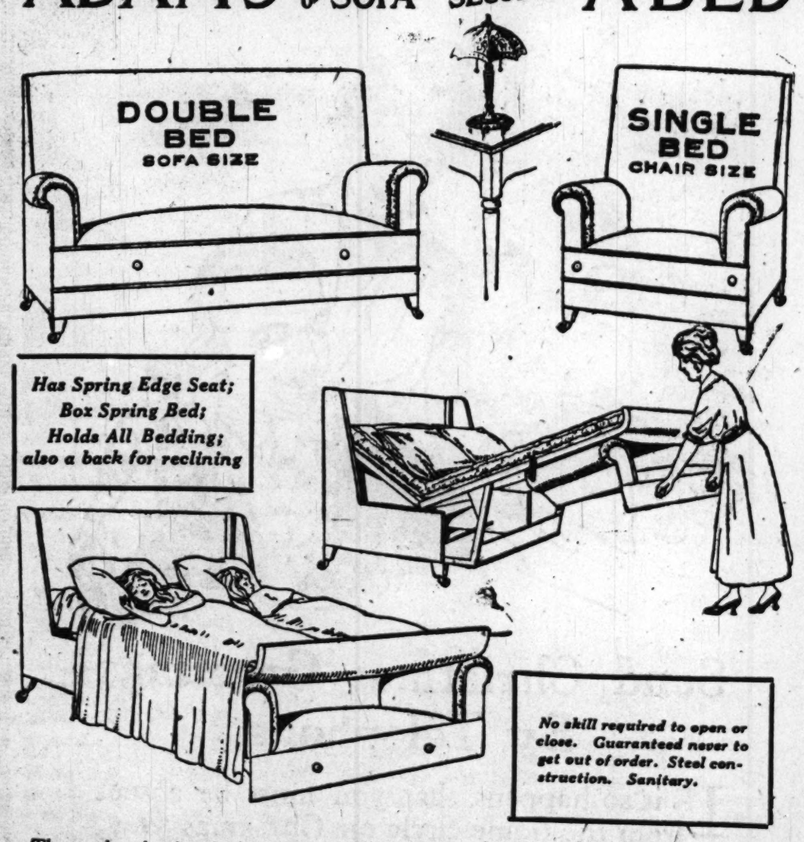
ADAMS CHAIR OR SOFA TWO SECONDS A BED



The spring is slat fabric, with box spring coil supports, and mattress is extra thick, not a pad. There is a tray underneath the seat for blankets. The chair is 35 inches wide and the sofa is 49 inches wide, and when open, bed is 6 feet 4 inches long.

Truly the most wonderful article of furniture ever created—a masterpiece of American ingenuity.

The price is $36.25 and upwards. Can be had in artificial leather, also in tapestries, denims and velours.

The price, remember, includes a slat fabric spring, with box spring coil supports, also a thick felt tufted mattress with Imperial edge, which would total alone from $12.00 to $15.00. Such quality has never before been put into convertible furniture.

The Adams Chair is made for daily comfort and use, and not merely "good enough" for emergency.

Last, but not least, it saves about 21 square feet of room. This, figured as rent, an Adams Chair would soon pay for itself.

Buy at once. If you delay your purchase you are paying for an Adams Chair now—in rent equivalent—but not getting it.

Write for booklet.

The Logical Christmas Present

The Household Miracle

A smart, comfortable upholstered Easy Chair or Sofa, with soft spring edge seat. Quick and easy, "in two seconds a bed," ready for occupancy. The mattress, sheets and pillow are found in position when opened, and not removed when closing. There is not a single adjustment of any kind, such as cross bars, braces, mattress holders, straps, swiveling legs, dangling parts, stays, locks, etc.—nothing to fuss or bother with either when opening or when closing. Completely sanitary, as it is all steel; not affected by steam heat; guaranteed not to warp or loosen or get out of order.

If you desire special upholstery to match other furniture or draperies and expect delivery for Christmas, come in at once and select your materials.

CHICAGO COAL DEALERS ASK FEDERAL QUIZ

Appeal to United States Trade Commission for National Investigation.

Face to face with a demand for a public investigation of the coal shortage, Chicago coal dealers held a series of conferences in the Manhattan building yesterday which ended in an appeal for an inquiry by the federal trade commission.

After stating their view that the shortage began a year ago in New England and has since extended to the Rocky mountains, the coal dealers say:

"The cause must be dealt with according to its dimensions. The coal shortage is national. Any investigation that is less broad than the cause and the effect must fail in its purpose. Local investigations by cities and states will do no good."

School Faced Closure.

Students of the Senn High school almost had a premature Christmas vacation. Engineer Walter F. Cadwell used the last shovelful of coal Monday night to bank his fires. The Edgewater Coal company delivered enough coal to keep the fires going yesterday morning, and by noon the Consumers company, with which a special contract has been made, saved the situation and the school was not closed. Several of the coal contractors have fallen down completely on their contracts because of the scarcity of coal, but school board authorities assert that it will not be necessary to close any schools.

Loop Still Short.

Chicago continued to be short of coal yesterday, particularly in the loop district.

Some relief for the situation was seen by railroad men and dealers last night in the fact that coal has begun to move into the city again from the Pocohontas fields in West Virginia.

FEDERATION WINS FIGHT AGAINST TEACHERS' RETURN.

The Chicago Teachers' federation completed yesterday a campaign to defeat the election of Henry C. Cox and Miss Gertrude E. English to positions as principals in the public schools. It is believed the campaign will be successful, although a day or two ago the election of the two former district superintendents seemed practically assured.

Mr. Cox and Miss English were dropped by the board of education last June with the sixty-eight teachers because of their age. They were district superintendents at that time, drawing a salary of $5,000.

John D. Shoop, superintendent of schools, has recommended that the two be made principals at a salary of $3,500, and there is to be a special meeting of the school management committee this afternoon before the board meeting to consider the question.

Neither Mr. Cox nor Miss English is a member of the Chicago Teachers' federation. The federation sent committees to members of the board whom they are able to influence and urged them not to return Mr. Cox and Miss English to the system.

UNION PACIFIC REJECTS FREIGHT; YARDS BLOCKED

Embargoes by Other Roads Due Because of the Unprecedented Congestion.

The Union Pacific railroad yesterday put into effect an embargo on all competitive freight movements over the full extent of its lines. Until Jan. 7 and possibly later the road will decline to handle any freight except local shipments which cannot be transported over the lines of competitors. This bars shipments to Pacific coast ports.

The embargo applies to shipments both east and west. It is expected embargoes on other western lines will come in a few days. Probably one of the first will be the Burlington, which is likely to get much of the tonnage that otherwise would go over the Union Pacific.

Worst on Record.

This order and others issued within the last few days reveals the fact that the shippers of the United States are in the tangle of the greatest blockade in the history of American railroading.

"The worst blockade we ever had prior to the present," said B. L. Winchell, traffic director of the Union Pacific, "was in 1907. The blockade starts in the ports of England, where ships are lying loaded with American goods and waiting to be unloaded. It increases at New York and other eastern ports, where cars are waiting for ships and the terminals are congested. And so it piles up all the way back to Omaha, if not farther.

"Unlike some roads, we frankly admit we have a complete embargo on all freight to and from competitive points. We have put the embargo into effect early and for that reason should be able to clear out lines by Jan. 7."

Congestion Out of Aurora.

All roads entering Aurora and other towns in the outer freight belt of Chicago served notice on shippers during the day that they would accept no freight for any points east of the Illinois state line. Among the roads entering Chicago which recently have put into effect either partial or complete embargoes are:

Pere Marquette—Embargo on all shipments east, with certain exceptions as to perishables.

Baltimore and Ohio—A similar embargo.

Chicago, Burlington and Quincy—A partial embargo applying to shipments to points on the St. Paul.

Elgin, Joliet and Eastern—Embargo on St. Paul road points.

Chicago and Eastern Illinois—Same sort of embargo.

Chicago Belt Line—Same embargo.

Other Lines Affected.

In addition the Pennsylvania, the Big Four, the Nickel Plate, and the Chesapeake and Ohio have had embargoes in force for a week or more.

Roads to the south and southwest have not yet put embargo orders into effect, but are badly congested. Lines into the northwest are expected to place embargoes within the next few days.

URGES STATE BOND ISSUE FOR GOOD ROADS SYSTEM.

Danville, Ill., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—With more than half the counties in the state represented and many supervisors and members of automobile associations attending, the Illinois Highway Improvement association went on record this afternoon favoring a state bond issue of $80,000,000 to build a 4,000 mile system of public highways, connecting practically all cities of 2,000 population and up.

The legislature is asked to submit the proposition to the people at the November, 1918, election. The association also favored a reasonable increase in the state automobile license fee, especially for heavier cars and auto trucks.

ACTRESS' NOTES OF SQUDGY LOVE READ IN COURT

Mrs. Byrde S. Schultze Shows Irene Brown's Letters to Husband.

From torn scraps of paper rescued from the waste basket Mrs. Byrde S. Schultze pieced together a romance in which the hero was "My Little Fat Faced Boy" and the heroine Irene Brown of the "Whirl of the World" company. She identified "My Little Fat Faced Boy" as her husband, Louis Schultze, a dentist of 4954 Kenmore avenue, and now she is trying Irene's prescription for happiness: "Be a grass widow and know true joy."

During her testimony in a suit for divorce Mrs. Schultze said her husband expressed his affection for the actress by sending her malted milk and cold cream —"squdgy love," she called it.

Here Are Parts of Letters.

Here are excerpts from the letters:

"Hello Dearie—I have been granted a divorce and am terrible happy. Had two witnesses for my case and the judge smiled when they gave their statements. Of course I was on the stand and was oh, so nervous. What would I say to you now if you were here? How about that trip?

"Hurry up, New York is just waiting to initiate you to its wild and woolly ways. Put yourself in my place. I'll bet you would be happy, too. With love.

"RENA."

"Hello, Babe—How about the above name? I am getting too affectionate, yes? Well, dear, you surely did hand me a good laugh. The bottle and my picture. You are a wonderful artist. If that is the way I look, I don't wonder at your delayed visit.

"Good news, the Hip remains open for at least five weeks. Gee whiz I'm happy these days, and am beginning to look like the Rena you knew. See what it means to be a grass widow.

"Yes, dear, I received the malted milk. Am taking it regularly. Now, Mr. Man, if you care to hear from yours truly as often as you used to I shall write every day or so. Yours,

"RENA."

"My Fat Face."

"Nov. 30, 1914.

"DOC DEAR—Well, my Fat Face, how are you? Do you still think of your Rena? I can't realize it is almost nine months since I have seen you. Gee whiz, how time flies.

"Went up to see a man who is going to put on some of the season's successes next fall. Maybe he is kidding me, but I can't hurt myself, if I go to see him once a week. You about know what these men are, but dear, I must get along in this business.

"It's no use asking you when you are coming. It's always the same old story. What a surprise if I should receive word, 'look for me in a day or two.' Then I would be happy. YOURS WITH LOVE,

RENA."

"DOC DEAR—Stingy, stingy, stingy! You certainly are neglecting your Rena. Looked for a letter yesterday and today.

"Do your ears burn at all? Because I'm always thinking of you. Virginia and I speak of you many times during the day.

"By the way, do you know a J. H.? They own the big shoe store in Chicago. If so, tell him I know the Miss Gracey Camp that he called on. He is married and rather unhappy, from all accounts. Grace is very fond of him. Like some one I know that is fond of a fat faced kid. Lots of love from your lonely,

RENA."

"Stingy!"

"DOC DEAR: This is my last season in New York, you can bet. How did you spend your evenings when family was away? Stingy, I bet you never gave me a thought. HAMMERS TWO MORE NAILS INTO THE SUNDAY LID

Chief Healey Issues More Orders Affecting Saloon Closing on the Sabbath.

Two more nails were pounded into the Sunday closing lid yesterday when Chief of Police Healey issued two supplemental orders on the subject.

The first was intended to prevent the sale or giving away of liquor on Sunday in places other than licensed saloons. This sort of entertainment is said to have been practiced by some saloonkeepers whose homes adjoin their places of business. The chief orders that any one found guilty of such a violation shall be arrested exactly as if he were operating a saloon on Sunday.

The second order was issued because of reports that holders of special bar permits for Saturday nights have been "cheating" either by letting patrons load up their tables before midnight or by "giving away" drinks after that hour.

Mayor Thompson announced that he would request Chief Justice Olson of the Municipal courts to investigate the action of Judge La Buy in ordering out of his courtroom during the hearing of a Sunday closing case a stenographer from the city law department. But later in the day it was found that Chief Justice Olson had anticipated the mayor.

Judge La Buy's action will be considered at a meeting of the judges of the Municipal court this afternoon. At the request of Chief Justice Olson, City Prosecutor Miller provided a copy of the stenographer's record up to the moment he was excluded from court. This record shows that Assistant State's Attorney Quirke objected to the presence of the stenographer because he came from the city prosecutor's office and that Judge La Buy threatened him with punishment for contempt unless he stopped making notes.

An Ideal Christmas Gift

that you can give only this Christmas—never again

HAVE you thought of the new Encyclopaedia Britannica, printed on beautiful India paper, as a gift? There are half a dozen persons (including yourself and some of the family) for whom this great library of knowledge would be a superb present.

Consider what a day-after-day source of pleasure and profit the Britannica would be. Realize how wonderfully light and inviting-to-read the famous India paper makes it.

This is a gift you must make now—or never. You will not have this chance another Christmas (nor for very much longer) because the few sets of the Britannica still unsold are printed on the last genuine India paper that could be obtained

before the war cut off the supply of raw material (flax) out of which this thin-and-tough paper is manufactured. Not only is this the last India paper which could be procured for the printing of the Britannica, but it will be years after the war ends before India paper can be produced in sizable quantities.

Therefore, the remaining sets are the last printed on India paper that can be offered. They will not last long—you must act quickly to make sure of getting a set.

NOW is the time—buy the Britannica for Christmas—for the family or yourself. This is not only sensible Christmas giving, but it will prove to be the best investment you have ever made. For the Britannica is primarily an investment—an investment in all kinds of interesting, instructive, useful, practical knowledge.

This celebrated work should be in every home—it is the greatest, most authoritative book of facts and information ever published. It touches every subject in which men and women are interested—it goes back to the beginning-days of history, and is in step with all modern movements and events.

It discusses the wonders of earth and sea and sky—the thoughts and activities of man—and yet it teems with all sorts of the most everyday-practical information connected with such things as farming, housekeeping, painting, architecture, electrical engineering, art, music, literature, everything.

Here are the answers to the questions the children are always asking. Here are the facts that you are constantly seeking, to help you in a business way or otherwise. Here is the means of improving your education along general or special lines. Here is insurance against ignorance or lack of interest in the world in which you live.

Think of having a complete library in your own home—in 29 compact volumes, 30,000 pages, 41,000 separate articles, 500,000 indexed facts, 44,000,000 words and 15,000 illustrations and maps.

Now realize how easily you can own a set of the new Britannica, in the popular "Handy Volume" form, printed on genuine India paper—if you act at once. This issue is identically the same as the high-priced Cambridge Issue, except in size and type. Every page, every word, every colored plate, every illustration, every map of the Cambridge issue is reproduced in the "Handy Volume" Issue, of which 75,000 sets were sold in six months.

You can have the entire set (29 volumes) delivered to your home or office upon your first payment of only $1

You have immediate use of this marvelous work—you reap its benefits while you are paying for it in small monthly amounts for a short period.

Of the 75,000 sets of the more expensive Cambridge issue printed on the famous India paper, less than 1500 sets are left. If you prefer one of these—and this set certainly makes a magnificent appearance in any library—you must order it immediately. You can get it for a first payment of $5 (the entire set shipped on receipt of order), to be followed with a limited number of monthly payments of the same amount.

THE FAIR

State, Adams and Dearborn Streets

and examine this wonderful work. Buy it for Christmas—your order and first payment will secure a set. You pay the balance in convenient monthly payments. Act NOW.

Another Great Discovery at Arrowhead Springs, California

Thousands of Prominent Travelers Throughout Country to Visit Arrowhead.

By J. RUSSELL MILLER.

Several months ago an announcement was made in the leading papers of the country that arsenic in proper combination, with other valuable minerals had been found in the wonderful curative waters at Arrowhead Springs, California, and that this arsenic together with the radio-activity of the waters accounted for the amazing cures that had been effected by their use.

Now comes an announcement of even greater importance to the medical fraternity of the entire world. By the use of government instruments, which have been employed for many years at Arkansas Hot Springs, it was found that not only do the waters of Arrowhead contain Di-Sodium Arsenate, but that the steam vapors in the natural steam caves situated in the mountain recesses also contain this valuable ingredient. Heretofore it has been the popular opinion that steam was free of arsenic and physicians and hydrotherapists were prone to believe that the steam in these caves contained arsenic, but the late discovery with use of government instruments verifies this. It was further found in the recent test made that this steam is highly radio-active.

Through a number of analyses made by Curtis and Tompkins, the San Francisco chemists, it was revealed that Di-Sodium Arsenate to the extent of 1-23 grain per U. S. gallon is contained in the Arrowhead waters and its presence is verified by the official analysis of the French government. The LaBourboule Arsenic Springs, near Paris, France, are the only other noted Di-Sodium Arsenate Springs in the world containing this rare ingredient in proper proportion, and Arrowhead Springs water has been honored by being the only American water ever officially analyzed by the French government. This places it in a class by itself.

Boiling Eggs in Arrowhead Springs.

By comparing the Arrowhead Springs with other world famous Spas, it will be noted that the former are the hottest curative springs in the world, emanating from the bowels of the earth at the exceptional temperature of 202 degrees Fahrenheit, 38 degrees hotter than Sprudel Springs at Carlsbad, 60 degrees hotter than the Arkansas Springs and 94 degrees hotter than the Vichy Springs of France. Some idea of the intense heat of the Arrowhead water may be gathered from the fact that eggs can be nicely boiled in the Springs in from three to five minutes. Scientists claim that it is the hot water and steam charged with its natural gases and emanations which produce the beneficial effects. This being true, Arrowhead ranks first in the healing qualities of its waters.

So great has been the demand for Arrowhead Springs water throughout the country by those who have been unable to journey to the famous California Spa, that an immense bottling plant is now being erected in Los Angeles where these waters will be bottled by the latest and most approved methods and will be shipped throughout the United States.

The Famous Emblem Blazoned on the Mountain Side

Arrowhead Springs resort is situated in San Bernardino County in Southern California. "The Italy of America"—only 60 miles from Los Angeles, and takes its name from the gigantic Arrowhead blazed on a smooth-cut wrinkle of one of the towering peaks of the Sierras. Perhaps nowhere else on the face of the globe has nature produced a phenomenon so mysterious and so startling as this pre-historic landmark, so clearly pictured at a height of 3,500 feet, six miles of the city of San Bernardino.

The Argonauts of '49 tell us that the gigantic Arrowhead, standing out in full relief on the mountainside, was there when they first saw California; the Mormon pioneers of San Bernardino Valley say it antedated their coming; the Franciscan Padres saw it a hundred years ago, just as we see it now, and the Aborigine Indians told the first white man that their fathers had climbed to its great shadows to drink and to bath in the healing waters that still leap from its cavernous crevices. This mysterious Arrowhead which points directly to the hot healing springs, covers nearly eight acres of ground and is as distinct of outline as any that ever tipped an Indian arrow. Travelers on any of the three great transcontinental railroads leading into Southern California can see it thirty miles away.

Western America's Foremost Health, Rest and Recreation Resort

Arrowhead Springs annually attracts thousands who hope for renewed health from the use of the waters and the stimulus of pleasant surroundings. Many persons go to Arrowhead not only to get well but to keep well in these fountains of health and happiness. Others go there to find health for a variety of chronic affections.

Nature has asserted herself in all her glory and has smiled upon this favored spot of the Southland, she has bestowed upon it a multitude of perpetual delights that make for comfort, zest and joy of life obtainable nowhere else. Truly this is one of the most romantic spots in the world, steeped in traditions of Indian legends, revered by the Franciscan Fathers, and today universally recognized as a resort rivaling with the famous Spas of Europe.

A Paradise Climate

The climate at Arrowhead is neither too hot nor too cold. There are no extremes in temperature, no violent changes or atmospheric disturbances. It is the air of mid-ocean dried and scented by filtering over the orange-clad plains. This remarkable climate makes possible the culture of firs and pines side by side with palm and other tropical trees. The climate is of direct medical value because pure air, warmth and sunshine are the greatest of healing agents.

For physical and mental exhaustion, from overwork, worry, want of exercise and the dragging down tendency of city life, a sojourn at Arrowhead Springs is the most perfect means of restoration.

Flowers of all description grow in profusion here and the combination of the blossoms as well as their tints reveal the most unique and beautiful conceptions of the artistic in nature.

Arrowhead estate embraces over 1,800 acres of ground, the hotel maintaining its own dairy, poultry and vegetable ranches. No better cuisine can be found anywhere.

Every Healthful Diversion.

Unusual facilities are offered for those to whom recreation appeals, and here the visitor may enjoy all forms of amusement and diversion, including golf on a nine-hole course a few minutes' ride from the hotel; tennis, swimming, cycling, mountain hiking, croquet, wrestling, boxing, billiards, etc. Nowhere in America are offered such abundant opportunities for quiet rambles, with new scenes of ever-changing beauty at every turn and bend of the trail.

Horses and saddle horses can be procured for a delightful ride over safe trails, and good roads for autos lead through interesting canyons to the top of the mountains. Two beautiful trout streams run through the property. Moving pictures, musical concerts and other events are part of the regular program here.

Arrowhead Hotel is one of the most picturesque hostelries in America and it has every accessory of luxury and comfort, including steam heat and hot and cold mineral water piped to all guest rooms. The verandas on the front or south side of the hotel is a source of never-ending delight. Spacious and roomy, the rustic chairs and comfortable rockers are in constant use by guests. From it one can look out at a broad, inspiring panorama, a scene that extends from the high snow-capped peaks down to the orange groves of the valley, making a picture impossible to describe.

The bath houses connected with the hotel are supplied with hot and cold mineral water piped direct from the spring. Mammoth open-air plunge just a few steps from the hotel, also is supplied with pure mineral water piped from one of the many bubbling springs.

Those who contemplate visiting California should write to the management of this hotel for a free copy of the handsomely illustrated booklet, which gives full information about this world's famous resort. The address is Arrowhead Springs P. O., California.

BROWN FREED BY OLSON'S ACTION; NAME CLEARED

When the case against W. B. Brown, manager of the City News bureau, on charges preferred by Chief Justice Olson of the Municipal court, was called before Judge Bowles yesterday, counsel for Mr. Brown asked leave of court to read a written statement signed by Brown, as follows:

"I have investigated the charges published in the papers about Judge Olson which form the basis of the information filed against me and have found that they are not true. In making this investigation I telegraphed to Mr. Willcox of the Republican committee and talked to Mr. Deneen, both of whom say that there is not a word of truth in the statement.

Hoyne Denies Statement.

"I also heard from Mr. Hoyne that he made no such statement. In consequence of this investigation, I feel that I owe it to Judge Olson to present the results of the same to the court in this case, inasmuch as I have no wish to injure the judge. I did not in fact believe the statements when I saw them, but permitted the same to pass through my office because I had supposed that they came directly from Mr. Hoyne. I have, however, as I have said, been able to find no truth in the statements.

"I think in justice to the City News bureau it ought to be put on record that the statement complained of was killed within two hours after its transmission, or as soon as the office was able to reach Mr. Hoyne and learn of the error."

Prosecutor Explains Case.

John H. S. Lee, as special prosecutor, then asked that the statement signed by Brown be filed in court in the cause, and, after a conference with Judge Olson, said that inasmuch as the latter had instituted the proceedings for the purpose of proving the falsity of the statements reflecting on the Municipal court and on him, and not with any vindictive feelings toward Mr. Brown, and in view of the fact that the latter now states the charges were false, Judge Olson was willing that the case pending against Brown be dismissed.

The court then ordered that the written statement signed by Brown be filed in the cause and that on such statement and on motion of the special prosecutor such order be entered.

BOARD MAY CALL OWN SMITH TRIAL WITNESSES.

Merit Body Keeps Case of Accused Police Captain Open After Defense Closes Its Side.

At the close of the defense in the case of Capt. Joseph Smith yesterday the civil service commission announced that it may call some witnesses of its own to testify concerning conditions in the old red light district when Smith was in charge at the Twenty-second street station.

"Not now, but later," said President Percy B. Comin in making the announcement. "For that reason we shall not consider the case closed. If we decide to hear further evidence the attorneys will be notified."

He was pressed for an indication of the identity of the witnesses he had in mind. His only admission was that one of them may be the mysterious individual who Wilson Shufelt, former alderman from the Second ward, said had told him of the existence of a vice ring.

Capt. Smith was the last witness called by his attorney, Charles Barrett. His defense against the charges that private investigators could find wide open resorts while his own men could not was that the policemen were too well known.

"Did you ever ask for new men after the old ones became known?" asked Frank D. Ayers, assistant corporation counsel.

"No," was the answer.

LORAINE'S PLEA BRINGS FUNDS FOR CHRISTMAS

"Big Sister" Who Types Letters to Help Buy Daddy Medicine Is Not Neglected.

Loraine Williams' appeal to Santa Claus has brought an eager response from that beneficent old gentleman, even though Christmas is not quite here. A number of readers of THE TRIBUNE were his messengers.

Loraine, you will remember, is the 6 year old girl who addresses envelopes on a typewriter in order to help her mother buy medicine for her sick daddy.

Letter from St. Paul.

From St. Paul, Minn., comes this letter, which THE TRIBUNE will hand over to Loraine today, with the $5 check which accompanied it:

"Dear 'Big Sister' Loraine Williams: That reporter man from THE TRIBUNE had it in the paper that you run a typewriter for a living. So do I. So you just take this small Santa Claus contribution and make your ma buy a turkey with it, will you? Put your name on the back of the check, take it up to the grocery store and tell the man to give you $5 worth of rich food.

Another $5 and $1.

Santa Claus has some agents here in Illinois, too. One of them lives in Peru. He signs his letter "A Friend," and he was a real one, too. He also sent $5. From Harvard a young woman asks THE TRIBUNE to see that Loraine receives the benefit of the $1 which she inclosed. "I hope it may be spent for something more frivolous than a typewriter," she writes. "Poor little mite!"

MAY NAME SCHUETTLER BEFORE HEALEY QUITS.

Mayor Informed He Can Appoint Successor Before Present Chief Leaves His Position.

Unless the city council takes a recess over the holidays Herman F. Schuettler will be appointed chief of police before Jan. 1, the date upon which Charles C. Healey's resignation from the post takes effect.

Mayor Thompson is said to have been advised that an appointment can be made in advance of the date upon which the appointee is to enter office.

The council meets this afternoon, but Mayor Thompson has not had an opportunity to discuss the situation with First Deputy Schuettler and it is reported also that the mayor believes it would be "harsh treatment" of Chief Healey to name his successor at this time—almost two weeks before his retirement.

One appointment that will go to this afternoon's session is that of Frank I. Bennett as commissioner of public works. Ald. C. E. Merriam has assured the mayor he will move a suspension of the rules in order that the appointment may be concurred in, and it is believed the council will support the motion almost unanimously.

There is a possibility that Mayor Thompson may name candidates to fill some of the eight vacancies on the school board.

Capt. Percy B. Comin, president of the civil service commission, said he desired to relinquish that post as soon as he can do so conveniently. He estimated that he might resign at the end of six months.

COMISKEY AND BAN JOHNSON GOLF CONVERTS

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

Just after announcing that Clarence Rowland would be manager of the White Sox again next season, Owner Comiskey of the White Sox was presented with a Christmas gift from President Johnson of the American league. The gift had nothing to do with the announcement, but "Commy" opened the package with considerable interest and found a green leather bag containing seven golf sticks and a little package containing a wrist watch.

Comiskey never yet has attempted to play golf, but often has hinted that he wouldn't mind trying the game. For a fellow past 55 years old golf generally is considered the best game and "Commy" qualifies. Consequently Commy was pleased with his gift until he saw the wrist watch. He maintains that he can tell the time of day by the old fashioned method.

Ban to Learn Game, Too.

President Johnson, also an admirer of golf, but a man who has stayed away from it, figured it was time for him and Comiskey to begin. With that in mind he presented Comiskey with the golfing outfit and bought one for himself, but he didn't include the wrist watch in his own outfit.

Both Comiskey and Johnson, with Mrs. Comiskey and Mrs. Johnson, left last night for Excelsior Springs, Mo., for ten days' outing and the two golf bags were among the articles checked as baggage. Comiskey shook hands with several friends before leaving, but so far as could be seen he wore no wrist watch. A glance at his new green golf bag, as the porter lugged it to the baggage room, led one to believe that the boss of the Sox had added a strong hickory baseball bat to the outfit.

Rowland Selection Expected.

The announcement that Clarence Rowland would manage the south side team again next year was no surprise to followers of the game. Fans figured that Rowland would be given the job again, regardless of the fact that he hadn't won a pennant in the two years he has been out there with Eddie Collins and the others. Not many figured that Rowland was at fault.

There was some doubt of Rowland's retaining the job just when the season was over, for at that time Owner Comiskey was terribly disappointed in not winning the pennant. Since then the south side boss has had time to think things over and perhaps has decided that the main reason he didn't win was because the Boston Red Sox had a better team.

No Captain Appointed.

Comiskey offered no comment on his action appointing Rowland for another year. He didn't say whether "Kid" Gleason was to be retained as coach or not. Neither did he say whether Eddie Collins would continue to be captain or not. Regarding the latter position, he said something which might have a meaning, the words being about as follows:

"I might have gone out on first base myself last year and maybe we would have won the pennant. Anyway, I know of one or two instances when I would have been under some pop fly balls, whether the captain forgot to holler who was to take the ball or not."

Comiskey and Johnson, with their wives, will stay at the Missouri resort until after Christmas, when they will return to begin active operations for the coming season.

Demaree Sees Cub Prexy.

That there is some prospect of a trade between the Cubs and Phillies in which Jim Lavender will go to Moran's former champions in exchange for Al Demaree was strengthened yesterday, when Al Demaree was discovered in the Cub office holding a private conference with President Weeghman. The latter admitted afterwards that Demaree had come to learn of the conditions of the trade and had expressed a desire to become a member of the Chicago team. Demaree lives in Chicago and spends his winter months here.

PURPLE-DARTMOUTH GAME NEGOTIATIONS CALLED OFF.

Negotiations between Northwestern and Dartmouth for a gridiron contest have been discontinued because authorities at both institutions desired a home game.

When the Purple got into communication with Dartmouth the latter had already contracted for all the games the athletic authorities desired to play away from home, while Coach Murphy was in the same predicament. Dartmouth was willing to consider a two year contract for an exchange of grounds if the Purple would begin by going east. Cornell's schedule also was found to be full. The chances of an eastern game for the Purple seem to be slipping and it is likely that Coach Murphy will turn his attention to the west.

The "N" men of the squad have had their picture taken for official purposes, and with the annual banquet and presentation of sweaters this week football will be forgotten until spring practice starts.

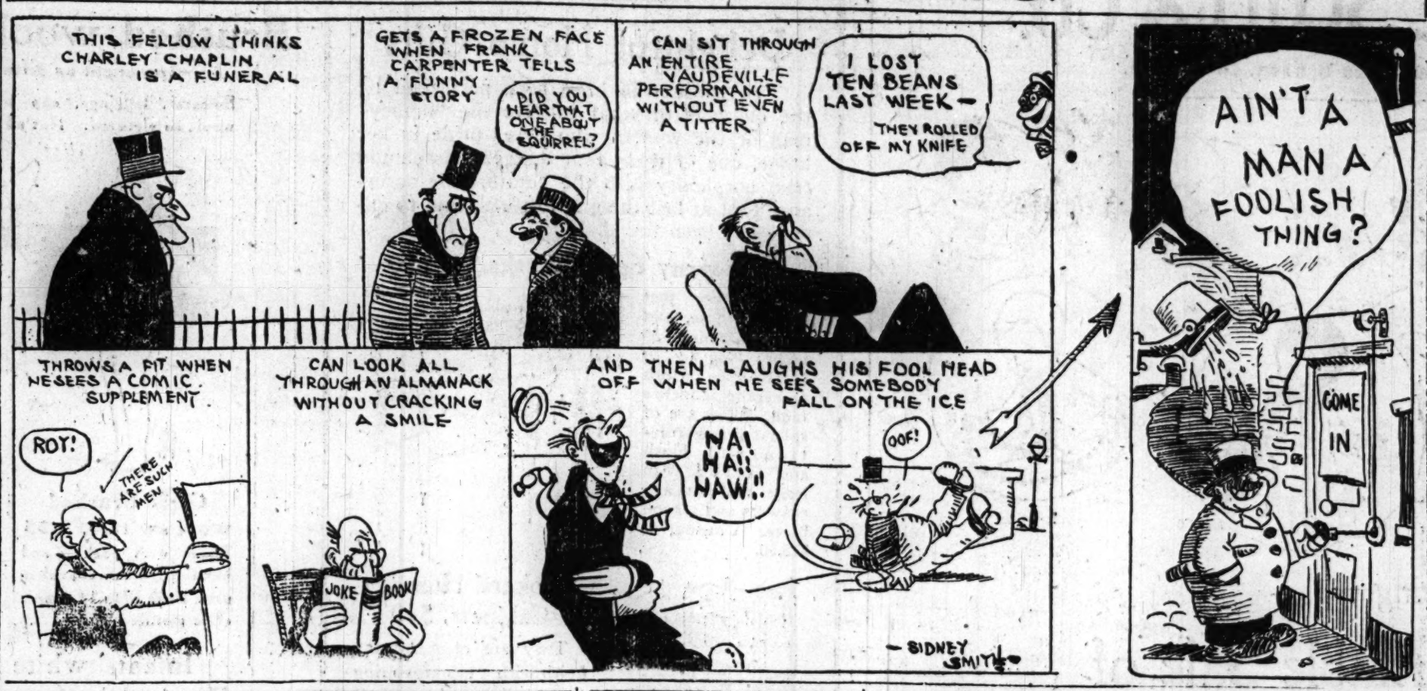
YALE MAY PLAY QUAKERS.

The University of Pennsylvania football team probably will have a place on Yale's card in 1917, the first time in twenty-four years. Capt. Neil Mathews of this fall's eleven, a Chicago boy, told of negotiations to revive gridiron relations between the two colleges when he was in this city for a brief stay recently.

NEBRASKA BOOKS SYRACUSE.

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 19.—The Nebraska football team will play Syracuse next Thanksgiving day at Lincoln. The Notre Dame game, usually played on Thanksgiving day, will be put ahead, probably to some date in October.

AIN'T A MAN A FOOLISH THING?



HERE'S ALL-STAR ELEVEN OF H. S. MIDGET PLAYERS

BY OTTO A. ENGEL.

Lightweight football fans and players of the Chicago and Suburban High school leagues, who have been clamoring for all star selections for the last three years, will have their wish gratified this morning. THE TRIBUNE presents two honorary elevens made up exclusively from the two league organizations. Outside of the fifteen schools comprising the two associations, there were about five other elevens, but as their scholastic requirements and athletic eligibility rules differ, they were not considered in the selections.

The midgets, who were limited to 135 pounds, never had a better season, and from almost every point of view the gridiron game was a success. There were larger crowds, in fact, the championship lightweight game of the Chicago league outdrew the major titular combat; there was harder and more consistent playing, and the game was much cleaner than heretofore.

No County Title Contest.

Parker carried off the honors in the Chicago league, defeating Senn by two touchdowns, after these teams had eliminated ten other contenders. Oak Park lightweights found the going comparatively easy in the suburban organization, beating Previso and Thornton, the other rivals, but Coach Thistlethwaite's youngsters were refused a Cook county championship game by the Chicagoans because of the lateness of the season.

Picking twenty-two players from among the minors was a more difficult task than selecting the two major elevens. There was considerable class among the back field youngsters, so much so that when some of the minors had completed their schedules they were transferred to the heavyweight squads and immediately made good.

Try to Pare Down Weight.

The only real criticism of the season was the matter of weights. As long as there are lightweight teams there must be a limit to weight. In several cases youngsters who ordinarily should weigh above the 140 pound mark trained down anywhere from five to eight pounds, quite frequently injuring themselves physically.

Several times the youngsters who were overweight would eat no meal the night before or breakfast the day of the game. Then wrapped in several heavy sweaters they would run two or three miles in the hopes of losing a few ounces. If they made weight they would eat one or two sandwiches and drink a bottle of milk, after which they announced themselves fit for the game. And almost as often the scales showed the aspiring boy just a trifle over the limit. The matter of weight is before the board of control and there are hopes of some sort of solution.

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Jack Dillon's amazing powers of recuperation enabled him to overcome Billy Miske by the slightest margin at the Broadway Sporting club in Brooklyn tonight.

From every standpoint Miske made a wonderful showing. In the third and fourth rounds and several times thereafter it was a question whether Dillon would be able to keep on his feet. Miske was shooting straight hard punches at him with unerring accuracy and to save himself the famed "man killer" had to wind his powerful arms about his head to ward off Miske's attack. It was plain in the rounds that followed, especially toward the end of the fight, that Miske had fought himself out.

Dillon, on the other hand, seemed to be imbued with new life and tore after the spindle shanked St. Paul youth in desperate fashion. It was Dillon's aggressiveness that gave him just enough advantage to claim the palm.

RIVALS PUT ON A LIMIT TO TIME IN WATER EVENT.

Dr. H. M. Hubeny and Commodore R. L. Doran, two leading contestants in the fifty mile swimming race of Hamilton club Seals, yesterday had to arrange a compact curtailing the hours of competition allowed daily to save each from being worn to a frazzle. They agreed not to begin their swimming until 11 a. m. and to stop promptly at 4 p. m.

Hubeny finished yesterday's competition with a total of 3,764 laps, 38 miles and 32 laps. Doran had 3,756 lengths. R. H. Williams finished in third place for the day with 1,600 laps. The scrap for fourth position developed some excitement. Dr. Steffensen led in the morning with 832 lengths, almost 200 laps' lead, and thought he had the place copped sure, but Dr. C. C. Rogers let professional ousiness go hang for the afternoon and added 240 laps for the day, giving him a total of 1,032.

REILLY IN 140 FOOT LEAP.

Barney Reilly, the only Irishman to compete with the best of the Scandinavian skiers, was a visitor in Chicago yesterday, and made directly for the big slide at the Norge Ski club at Cary. Barney essayed a couple of leaps on the improved slide, having as a mate Alex Olson, the winner of many Canadian tournaments, who is a Chicago resident. Reilly outjumped Olson thirty feet, going 140 feet in his best jump. Reilly left for his home in St. Paul, Minn., last night.

OAK PARK BASKET CHART.

Oak Park High school basketball lightweights, who will be the only players to represent their school with a team in the Suburban league this season, elected Elwood Ratcliffe captain and booked their winter games, as follows:

I. A. C. Plays Two Fives Tonight.

Illinois A. C. basketballers will tackle two hard opponents tonight. The Monmouth college quintet, coached by Herman Stegeman, former Hope college and University of Chicago star, will furnish the opposition in the feature. The Armour Institute five will be played in the curtain raiser.

Joie Ray the Proud Papa.

Joie Ray, the Illinois Athletic club star long distance runner, is the daddy of an eight pound girl which arrived at his Kankakee home yesterday. Mother and daughter are reported doing nicely.

RICHIE MITCHELL, NOW 2 HANDED, TITLE PROSPECT

"TRIBUNE" DECISIONS.

BY RAY C. PEARSON.

After seeing Richie Mitchell of Milwaukee decisively outhit and outstep Joe Welling in their rattling ten rounder at Racine Monday night any unprejudiced fan must have been thoroughly convinced that no boxer in any class has shown such wonderful improvement in the last year as the Brewery City lightweight. That improvement makes him a championship possibility beyond all question.

A year ago Mitchell was credited with being the possessor of a left handed jab, superior to that of any other lightweight in the game. It was claimed at that time that he was just as smart with that left as Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion, and that is some fast. The truth of that claim was brought home substantially by Richie's work against Welling.

Now a Two Fisted Boxer.

But it was not the marvelous left jab that attracted the attention in the Racine bout. It was the fact that Mitchell in only a few months has developed from a left handed hitter to a two handed scrapper, and a most effective one at that. His right hand punch is not a knockout wallop, but it carries steam and sting behind it and once it lands squarely on the jaw it is good for a knockdown any time. It is so good that he cracked Welling twice to the canvas in the first round, but neither time was it necessary for the Chicagoan to take all the count of nine permitted him.

"Off Night" for Welling?

Welling appeared slow against Mitchell. Some were good enough to say that Joe had an "off night," due to over fighting, for he has been jumping all around the east and west and boxing very often. But it probably would be nearer the truth to say that Welling was made to appear slow because of the terrific speed set by Mitchell.

There is no doubt that Welling, too, has greatly improved, but he doesn't possess the speed and left jab of Mitchell, and even had Mitchell not scored the pair of knockdowns in the first round, most of the critics probably would have found it necessary to score him the winner at the end of the ten rounds.

Beware of Leonard.

There is talk of rematching Mitchell and Welling for a Milwaukee arena, but if this match is made it is not likely it will be staged until after the first of the year. Also there is talk of sending the Brewery City boy against Benny Leonard of New York. It is believed, however, despite the fact there is confidence galore in the Mitchell camp, that the Milwaukee folks will think twice before signing up for this match, for Leonard has class and a punch that's a lot stiffer than that possessed by their idol. In the meantime Jimmy Johnston will trek back eastward with Welling and send him into all the matches he can get.

FOTHERINGHAM TO REMAIN.

Golf Professional George Fotheringham will remain at the Indian Hill club during 1917. There was some doubt of Fotheringham's intentions as negotiations with eastern golf clubs were rumored.

John Hackbarth, formerly of Midlothian and last year at Cincinnati, where he and his brother Otto were instructors, has been engaged by the Skokie Country club as professional for next season.

SHALL THEY HAVE THE VOTE?

SCENE 1.

Lady—Afternoon.

B. O. Man—"Romeo and Juliet."

Lady—With Muratore and Galli-Serky?

B. O. Man—Yes, it's a repetition.

Lady—The same as last Friday night?

B. O. Man—Yes.

Lady—What are the prices?

B. O. Man—Five dollars for lower floor.

Lady—It was $7 Friday night.

B. O. Man—Yes.

Lady—Have you any good seats left?

Lady—I wanted two together.

B. O. Man—We haven't two together on the lower floor.

Lady—I wanted two—my sister's coming with me.

B. O. Man—We have only singles.

Lady—I wouldn't want singles.

B. O. Man—I'm sorry.

Lady—You say you have singles?

B. O. Man—Yes; here's one in the fourteenth row.

Lady—Is that the best you have?

B. O. Man—Yes.

Lady—Well, I'd have to have two together.

B. O. Man—I'm sorry.

Lady (going out)—My sister's coming with me.

SCENE 2.

Lady—I wonder if you have any Kreisler records.

Salesman—Oh, yes.

Lady—I wonder if you have that little thing he played last time. It was an encore. It began with S.

Lady—Would you kindly look for me? I'd have to put on my glasses. It began with S.

Lady—No; it's none of those. It was just a little thing. He played it for an encore. I'm positive it began with S, but I may be mistaken.

Salesman—I'm afraid we can't find it unless you have the name of it.

Lady—It was a pretty little thing; sort of simple. He plays so many things that really have no melody. This was an encore. It began with S.

Salesman—I don't think we have it.

Lady—Do you know another store where I'd be likely to find it?

Salesman—I'm afraid not.

Lady—Well, I'll have to try somewhere else.

INDIANA U. BOARD REFUSES EMBLEMS TO 'PRO' PLAYERS.

Bloomington, Ind., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Russell G. Hathaway, full back, has been elected 1917 football captain at Indiana university. At a meeting of the athletic board today nineteen "I's" were granted, but the letter was refused to Quarter Back Walter Hess and Half Back Archie Erehart on the grounds of professionalism because they played in a game at Lafayette Dec. 3 between Pine Village and the Hammond Clabbys. The athletic board decided to begin the erection of a stadium on the new athletic field to cost about $75,000.

C. A. A. JR.S SWIM TONIGHT.

Sons of club members at the Chicago Athletic association will compete in a dual swimming meet against young natators of the Hebrew institute in the Cherry Circle pool tonight. The C. A. A. juniors will have a team of eleven contestants. Winners will receive prizes.

SKATERS ASK HELP FROM 'THE TRIBUNE'

Chicago, Dec. 19.—[Sporting Editor of The Tribune.]—Assistance! Assistance! That's what we ice skaters need here on the northwest side, in Pulaski park, embraced by Noble, Bradley, Blackhawk, and Cleaver streets.

We have here a large number of ice skaters, but no good ice. I have spoken to the director of Pulaski park about the ice, and he says that he had no hose large enough.

I would like to beg THE TRIBUNE, in behalf of the large number of skaters, to influence the west park commissioners to furnish this park with sufficient hose (fire hose) to furnish us with good ice. The park was closed half the time last winter.

CUE LEAD TO DE ORO; BEATS MOORE, 50-38

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Alfredo De Oro proved his mastery of the intricacies of billiard english tonight. Thereby he led off in the challenge match for the world's three cushion carom championship, beating George Moore, defending title holder, in the first block of points, 50 to 38.

The famous champion of other days appeared at times to have the ivories bewitched, much to the delight of the crowd that sat about the table. He was favored by two fortunate kisses. His luck was accentuated as Moore gallantly attempted his spectacular up and down the table shots, often missed by the scantiest of margins. De Oro got in his high run of six on his fifty-first turn at the table from a scratch. Score:

Kleker Plumbers of the Martinek league rolled an eleventh hour victory i the Chicago Bowling association championship last night. They won the five men team title on the final shift of 400 teams that bowled for honors of the city. The team got the high total of 2,983. They opened with a count of 1,011, added ,956 next game, and then went into the trenches, the famous bad alleys of the Randolph drives. The Plumbers forever removed the curse on these alleys by winning the city medals with a game of 1,016.

John Stech was the best individual performer on the team with 636. The Plumbers displayed Louis Miller No. 1 quintet, whose 2,888 total last Saturday seemed destined to win the tournament.

While the plumbers were cinching their honors Victor Chabot and Frank Siska, two youngsters who belong to the Logan Squares in the Monroe Junior league, but who shot under the El Rector banner, took first place in the two men event with 1,261. Siska carried the team with 660. Scores:

AT THE BILLIARD ROOMS.

At Bensinger's Madison street room Lewin won a three cushion tournament match from Olson, 32 to 27.

In the three cushion match between the F. and F. and the Berger rooms, Miesel for the former defeated Gray for the Berger, 50 to 40.

R. J. Kaye won first prize in the rapid fire pocket billiard tournament at Peterson's Thirty-fifth street rooms. E. Smith was second, R. Brown third, and L. Walsh fourth. The Peterson five men team will play at Foley's tonight.

Howard and Cooney [32] beat Heller and Harrison [28], 32 to 28, in the team three cushion tournament at Foley's. In the team event, Strauss and Ward [30] defeated Root and Herd [30], 30 to 18. In class A, Lewis [40] defeated Henderson [40], 40 to 29. Boerisen and Lewis tonight.

A new billiards competition will be started tonight with a home and home series between five men teams from Peterson's and Foley's. Each man will be allowed two misses to an inning and after every one of the ten plays five innings the results will be totaled. Tomorrow the quintets will play a return match at Peterson's.

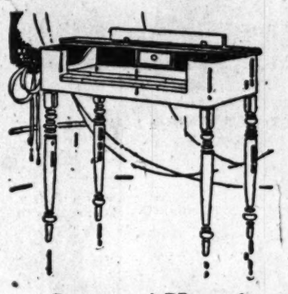
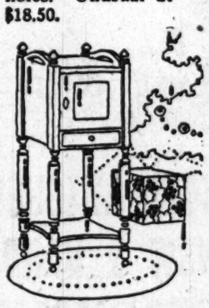
Delightful Home Gifts

To those who have been perplexed by the question of what to give the "homey" man or the woman who takes pride in her home, one of these four suggestions should turn perplexity into the comfortable assurance that at last the gift to please and to endure has been found.

Mahogany Spinet Desks, $18.50

There are just fifty of these, and they measure 36 inches long by 20 inches in width and stand 32 inches high. They are of splendid construction and finish and fitted with large and small drawers and pigeon holes. Unusual at $18.50.





Smokers' Humidor Cabinets, $10

They are of mahogany finish with a top measuring 12x12 inches and a cabinet standing 27 inches high. They are fitted with a humidor drawer and particularly well constructed. Attractively priced, $10.

Smokers' Cabinet and Table, $6

These are made in the mission style of fumed oak. The top measures 13x13 inches and they stand 31 inches high.

The top has a removable brass tray, fitted with three accessories, and the cabinet measures 12x18 inches in height. Fifty of these are to sell at $6 each.

500 Candlesticks, of Solid Mahogany, at 50c

The candlestick pictured is so much better than those usually found at this price that it must be seen to be appreciated. It is complete with bright red candle and stands with the candle 14½ inches high. 50c each.

MICHIGAN AVE. LINK PROJECT NOW ASSURED

Practically All of the Objecting Property Owners Withdraw Their Protests.

BY HENRY M. HYDE.

Chicago's most splendid dream is certain to come true. The work which will make Michigan avenue a wide and magnificent connecting link between the north and south sides is certain to be done.

Yesterday in Judge Pond's court all but a very few of the protesting property owners withdrew their legal objections to the great project. The others, there is not much doubt, will appear in court this morning and join in the request to have all the legal technicalities which have been raised in the case resolved in favor of the city.

Result of Compromise.

The withdrawals of yesterday were the result of a compromise agreed on between George A. Mason, representing the great bulk of the objecting owners, and Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements.

Under its terms every owner against whose property an assessment has been levied will have the amount he is called on to pay reduced by 20 per cent. The money to meet these payments will come out of an unexpended balance of $900,000 remaining from the proceeds of the bond issue of $3,500,000 voted by the people to pay that part of the improvement which is taxed as a public benefit.

Prevents Legal Delays.

Lawyers have a way of digging up all sorts of technical and legal objections to public improvements—in the interest of their clients—which drag from one court to another for years before a final decision is reached. Perhaps in the end the high court says the improvement may go on. It may declare that some apparently minor but legally important detail has been overlooked, in which case all the work of preparation must be done over again.

It is exactly such delays that the present compromise prevents. Once Judge Pond enters his formal order—provided the few property owners who are still out of the reservation agree to it—it becomes absolutely certain that the Michigan avenue improvement will be pushed through to completion.

Plenty of Money Provided.

With these legal objections finally out of the way the city can go right ahead to sell the bonds and to collect the special assessments from the 8,500 property owners within the large district which will be benefited by the improvement. In this way plenty of money will be provided for financing the great work as it progresses.

As in the case of Twelfth street, there seems to be more chance of delay in the erection of the great new bridge over the river and its approaches than in the work of moving buildings out of the way of the widened avenue.

The cases of individual property owners who think the assessments made against them are too high or that the damages to their buildings and grounds, as fixed by the official assessors, are too low, will have to be heard in court. How much time this will take is variously estimated at from three to six months.

But it will not be necessary to wait until all these cases have been settled. If any owner appeals to the Supreme court the city can still file a bond to cover the possible difference in damages asked for and allowed and proceed at once to take possession of the condemned property.

In cases where property owners settle at the figure allowed by the judge or jury in the lower court, the city can at once pay over the money and start to tear down or move back the building involved.

It is the ambition of "Mike" Faherty's life to get the actual work started not later than July 1.

The improvement contemplates taking seventy-five feet off all the lots on the east side of Michigan avenue from Randolph street to the river, thus making the boulevard the same width as far south as Twelfth street. On the north side seventy-five feet will be taken from the lots on the west side of Pine street and Lincoln parkway as far north as Chicago avenue, where it will join the already completed Lake Shore drive.

MR. SOTHERN ON AN ERRAND OF MERCY

BY PERCY HAMMOND.

CHARITY and the best of the romantic dramas beckon you to the Blackstone, where Mr. Sothern, a bountiful mendicant, implores alms for the British Red Cross. He has postponed his abdication that he may send his fourth of the receipts of "If I Were King" to the hospitals of the allies and he has the hospitals of the allies, and he has his endeavors. The measure of Chicago's munificence and its good taste in plays is indicated by its contribution of $152 last night and $183 the night preceding.

Mr. McCarthy's romance renews itself like a classic; the glamour of its speech and incident is as rich as ever. It is not necessary to tell again of the star's impersonation of the delectable vagabond further than to say that Villon is still the best of his roles. Miss Margaret Dale represents "the loveliest lady this side of heaven" in the revival, and is perhaps a bit chill for that proud and glowing heroine. But I can think of no stage picture more fascinating than her first appearance, looking as if she had stepped from a painted window. Although her voice at times seemed unfitted to Mr. McCarthy's luscious cadences, she thrilled the audience as from the palace steps she read the pretty song—

Fear goes in sable,
Courage in gold.

Miss Virginia Hammond was a lovely thing in the green tights of the wanton Abbess, but her voice, too, was scarcely the velvet organ best suited to the play. Once, I fear, she almost squawked. Mr. George Wilson repeated his inimitable performance of the mean, shrewd, and crafty King Louis.

Mr. Drew will come to the Blackstone Jan. 8 in "Major Pendennis."

At the Palace:

Dan Burke—An earnest oldtimer spoiling a new dancing act by maudlin speech and behavior.

Santley and Norton—Through some sinister influence or other they are the hit of the bill. They sing doggerel called "Honolulu, America Loves You," and get away with it.

Henry B. Toomer & Co.—A flip mummer with three competent aids representing jitney vaudeville players in a likely sketch named "The Headliners."

Mrs. La Tourry—The erstwhile Jersey Lily in "Ashes," which is a little drama illustrating how Lady Lambert foiled a fashionable blackmailer. The piece is compact, dramatic, literate, pretty well acted, and a credit to vaudeville. The star wears an impressive creation, evidently from the ateliers of Sears-Roebuck et Cie.

"Chic" Sale—A favorite caricaturist in new travesties of rural types. As a small-town parson he preaches a funny sermon with the futile enterprise of Old Mother Hubbard as his text.

Francis and Kennedy—They open the show.

The Lunette Sisters—They close it.

"Hoffmann" Repeated: Opera-News

Without a protean Renaud to identify while varying the three bad-men of "The Tales of Hoffmann," last night's way of a man for each part gives better results. Beck repeated his good-enough first-act villain of the recent half-price performance; Maguenat was perfect as the second; and Dufranne made easy work of the easy third. Both Dalmores and Miss Macbeth were better than in the earlier performance: his voice back, his Hoffmann had its old charm and sincerity. The little coloratura made a brave and successful effort against private woes, and sang the doll's music excellently.

Miss Amsden was an improvement on her predecessor as the Venetienne, in the second episode. Miss De Phillippe's Antonia at half-price was preferable to last night's.

Offenbach's work has, in the ten years since Hammerstein and Campanini revived it in New York, earned a long layoff: it can, with complete safety, be returned to the library for at least three seasons. When next taken out, it should be given with splendor: it is just that kind.

This afternoon, the extra "Königskinder," with Farrar; tonight, "Cavalleria," with Raisa, and "Pagliacci," with Muratore's convincing argument that he is the First Tenor. Farrar's is an exquisite appeal as the Goose-Girl; and Pollak's affection for Humperdinck's pastel score is a twin with Campanini's for "Falstaff." Raisa's Santuzza, of itself, would make the first part of the night program something else than routine diversion for an audience waiting on Muratore: she is ninety percent as good as Calvé was in this part. Her Mrs. Ford in "Falstaff" is reason for regarding her as foolish in not making up the missing ten.

Galli-Curci is scheduled for but one appearance next week—Wednesday night, in "Lucia." When, later, she sings in "The Barber," her interpolated number in the lesson-scene will be the bell-song from "Lakmé."

Dvorák's cantata called "The Spectre's Bride" will be sung tonight in Orchestra hall by Lucille Stevenson, John B. Miller, James Goddard, the good basso of the Opera, and more than two hundred choristers, with forty-five members of the Symphony orchestra.

DONNERSBERGER NO WIDOWER; CON GAME FAILS

Theodore George Cook About to Receive $14,000 in Henrici's When Captured.

In order to dispose of a forged deed without the necessity of producing a "wife" to sign away the dower rights, a gang of forgers, one of whom impersonated Joseph Donnersberger, former South park commissioner, represented Mr. Donnersberger as a "widower."

A clerk, making an abstract of the forged deed in the office of the Chicago Title and Trust company, happened to know Mr. Donnersberger. He also knew Mrs. Donnersberger.

And consequently the Pinkertons were enabled last night to hit upon the gang who operated on the pattern of the Mann act syndicate, most of whose members are now sojourning in Atlanta penitentiary.

$14,000 Forgery.

One agent of the syndicate (himself possibly a dupe) was arrested last night in the act of consummating a $14,000 deal in a bogus deed, with Donnersberger, the Chicago Title and Trust company, and Attorney Paul Warnholtz as the victims.

The man arrested is Theodore George Cook, alias Frank Donaldson, a steward employed in the Chicago Home for Incurables. He was captured in Henrici's restaurant, where he went to receive $14,000 from Attorney Warnholtz in exchange for a forged deed of trust to property at 5425 and 5431 Cottage Grove avenue, owned by Joseph Donnersberger.

Smooth Intriguer Sought.

The detectives are now looking for the suave, sleek gentleman of opulent front and plausible speech, who so successfully enacted the rôle of "Joseph Donnersberger" in the smoothly executed intrigue. He is described as about 50 years of age, and is known to have lived at 1064 Fifty-fourth street.

When Cook was placed under arrest no one was so thoroughly astonished as Attorney Paul Warnholz, the intended victim. Mr. Warnholz fancied in Cook he had a profitable client, whom he was serving as both attorney and realty broker. Mr. Warnholtz admits that he received $150 as a retainer fee to examine the title to the Donnersberger property, and further agreed to buy the deed of trust, reserving from the purchase price a fat little sum as commission.

What Cook Said.

"I knew Cook as 'Frank Donaldson,'" said the attorney. "He came to my office for legal services. He said he and his father, William Donaldson, held notes given by Joseph Donnersberger for $14,000. He said Mr. Donnersberger had agreed to convey to them a deed of trust as security for the loans and desired the titles to be searched. I accepted the commission and found the property all right.

"Then when Cook, or 'Donaldson,' offered to sell me the deed I thought it would make a good investment and agreed to take it up. An arrangement was made for me to meet 'Donaldson' and 'Joseph Donnersberger' in Henrici's restaurant. I met them and the deed was signed."

It was when Mr. Warnholtz kept a later appointment to pay for the deed that William E. Webster of the Pinkertons found Cook. Cook insists that he himself was duped by the bogus Joseph Donnersberger.

Trust Company Suspicious.

The swindle syndicate probably would still be sailing smoothly had it not been for officials of the Chicago Title and Trust company, who thought it improbable that a man of Joseph Donnerberger's financial consequence would have to pawn his property deeds to borrow $14,000. The Pinkerton Detective agency was put on the case.

In Cook's room at 5335 Ellis avenue were found papers which may aid the detectives in capturing the gang. A number of letters from the Rev. Clifford Littell Le Duc of 600 West Twenty-second street were found, all containing the injunction that the communication should be destroyed.

COMPLETE SUBWAY REPORT GOES TO COUNCIL TODAY.

Final Draft of Traction Experts' Conclusions and Recommendations Will Be Made Public.

For the first time, the complete conclusions and recommendations of the traction and subway commission will be made public at the city council meeting this afternoon.

The last extension of time for the completion of the $250,000 survey expires today and, although the printing will not be complete, Ald. Henry D. Capitain, chairman of the local transportation committee, which fathered the investigation, insisted that the report be sent to the council without further delay.

Interest in the text to be given out centers in the financial plan to be proposed. Most of the text concerning new construction and methods of operation already has been made public.

ASSESSED ONE GOOD COAT.

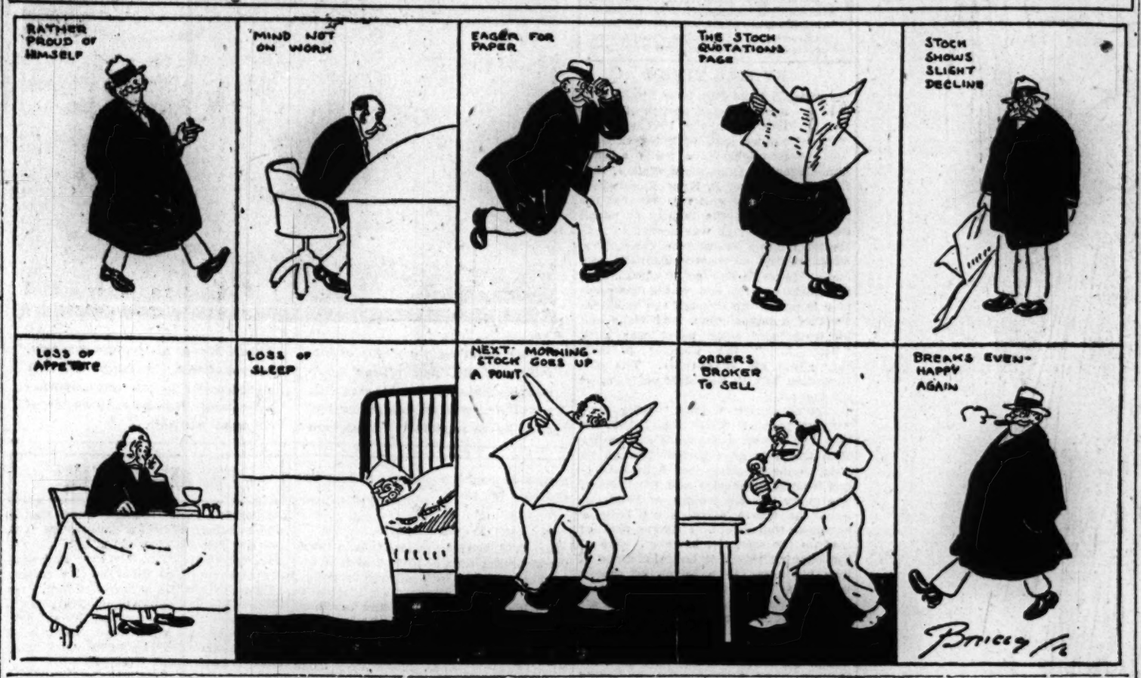
Charles Ringer, newly elected member of the board of assessors, was himself assessed yesterday to the extent of a new overcoat and a hat by some self-appointed assessor who entered Mr. Ringer's office at lunch time, removed the good coat and hat, and left two old garments.

MOVIE OF A MAN WHO HAS MADE HIS FIRST INVESTMENT IN THE STOCK MARKET



CAUSES ALARM AT DEL PRADO

Deputy Sheriff Joseph J. Killackey and a nurse from the Mental Hygiene society paid professional calls at the Del Prado hotel yesterday. The clamors of guests that poured over the wires in Judge Scully's private chambers for several days had precipitated their presence.

When the authorities arrived the woman had left nothing but an unoccupied room.

For some time the woman has lived at the Del Prado and has had a penchant for thin apparel in zero weather. On the coldest days she would go forth, minus almost everything warm, jacket unbottoned and her feet shod in tennis shoes.

Thus robed, she would stand on the streets for hours, it is said. In response to "spirit calls" from her "control," she would walk from the far south side to the north side at night.

These excursions led her to the residence of Mrs. Leonard A. Busby, wife of the president of the Chicago Surface lines, at 3118 Sheridan road almost every evening, bent on old friendship calls that dated back to the time when the Busbys lived on the south side and she was their neighbor.

"It seems we have always known her," Mrs. Busby said. "She blames me for something—I don't know what—and is obsessed with the idea of persecution. Every one is trying to crucify her, she thinks."

"Nothing can be done unless a physician or some one takes the step," said Judge Scully. "The court's nurses always make an investigation quietly before a patient is brought in. The nurses haven't had an opportunity in this case. If the ambulance hadn't been out of commission last night the unfortunate woman would have been taken care of, but it wasn't, and she got away."

CHICAGO SOCIAL CLUB HOLDS FIRST MEETING.

The Chicago Social club, formed some time ago by a coterie which desired a permanent organization through which new acquaintances could be made under proper environment, held its first meeting of the winter in the Francis I. room of the Congress hotel last night. A musical program was followed by dancing.

The club, formerly known as the Lonesome club, has planned a series of fortnightly meetings for the winter and spring. The next meeting will be held at the Congress hotel Jan. 2. One of the aims of the club is the establishment of a place where strangers in Chicago can form new friendships and enjoy themselves inexpensively.

Those who head the organization propose to provide girls with the proper chaperonage. Every member must be unmarried. The cost of membership is nominal. Dr. W. B. Pennington heads the membership committee.

TAKEN AS EXPRESS ROBBERS

James Riley and Eugene Pike, identified as two of a band of five men who robbed an Adams Express company wagon on Nov. 1 of $1,000 and checks for $500, were brought back from Detroit last night. Ray Blackburn and William Mecca, two other alleged members of the band, are being held in Detroit.

THREE HOLD UP TAILOR SHOP

Three well dressed young men walked into the Paris tailoring establishment at 5 West Illinois street, presented revolvers, and took bills and change amounting to $120 from William Skrapis, the proprietor, and Charles Wink, an employé. Then they strolled out, after warning Mr. Skrapis they would blow him to pieces if he made any outcry or attempted pursuit.

DR. FISK, NORTHWESTERN'S OLDEST PROFESSOR, DIES.

The Rev. Herbert Franklin Fisk, D. D., LL. D., connected for forty-three years with Northwestern university, Evanston, thirty years as head of the Evanston academy, and thirteen years as professor in the university, yesterday died at his residence, 1625 Judson avenue, Evanston.

Dr. Fisk was 76 years of age and was the oldest professor in the college of liberal arts of the university. He came to Evanston in 1873 and after he had served as principal of the academy for thirty years he was given a notable testimonial from educators in all parts of the country. The academy building was named Fisk hall in his honor and was the gift of the late William Deering. Dr. Fisk was first married to Miss Anna Green of Portageville, N. Y., in 1866. She died in 1908. In February, 1912, he was married to Miss Carla Fern Sargent, a former pupil and teacher in the academy.

Dr. Fisk was born at Stoughton, Mass., Sept. 25, 1840. He was ordained to the ministry and served a brief period as pastor, but most of his life was devoted to the work of education.

DIME CONCERTS CALLED OFF UNTIL AFTER THE NEW YEAR.

Press of Christmas Duties and Entertainments Causes Management Temporarily to Discontinue Shows

Owing to the multiplicity of entertainments, devotionals and Christmas duties which crowd the season, it has been decided at a conference representing the Civic Music association, the board of education and THE TRIBUNE, to defer other concerts in the "dime series" by the American Symphony orchestra until the new year. Glenn Dillard Gunn, conductor of the orchestra, suggested the interruption of the series because many persons who would like to attend would be engaged by obligations of the season. The next "pop concert," therefore, will be announced early in January.

As a result of the concerts thus far given several localized movements for inexpensive music have been started in Chicago. Dr. L. E. Gordon of 3534 West Twelfth street has secured the consent of Jaroslov Zmhari, principal of the Herzl school, for the use of the school auditorium to present a series of free concerts and is raising a subscription fund to employ musicians of reputation. The concerts will not offer large orchestras. It is purposed to present a pianist and violinist at one; pianist, soloist and several stringed instruments at another; wind instruments and a soloist at a third. Other programs will be arranged later.

O'DONNELL WINS OVER HOYNE

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 19.—A motion asking leave to file proceedings charging Maclay Hoyne, Cook county state's attorney, with contempt of court was granted to Patrick H. O'Donnell, Chicago attorney, by the Illinois Supreme court today. O'Donnell charges Hoyne with harboring a fugitive from justice that he might use him as a witness in a case against O'Donnell.

LAW AFTER DAMAGED GOODS.

Doctors Discuss Statute to Compel Report of Venereal Disease Cases.

At a meeting held in the office of Health Commissioner John Dill Robertson last night more than a score of prominent physicians discussed the advisability of a proposed law to compel physicians to report all cases of venereal diseases to the health department.

4,300 BASKETS FOR POOR.

MEN AID WOMEN FOR CLUB HOME

Fifty Form Advisory Board for Proposed Structure Near Loop.

In an enthusiastic meeting last night at the Chicago Woman's club more than fifty men active in business and civic affairs pledged their support to the club's building project. The men will form an advisory committee to assist the women in securing the proposed clubhouse for which property has been bought on Eleventh street.

Most of the talks were made by the men, but Mrs. Harlan Ward Cooley, president of the club; Miss Grace Temple, chairman of the building committee, and Mrs. H. M. Wilmarth told of the plans as far as they have progressed, the results so far obtained, and cited some of the achievements of the club as a justification for a permanent home.

Adopt a Resolution.

The following resolution was adopted:

The Chicago Woman's club has been a powerful and unwavering influence for good, initiating many important movements for civic welfare, giving unstinted service and support in every public need, and responding with cordiality and vigor to every worthy appeal. The time has now come when the club must have its own home if its work is not to be crippled.

We heartily approve and indorse this project and the plans made for carrying it out, and we will, by every means in our power, encourage and further this enterprise to the end that it may reach an early and successful consummation.

Charles L. Hutchinson was chairman of the meeting, and there were talks by Harrison B. Riley, Harry Hart, Wilbur Messer, John W. O'Leary, Victor Yarros, and Harry A. Wheeler.

Among the Guests.

Among those at the meeting were:

A. C. Becker, Judge E. O. Brown, Harlan W. Cooley, Avery Coonley, Clyde M. Carr, Benjamin Carpenter, Arthur Dixon, George W. Dixon, Samuel Dauchy, Charles F. Gunther, Jens Jensen, Edwin L. Lobdell, George E. Hooker, Rudolph Matz, Levy Mayer, Arthur J. Mason, E. K. Pond, I. K. Pond, B. E. Sunny, John G. Shedd, Charles H. Swift, William R. Stirling, Harold H. Swift, Paul Schulze, G. H. Jones, E. C. Wentworth, Dr. W. A. Evans.

Miss Temple said the plans call for an expenditure of $800,000. The women expect to complete the payment of $225,000 for the land by March. Members of the club have contributed $129,000 and plan to give in all $250,000. The total of the unconditional donations is $143,000 and of the conditional $61,000.

WOMAN BURNED BY BENZINE.

Mrs. Catherine Burns Saved from Immediate Death by Firemen.

Mrs. Catherine Burns, 60 years old, was seriously burned yesterday by an explosion of benzine fumes in the basement of a three story apartment building at 334 East Twenty-fourth street, where she was cleaning carpet. Firemen rescued Mrs. Burns. Mrs. Mary Roebuck, a pneumonia patient on the third floor, was carried down the ladders in a bundle of blankets.

HITS HOTEL MAN IN COURT.

Excitement was caused among spectators and defendants in the Desplaines street court yesterday when William Martin struck Albert Levinson, proprietor of the Le Grand hotel, 1255 West Madison street, several times after he had been fined $100 on a charge of disorderly conduct preferred by Levinson. He faces another trial.

DRIVER ROBBED OF $100.

Police Investigate Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. Employe's Story.

The police are investigating a report that Henry Huebner, 4903 Cullom avenue, a driver for Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., had been robbed of $100 by two armed men last night.

JURY RELEASES WOMAN BELIEVER IN HEALER'S TIPS.

Mrs. Blanca Pick Scully Held Not Unsound Because She Took Financial "Advice."

Belief in the efficacy of Christian Science treatment along financial as well as physical lines was adjudged no indication of unsoundness of mind when Mrs. Blanca Pick Scully was found to be in full possession of her faculties by a jury yesterday before Judge Henry Horner in the Probate court.

It was charged by the petitioners for a conservator of Mrs. Scully's property, presented by her two daughters, Paula and Magdalene, and a sister, Mrs. Clementine Boetter, that Mrs. Scully was under the influence of George A. Landis of 7717 Sheridan road, who says he is a Christian Science practitioner, who, they alleged, had designs on some property which would soon come into Mrs. Scully's possession.

At the hearing on Monday Miss Magdalene Scully told of a visit she made to Mr. Landis upon her mother's orders to take treatments, and alleged she had been seized and kissed by Landis in his private office. On the stand Mrs. Scully defended the name and character of Landis and said she did not believe Magdalene's story concerning Landis' alleged amorous actions.

"I told her I did not believe her," said Mrs. Scully. "Magdalene had lied to me when she told me she had not been taking treatments of Mr. Landis. She and Paula had often hatched up lies."

"When you sent Magdalene to Mr. Landis, did you know he was living with a woman not his wife?" asked Attorney Frederick A. Bangs, counsel for the petitioners.

"I had heard these things, but they happened before he became a Scientist."

"Do you know that when he was a member of the Eighth Church of Christ, Scientist, and when he was about to be tried and put out, he resigned?"

"No."

Aeroplane Company Head Demands Payment for Use of Patents—May Be Peril to Industry.

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—The Curtiss Aeroplane company of Buffalo, of which Glenn Curtiss is president, announced today that all manufacturers of aeroplanes would be expected to obtain licenses for building flying boats with features on which the Curtiss company holds patents. The notice did not state the amount of royalty the concern would demand.

Following less than twenty-four hours after the announced demand by the Wright-Martin Aircraft corporation for a 5 per cent royalty on the gross business of all manufacturers of aeroplanes, the two have created a situation which, aeronautical authorities say, seriously threatens the development of aviation in this country.

Several manufacturers notified the Aero Club of America today that it would be impossible for them to continue in business and pay royalties.

BOYS FROM NAVY STATION CAUGHT IN HELM'S WOODS.

Two Enlisted Seamen Arrested by Chief of Police, Who Claims $100 Reward.

Police Chief McGuire of Lake Forest, with George Koppenhoefer, superintendent of Westleigh farm, owned by L. F. Swift, sallied forth armed with rifles and in Helm's woods near the three oaks they came upon the two seamen, one cooking over a fire and the other standing guard with a shotgun that had been stolen the night before from a watchman's shanty along with a quantity of provisions.

The seamen capitulated and McGuire and Koppenhoefer returned them to the Great Lakes station, making claim for the customary reward of $50 a head.

AID CHICAGO SUBTREASURY.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—The life of the subtreasury at Chicago was formally prolonged today when the house restored the annual appropriation for its maintenance in the legislative bill.

ITALIAN SLAIN; 29TH ON LIST OF BLACK HAND

Workman, Few Hours Earlier, Shot in "Mafia" Quarter by "Masher" Annoying Girls.

BULLETIN.

Peter Mandaella of Muskegon, Mich., was shot to death in front of a saloon at 2111 Wentworth avenue. He carried a loaded revolver. The saloon is within 200 feet of the Twenty-second street police station.

Peter Mandaella escaped from Muskegon on Sunday after shooting into a crowd and wounding two men. The Muskegon police started searching for him. It is believed not unlikely that one of his intended victims killed him in revenge.

Bruno Poti, before whose saloon the shooting took place, is being held. A letter found in the dead man's pocket asked Pasquale Tintone of Muskegon to send Mandaella's clothing to him.

HE DEFENDED WOMEN

Italian "mashers" claimed another victim yesterday. After the smoke had cleared last night at South Sangamon and West Harrison streets, it was found that one more man had gone down with a bullet in payment for his interference when the offender pressed his unwelcome attentions upon a factory girl.

The shooting occurred while the police were searching the city for Louis Deliolacono, alias for "Louie the Masher," the Italian who shot and killed Patrolman Edward J. Mulvihill Monday night when that officer interrupted one of his flirtations. So the list grows, having broken over the bounds of purely "Black Hand" attacks.

J. J. Sullivan the Victim.

Joseph J. Sullivan is the victim of the second shooting. Sullivan, who lives at 1118 South Leavitt street, is a cable splicer. He was working near the scene of the gunman attack when he saw two flashily dressed Italians annoying two factory girls who had just emerged from an employés' exit, about which the mashers had been hovering.

The young women are Miss Josephine Iorli, 21 years old, of 913 South Halsted street, and Mrs. Carmellio Vallo, 23 years old, of Sholto street and Vermont Park place. They tried to avoid the mashers and screamed when the men persisted in their insults.

Drive "Mashers" Away.

Sullivan and his companions came to the rescue and drove the "mashers" away with threats. Ten minutes later the Italians returned and when ordered away a second time one of them drew a revolver and fired two shots, one of which struck Sullivan in the left side. The injured cable splicer was taken to the county hospital, while the police added the description of one more Italian gunman to their long list of "wanted."

The police redoubled their efforts. Late last night they reported seven arrests of Italians supposed to have knowledge of the identity or whereabouts of Patrolman Mulvihill's slayer.

"Mulvihill was a brave policeman and brought honor to the department," said Police Chief Healey as he announced that he would visit the murdered policeman's widow today.

Mrs. Mulvihill and her two sons, Jeremiah, 8, and William, 6, will make their future home with Mrs. Thomas H. O'Brien, 6150 South Laflin street. The two boys will carry out their father's wish and serve as altar boys at St. Finbarr's Catholic church at Christmas mass.

LESSING ROSENTHAL AGAINST ELEVATED I. C. TRACKS.

Says Other Roads, to Use Terminal Tracks, Should Use Electricity as Motive Power.

Lessing Rosenthal last night criticized some of the proposals of the Illinois Central railroad for its new lake front terminal. He was one of the speakers at a meeting at Lincoln center called for a discussion of the "immediate electrification" of the company's tracks within the city limits.

His chief objection was directed at the proposed elevated structure at Eighteenth street to give other railroads access to the Illinois Central tracks.

"There is no doubt," he said "that the other roads should have access to the terminal tracks, but this is an opportunity to make them come in by some power other than steam and to make them come in by a subway."

FASHION'S BLUE BOOK

Evening Frock of Rose and Gold.

BY HELEN MERRILL EMERY.

WITH the opening of the social season the evening frock stands forth in all its glory and seldom have models more beautiful in line and color been seen. Gorgeous brocades interwoven with shimmering gold and silver threads and velvets of most supple weaves are favored for the older woman, while for the debutante there are tulle and point d'esprit models, delightful in their suggestion of youthful charm.

Shown in the accompanying illustration is an exquisite frock which displays the elongated waist line and slender silhouette characteristic of the present day modes. Tulle in a delicate shade of flesh pink is chosen for this model with the pointed corselet and long panels of tulle beautifully embroidered in fine gold thread. The tunic attached to the corsage with an upstanding frill is edged with pearls, double strands of which form shoulder straps. The sleeves, mere suggestions ending in frills, are of tulle, and an exquisite color effect is achieved by the introduction of old blue velvet in the form of a train threaded through an embroidered band on the bodice.

Evening wraps almost defy description, so gorgeous are the fabric chosen for their fashioning. Fur of every description is used most lavishly in great cowl collars or deep square capes and cuffs reaching above the elbows as well as in bands of various widths edging the hem. Old blue velvet is chosen for one exquisite model trimmed with blue fox, while moleskin bands an equally lovely wrap developed in hunter's green chiffon velvet. Fur her distinction is added by a square cape and cuffs of this lovely fur.

BY MAE TINEE.

"THE Land Just Over Yondeer" is a weak sister, though one realizes regretfully that with the proper kind of home training it might have made a good film. Meaning, to be more explicit, that the story by Peter B. Kyne, from which it was made, was colorful, but that the producers lacked the faculty of adroit manipulation which was needed to turn the story into a live picture. The story, which is that of the friendship of two men, "pards," who go prospecting in the gold country, and whose comradeship is broken up through the machinations of a bad woman, was virile and inspiring, and your heart was with "Billy Boy," the younger partner, throughout his vicissitudes. The picturization affects you differently—or it did me.

They've chosen a good looking chap for the part of "Billy Boy," but one who has not an atom more personality than the gods gave geese. Though he puts up one cracking good fight, emerging from it disheveled and triumphant, you never lose the feeling—or I did not—that he was a softy, a cry baby—a hopeless—well—boob! I blame part of that on the scenario, however. One of the cunning things it has him do is to sign his name to a bunch of checks which he hands over to the quarterbreed he has married and who has already proved unfaithful, before leaving town.

Is it any wonder, I ask you, that, returning home unexpectedly, he meets her eloping with a former lover, plethoric with his money? The fight comes in when he beats up said lover, whom he leaves wandering in the desert. Lover dies and he is convicted of his murder. He doesn't hang, for Old Pard gets him out of it. One wouldn't have minded seeing him hang, however.

Jane Vernon as the quarterbreed was unpleasantly convincing. She looked just about as hard as they make them. Just like, to quote Mr. William Roach, manager for the picture and many others and formerly well known as owner of a number of the city's popular melodrama houses, "The girls who used to come to the window and say, 'Gimme a seat in de fit row or I won' come!'"

I liked Arthur Millett as Toyjabe Tom Jennings, the old partner. The way he chewed tobacco, girls, was really lifelike.

But, as before remarked, "The Land Just Over Yonder" is a weak sister, and somebody ought to throw out a lifeline and haul her home.

News Notes.

Mr. E. H. Sothern (himself) is in town. On Thursday afternoon at 2:30 it is announced that he will appear in person at the Ziegfeld, where "An Enemy to the King," the second picture in which he has worked, is being shown. And while on the subject, this film will be succeeded on Saturday by "An Enemy" with Peggy Hyland. It certainly looks as if the theater in question was falling into the hands of the enemy.

Up to date Thomas Santschi announces that he has appeared in 3,483 characterizations! We didn't know there were that many.

Jones, Linick & Schaefer are planning to make their employés happy this year with blocks of stock. And the Rothacker Film Manufacturing company writes that to each of their employés will go a savings bank book with a certain amount credited therein and a small savings bank. Murr' Christmas!

Marion Harland's Helping Hand.

BY MARION HARLAND.

Materials for Fancy Work.

"I notice in your Corner that Mrs. S. F. has worsteds and silks to give away. I should be delighted to receive them. I am a patient in a tuberculosis sanitarium, and have little pleasure except in doing a little fancy work.

"FANNIE S."

When did we turn a tuberculosis victim away empty handed and sick hearted? There is something peculiarly pitiful in the combination of words. The materials for fancy work to which our patient refers were bestowed elsewhere before we knew of her needs. Will our fancy workers give her of their abundance? We hold her address.

Little Flat and No Furniture.

"I was advised by a friend to write to you. I am an old lady. I have a little flat and should like to get something to furnish it with, such as a cook stove, dresser, three or four chairs, some rugs, and a few bedclothes. If any one can and will help me, I will tack or piece quilts in return. I do so want to get my rooms furnished and have no means. Mrs. H. K."

You outline a contract big enough to stagger us at first sight. Then, upon dissecting the list, we see that individuals may, without concerted action, mitigate the discomfort that is pitiable. A chair here, a bolster there, a worn table for which the present owner has no more use, a bed pad, an old stove you have set aside for a new—and the work is almost done.

BEN WILSON

Any doubt in the minds of admirers of Mr. Ben Wilson as to whether he maintains his erstwhile popularity will be erased we feel sure by this picture. Here you behold him in his private sanctum, conscientiously sending out his photographs to fair and importunate fans. He's so busy he forgot to comb his hair.

ASK ME! ASK ME!

DORIS: I don't mind your raving about Robert Warwick considering that you are just 16. How old is he? Thirty-five, my dear. Yes, his hair and eyes are what you think them to be. I reckon he'd write you if you wrote to him, care of the Selznick corporation, Forty-ninth street and Seventh avenue, New York. If you want his photograph better send him a quarter. Write again some time. Glad to have heard from you.

REED L. P.: The last I heard of Mr. Fielding he was producing for himself, releasing through Universal. Address him care of the Lambs' club or the Screen club, New York. How are you?

W. L.: Keystone-Triangle.

SNIBS: Where did you get the name? Fanny Ward is with Lasky, Los Angeles, Cal.; Olga Petrova is with Metro, 1465 Broadway, New York; so is Beverly Bayne. Mae Murray is with Lasky. Yes. Fannie Ward is married to Jack Dean. She was born in 1875. I don't know, I'm sure. Eagl Foxe is with Triangle, Los Angeles, Cal. Owen Moore is with Famous Players, 130 West Fifty-sixth street, New York. Wallace Reid is with Lasky.

With Joe's Assistance.

I WAS demurely and unromantically perched on a high bootblack's chair reading a magazine while my broad toed sensible shoes received a much needed cleaning. Out of the corner of my eye I noticed that the occupant of the next chair, a man, had very well groomed feet and unconsciously my eyes wandered up to a strikingly handsome dark head, also apparently absorbed in a newspaper.

I returned to my magazine, but from time to time I stole surreptitious glances at my attractive, fine looking neighbor. I wished I had on prettier and less common sense shoes! In a moment, however, they were shiny and black. I paid my nickel and went out.

A few days later, at the same hour but quite by accident, I again encountered the handsome stranger at the bootblack's and this time, as for some days past, I had on attractive, dainty bronze shoes. However, both of us were apparently quite obvious of each other. Twice more we met in the prosaic, ugly little shop, and the fourth time I could not restrain a whimsical smile. What was my astonishment and delight a few moments later to hear a big familiar voice greeting my neighbor most cordially and to look up to find that it was Joe, an old school friend of mine.

Joe explained his unexpected presence in the city, as he was passing through on business, and then after a word from his friend, promptly introduced me to my boot shop hero. A date was made, and during the course of the call I managed to extract the information that I, too, had not passed unnoticed, that the subsequent meetings could hardly be called unpremeditated, and that the dainty bronze shoes had not passed unnoticed!

The rest was simple. From the most unromantic of meetings developed the most romantic courtship—and we are now happily married and eternally grateful to Joe. C. B.

Gave No Reason.

"Dear Miss Blake: I became engaged to a young man who lived out of town. For several reasons we agreed on a long engagement. When I last saw him he was in his usual mood, and we spent an enjoyable evening. He left that night promising to write the next day in regard to a matter to be decided by his mother.

"I did not hear from him for two weeks. Then I received a letter saying he could never come back to me, giving no other reason except that mother had said something to make him feel that way. I have no recollection of anything mother said, so do not understand him.

"I wrote asking an explanation, but have received no answer. What would you advise me to do, as I love him very deeply and he requested that we should still be friends? D."

I don't think there is anything more you can do than you have already done. It seems most unfair of him not to come right out and tell you what the trouble is. But of course you cannot force him into doing this against his will. It is my opinion that the only way that you can treat him with any hope of getting anywhere is through a little indifference on your part. Don't appear to be too anxious to push the subject. Maybe he thinks you don't care so much and suspects there may be another man in the background; it may be exactly the tonic that his present state of mind toward you is in need of.

Eufemia's Jealous Man.

"Dear Miss Blake: I'm a girl of 18, and I am asking you to help me. I keep steady company with a young man of 20. I love him very much; my mother likes him, but she says she don't like me to go out with him any more unless he changes.

"She says he is jealous, and she is afraid if I marry him he will be worse. Every time I go out with my girl friend he says that I should ask him to take me out. I think he bosses me too much.

"I hate to give him up because he is so good to me. Do you think he will be jealous after we marry? He means to marry me inside of three years. E."

Jealousy more often than not is a mighty good sign of the genuine article called love, so it isn't really to be held against a man unless he is thoroughly disagreeable in his efforts to monopolize. Some men acquire jealousy after marriage and others lose it; guess, after all, it's rather a gamble, so why not keep your fasth in this man who is so good to you, otherwise? Ask him kindly why he wishes you to give up even your girl friend. It may not have occurred to him how really selfish this attitude is. Good luck to you, Eufemia.

Bright Sayings of the Children

"The Tribune" will pay $1 for each childish saying printed. The only condition is the story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. Write on one side of the paper only. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, "Tribune," Chicago.

My brother-in-law opened a savings account for my little nephew, Joe. The opening deposit was $1. Joe was in his father's office one day when a caller said he had just come from the bank, mentioning the one where Joe's account was. Joe was immediately interested and said: "Say, did you see anything of my dollar around there." E. B. S.

Virginia and Glen had their playthings in the attic, where there were no lights. One night they wanted one of their toys, but both were afraid to go after it. As they stood, each urging the other to go first, Glen finally said: "I'll tell you how we will do; you go up first and I'll come down first."

V. E.

I have a little nephew who is just 4 years old, but his ability to pick up and use big words in their proper place is remarkable. His name is Bob. He also has an uncle by the name of Bob. Last Sunday the family was at our house for dinner. I was in the kitchen, and, wanting to tell Uncle Bob something, I called, "Bob, come here a moment." The elder Bob came walking in, and so did little Bob. I said, "I don't want you, Bobby; I want Uncle Bob." He looked at me and with an injured air solemnly said: "Aunt Elsie, you didn't specify," and turned around and walked out. Some che-ild, I'll say! E. R.

When my boy was about 4 years old we had a man at the house one evening and my husband was also at home. My sister came in and said she had had quite a sum of money paid to her since the bank closed. The boy spoke up before any one else could: "Leave it here, Aunt Lizzie; there are three men of us here." C. F. S.

Happenings In the Smart Set.

At the home of Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank of 1244 North State street yesterday the Equal Suffrage association listened to Medill McCormick talk on "Legislative Extravagance" while soft flurries of snow whirled past the windows and an open fire made more cheery the beautiful drawing room that extends across the front of the house.

Mrs. Fairbank's home is one of those that is most attractive because it is an old home. Some time ago she took over the two houses which now form one with her alterations, and there is a distinctive atmosphere about her rooms that by far outbalances most modern residences. She received yesterday in a gown of black velvet and her little daughter, Janet, sat beside her during the lecture, a most attentive listener.

Mrs. James Morrisson presided, wearing a picturesque hat of old gold velour with a dark brown gown.

Mrs. James E. Quan was there wearing black velvet with a hat of squirrel fur. Mrs. Arthur Ryerson was in black. Mrs. Augustus Peabody wore a bodice of peacock green with her dark coat suit and a hat of black velvet. Mrs. Marie Rozet, Mrs. Edward G. Pauling, Miss Susette Ryerson, Mrs. William L. Baum, and Mrs. George Dennis were among those present.

A change has been made in the plans for the next lecture of this series. Mrs. Herbert Parsons of New York City, instead of lecturing at Mrs. George Isham's home on the afternoon of Jan. 9, will speak that evening at the home of Mrs. Arthur Ryerson of 2700 Lake View avenue. Mrs. Ryerson has only recently moved into this residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar J. Uihlein and the latter's mother, Mrs. Louis Huck, will give a tea dance on Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 3, from 4 to 6 o'clock at the Casino. Dance club for the Cornell University Musical clubs, who are to arrive in Chicago that morning. Mrs. Huck's son, Louis Huck, is a member of the Cornell Mandolin club. The Cornell men will be entertained at dinner at the University club and following the concert there will be a ball at the Blackstone.

On account of illness Mrs. Hugh Johnston of 79 Cedar street will give her luncheon for Miss Isabel Baker today at 1 o'clock at the Blackstone hotel instead of at her own home.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Field of 1550 North State parkway gave a dinner-dance last evening at the Blackstone.

Saturday, Jan. 20, is the day set for the wedding of Miss Evelyn Shaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Van Doren Shaw of 1130 Lake Shore drive, to John T. McCutcheon. The wedding will take place at noon in the Fourth Presbyterian church.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip D. Armour III. of 1200 Lake Shore drive will leave on Saturday for New York to spend Christmas with Mrs. Armour's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gerald Condon.

The Cordon will receive for the Cliff Dwellers on New Year's day from 4 until 7 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Angus Hibbard of 1357 North State street will spend the holidays in Pasadena with Mrs. Hibbard's father, Charles Ray.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Walker have taken an apartment at 195 East Chestnut street for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Burres and Joseph Burres Jr. of the Del Prado have gone to California. Mrs. Burres will spend the winter at Pasadena and Mr. Burres will return to Chicago soon.

SOCIETY AT THE OPERA

"TALES of Hoffman" brought out a goodly number of Tuesday evening's regular boxholder, despite the fait that out of doors one of Chicago's typical December blizzards was raging.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Mitchell were among those entertaining. With them were Mr. and Mrs. John A. Spoor and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Waller. Mrs. Mitchell had on a handsome costume of pale blue satin and white chiffon. Besides her dog collar of pearls she wore a beautiful string of large pearls. Mrs. Waller was lovely in white chiffon over satin and also wore a pearl dog collar. Mrs. Spoor was in midnight blue brocaded satin with chiffon bodice.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus McCormick had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank and Mr. and Mrs. Watson Blair. Mrs. McCormick was in black lace over satin and Mrs. Blair in midnight blue chiffon and satin.

Mrs. George M. Reynolds was hostess to another interesting box party, which included Mr. and Mrs. James McCluney of St. Louis and Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Reynolds. Mrs. Reynolds wore turquoise blue velvet and Mrs. McCluney midnight blue chiffon and satin.

Mrs. B. L. Winchell had with her Mr. and Mrs. J. McRoberts and Mme. Winchell. Mrs. Winchell wore dark blue brocaded satin with chiffon bodice embroidered in silver and Mrs. McRoberts was in black chiffon and satin.

Mr. and Mrs. F. T. A. Junkin had as their guests Mrs. John Garland Lester of London, Mr. and Mrs. Ahgust Magnus, and Charles Wacker. Mrs. Junkin wore pink charmeuse and pearls, Mrs. Lester black satin heavily embroidered in jet sequins, Mrs. Magnus pale green and silver.

With Mrs. D. Mark Cummings were Mrs. Harry Shearson, Mr. and Mrs. Oren Taft Jr., Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Goodrich, and George Ingalls. Mrs. Cummings was in black satin, Mrs. Taft in green velvet combined with embroidered chiffon of the same shade, Mrs. Shearson in mauve and white net, and Mrs. Goodrich in black satin and net.

Accompanying Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Forgan were Dr. and Mrs. D. H. Jones and Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Freeman. Mrs. Forgan's gown was of black satin richly trimmed in jet, Mrs. Jones wore pink satin, and Mrs. Freeman black satin and figured net.

Sir Herbert Proves an Expensive Luxury.

BY CINDERELLA.

SIR HERBERT TREE'S affections turned out rather disastrously for the treasury of the Farmington society. You see, Sir Herbert, over the telephone, valued his affections at $500, and said for that modest sum he would say a few kind words before the Farmington society.

The society thereupon proceeded to try to sell tickets for the event at $5 per, which included a tea drinking in the Blackstone ballroom and the sight of many of its fairest young members among the Farmington graduates in Shakespearen costume.

But, as the wiseacres have already noted, this is a year when people are terribly independent about taking tickests, and while Sir Herbert is not exactly a twice told tale, neither is he absolutely a novelty, having spoken before the Friday club and several benefits. So his birthday party in the Blackstone ballroom turned out to be a rather sparsely settled function, barely more than a hundred people being present, though they were, to be sure, among the most delightful people in town.

In the course of his remarks Sir Herbert said that the hundred pounds of currency he had exacted from the Farmington society had been sent to Lady Tree in London with other moneys to be divided between the British and French Red Cross.

Whereupon he told two amusing anecdotes. The first was about his London production, "Antony and Cleopatra," during the reign of Queen Victoria. Two British dowagers, it seems, were sitting in the dress circle knitting throughout the performance, and at the end as they rose one said to the other, "How different from the life of our dear queen!"

The other reminiscence was of Sir Herbert's leading woman playing Cleopatra for the first time. The producer required her to meet Mark Antony when he returned from Rome standing on a flight of steps with his five children. But Cleopatra wouldn't, she simply wouldn't. Finally she agreed to meet the conqueror with three children, but never with five. "Life is full of compromises," remarked Sir Herbert.

When the English actor's birthday cake was brought in and the room darkened there was much ado. The cake was a wonderful one, looking exactly like St. Paul's cathedral—and as for candles, my hat! So many of them it might have been Shakespeare's birthday.

Iris Tree's a very nice looking girl, tall and thin, with taffy colored hair bobbed ever so quaintly round her ears. She is marrying an American, it seems, and so will no longer be of the "soul" set in London, with the Asquiths, the Rutlands, the Cunards, etc.

Well, here's hoping the Farmington women paid expenses and that the pro-Germans among the Englishman's audience did not suffer.

And by the way, the number of pro-Germans working for the allied bazaar is said to be notably large and enthusiastic.

The last day of the bazaar, Jan. 20, a Saturday, is to be the day of the Shaw-McCutcheon wedding. Two hours after the ceremony Howard Shaw, the bride's father, with her sister Sylvia, leaves for a six months tour of China. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Aldis, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McBirney, and Day McBirney are of the party.

Orchestra Association Elects.

The annual meeting of the Orchestral association [the supporting body of the Chicago Symphony] was held yesterday. Cyrus H. McCormick Jr. and Robert J. Thorne were elected to fill two vacancies in the membership of forty, and the following officers were elected: Clyde M. Carr, president; Charles H. Hamill, first vice president; Joseph Adams, second vice president; Philo A. Otis, secretary; Frederick J. Wessels, treasurer and manager; Henry E. Voegeli, assistant treasurer and manager.

Lawndale Civic Center.

Tribune Cook Book.

All recipes have been scientifically tested by Miss Eddington with current market materials and are indorsed by her.

Fowls, 20 to 25 cents a pound. Geese the same, ending last week "easy." Christmas demands may affect the market, so buy early and take care of the exposed fat at once; it oxidizes somewhat, that is, weathers. Live carp (and those who use it for gala occasions will use no other) will cost 8 to 10 cents a pound at wholesale and early buyers will be sure of their fish.

Efficiency and the Hen.

NO one without a trained instinct for economy can get the maximum of service from an old hen. No recipe short of a thousand words would be adequate to teach the inexperienced how to use, for instance, one second joint with one cup of chicken stock, so as to make it serve faction. One way would be with toast, and there are other starchy foods like rice and macaroni with which it may be made to go farther yet, and be greatly agreeable.

Buy a hen with the legs on. Note how scaly these are. There is as much difference between these and those of a real chicken as between the bark of a sapling and that of an old tree. See also the Chinese-like nails of the old hen. Again note what happens in removing the tendons. The brittle bone may break. To do this bend back the leg, put through the skin, completely disjoint the leg, with a good pull draw out the shiny white strings from the drumstick.

By this time you have indications enough to prescribe at least three hours of cooking for the muscular parts, the drumstick, second joint, and wings. Disjoint them, trim wings, and if for a fricassee wash and immediately cover with two quarts of water and the seasoning, salt later, but always add an onion or two. Cool quickly when done.

The first preparation should be the removing of the pin feathers, going over the skin several times for thoroughness, singeing with a tablespoon of alcohol in a tin pan, drawing if this has not been done. Disjoint, put the bony frame with the breast undisturbed into two quarts of boiling water seasoned with onion, etc., and cook gently until tender. You will have two quarts of good stock, which must be cooled quickly, and the breast for salad, chicken a la king, etc.

Church Society Opens Gymnasium

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

WEARY: AN HOUR'S REST each day will work wonders with wornout nerves. Your nervous, excitable condition may be due to to a rundown system. It is absolutely necessary to have a certain amount of rest and recreation. Fresh air and plenty of it is essential. Try walking every evening. The bracing air will rest your nerves and promote sleep. Take a good long walk, not less than a mile and a half.

MAE H.: IF YOUR HAIR IS properly shampooed after using the tar tonic there should be no odor whatever. There is no preparation or perfume you could use to allay the odor. Give your hair another shampoo and I am sure the odor will go away. I shall be glad to send you my formula for shampoo if you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope.

JEANNETTE: I DO NOT RECOMmend peroxide for bleaching the teeth. If you have had the tartar removed from your teeth and they are still yellow, then it is the nature of the teeth to be yellow and there is nothing that will bleach them. I shall be glad to send you my instructions for the care of the teeth and treatment for blackheads and pimples if you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope.

OBITUARY.

HERBERT WILLIAM PEARSON, scientist, lumberman, and business man, died at his home in Duluth, Minn., on Monday night, following a protracted illness. He was born in 1850 on Wells Island, St. Lawrence river, and came to Duluth from Spring Lake, Mich., in 1880. His geological research work has taken him into almost every state and to many European countries. In England he was honored by Charles Darwin and by Lord Kelvin and addressed classes at Cambridge university, as well as at many of the large colleges and schools in America.

PHILIP A. NIEBERGALL, superintendent of garages for Marshall Field & Co., died on Monday at 3827 West Jackson boulevard at the age of 77 years. For nearly fifty years he had held his present position, taking charge when there were but seven wagons in use and supervising this branch of the business to its present development. He was born in Lyons, N. Y., in 1840. He is survived by a widow and four children.

MRS. ANDREW WALDRON, known to theater goers of the '80's as Jennie Calef, one of the Calef sisters, a "team" of soubrettes, died suddenly last night as she was entering her home at 827 North Dearborn street. She was 59 years old. Mrs. Waldron is survived by her husband who is 70 years old, and one of the oldest thespians in the country. Her last public appearance was in "This Is the Life," a Chicago venture.

OBITUARY.

NOTED PRESBYTERIAN DIES.

Battle Creek, Mich., Dec. 19.—Dr. George W. Bailey of Philadelphia, 76 years of age, one of the leading figures in the Sunday school world and a prominent layman in the Presbyterian denomination, died here today. His body was shipped to Philadelphia, where funeral services will be held.

Dr. Bailey was past president of the World's Sunday School association, a life member of the executive committee of the International Sunday School association, and a director of the Sunday School Times Publishing company.

He was in 1914 vice moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church of the United States.

THOMAS ELWOOD CALVERT, chief engineer of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, died yesterday at his home in Lincoln, Neb. He was 66 years old and had been in the continuous service of the Burlington for forty years. Mr. Calvert's first service with the Burlington was as a civil engineer on the lines west of the Missouri river. Later he was promoted to chief engineer of the Nebraska division and then was advanced to general superintendent of all Burlington lines west of the Missouri river. Several years later he was appointed chief engineer of the entire system and his headquarters moved to Chicago. He is survived by his widow.

J. B. DIGNAM died at the Henrotin hospital yesterday. He was born in Canada fifty-one years ago and came to this country as a young man. Soon afterward he became the western advertising representative of Cushman's Couple and later, affiliated himself with Nelson Chesman & Co. Later on he published Dignam's Magazine at Richmond, Ind. He then joined the organization of Cone, Lorenzen & Woodman, publishers' representatives, and was a director of that firm until his death. He was president of the Three Score and Ten club. He is survived by his widow and one daughter, Dorothy. The funeral will be held from the Buena Memorial chapel tomorrow at 3:30 p. m.

ELMYRA CURTISS HOSFORD, mother of Margaret Cecile Norton of 1903 Thirtieth street, San Diego, Cal., formerly of Chicago, and a native of New York, aged 91 years, died on Monday in San Diego, Cal.

JULIUS BLOXDORF, lieutenant in the German army and distinguished for service in the Franco-Prussian war, died at Kenosha, Wis., yesterday.

DEATH NOTICES.

WHEAT FUTURES REACT SHARPLY TOWARD FINISH

Early Gains Practically Wiped Out—Lloyd-George's Speech Affects the Market.

After a great display of strength the wheat market yesterday fell to pieces in the final half hour and early advances were practically wiped out. December closed ⅝c lower, while deferred months were ¼@⅜c higher for the day. The speech of Lloyd-George before the house of commons was the big thing in the market. In anticipation that his talk would be against accepting Germany's peace proposals there was heavy buying and first reports bore this out, sending the market to its highest point of the day. Later in his speech, however, the British premier indicated that England was willing to negotiate if Germany would first state her terms. This caused much unloading of long wheat bought during the morning, and in addition there were heavy profit taking sales and prices broke rapidly.

Eastern houses were conspicuous on the selling side. Seaboard advices indicated that the export demand was limited and no sales were reported. Local shipping sales were only 5,000 bu and cash wheat was dull.

Wheat Movement Decreasing.

More attention was given the steady falling off in the movement from the country, although in view of the importance of the foreign political news domestic conditions did not have much influence on the market. Northwest receipts totaled 329 cars, against 590 a week ago and 1,083 a year ago, while Winnipeg had 518 cars, with 9.. a week ago and 1,285 a year ago. Southwest cars were 163, against 218 a week ago and 384 a year ago. Only 36 cars were received here, and if the eastern shipping outlet was clear stocks would decrease rapidly.

Broomhall reported Liverpool spot wheat unchanged. Private cables from there called the market equal to 5c a bushel higher. A decrease of 288,000 bu for the week was shown in the United Kingdom visible. Clearances from the seaboard were 361,000 bu, against 1,057,000 bu a year ago. Primary receipts totaled 872,000 bu, against 2,305,000 bu last year.

Corn Also Reacts Sharply.

Corn also reacted sharply toward the end and closed 1¼@1½c lower. Following an easier opening, the market developed much strength, largely in sympathy with the bulge in wheat, and with shorts urgent buyers, particularly of December delivery. There was some pressure from cash people, however, and later, when wheat broke, there was heavy selling of corn by houses with eastern connections. The shipping trade continues to be curtailed by the embargoes on eastern roads, and local business reported yesterday was only 10,000 bu. Cash corn was steady to 1c higher.

Farmers are not offering corn freely, and although interior elevators are reported as full of grain, they cannot ship liberally on account of the car shortage. Liverpool spot corn was 1d lower. Clearances from the seaboard were light at 33,000 bu. Primary markets received 1,077,000 bu yesterday, against 939,000 bu a year ago.

Oats Weak at Close.

Oats followed the general movements of other grains, ruling higher early and reacting later. Prices at the finish were ⅝@¾c lower. Selling during the morning was confined largely to profit taking sales, but when wheat and corn broke the pressure became general. The volume of trade was just fair. Cash oats were 1@1½c higher, with shipping sales 20,000 bu. Seaboard clearances were 8,000 bu. Sales of 50,000 bu were made to go to store. Primary receipts were 622,000 bu, against 898,000 bu a year ago.

Hog product closed a little lower. The heavy run of hogs at western markets, totaling 206,200 head, against 181,675 a year ago, caused quite a little commission house selling, and the market at no time during the session received good support. A large short line of December lard was covered and steadied this delivery. Hog values at the yards were irregular. Liverpool spot lard was is lower. Local shipments of meats were 2,986,000 lbs, compared with 3,659,000 lbs a year ago, while lard shipments were 988,000 lbs, against 1,217,000 lbs last year.

Rye Makes Good Gain.

Rye was 2c higher, with No. 2 selling at $1.40 and No. 3 at $1.33. Receipts were 26 cars.

Barley ruled dull and unchanged. Malting was quoted 98c@$1.20 and sold $1.01@1.17; feed and mixing quotable 85@98c, with sales at 93@95c; screenings were quoted 40@87c, and skimmings, 65@70c, former selling at 58@73c. Receipts, 68 cars.

Timothy seed was steady; March, $5.75 bid and $6.15 asked; cash lots sold $2.00@4.75. Clover seed held unchanged; cash lots quoted $12.00@17.00.

Flax closed 2¾c lower, with cash quoted $2.81¾@2.86¾; Duluth was 1¼@1¾c; Minneapolis, 2¾c, and Winnipeg ¼@1c lower, respectively.

IN BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Prices were lower at the opening in Boston today and in some instances the recessions continued to a point below the previous level. The volume of trading was light. Stocks rallied shortly after the opening and the early losses were wiped out. In many cases substantial gains were made. Buoyancy became more pronounced before the noon hour and trading was more active. The advance in Atlantic Gulf continued and a high at 120 for a 4½ gain was recorded. American Zinc was active and showed a gain of 3⅜ to 49. Copper Range was strong, showing a 1¾ advance at 70¾. In sympathy with New York a sharp break occurred in the last hour and early gains were swept away. The break was general, practically every important issue showing a decline. Atlantic Gulf was down 6 points at 117¾. Other losses in excess of a point were Calumet and Hecla, 5; Osceola, 3½; Mohawk, 1¾; Calumet and Arizona, 1¾. Swift was strong all day, selling most of the time between 148 and 150. It closed at 147, showing a net gain of half a point. Call money ruled at 6 per cent; time loans, short dates, 6@6 per cent; time loans, 6 months, 6@6 per cent; time loans, year, 6@6 per cent.

SUGAR.

CHICAGO, Dec. 19. — SUGAR — Following prices were quoted by the wholesale dealers per 100 lbs: Cut loaf, H. & E., $8.25; powdered, standard, $7.65; standard cane granulated, $7.43; beet granulated, $6.85; extra C, $7.35; canary, $6.65.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—SUGAR—The market for raw was dull, with prices entirely nominal. January shipment was offered, at 4¼c and February-March at 4.00c, but refiners were content to hold off and await developments. Closing prices were 4¼c for Cubas, cost and freight, equal to 5.14c for centrifugal and 4.27c for molasses. The market for refined sugar continued quiet, with trading only of a hand to mouth character. Prices were listed at from 7.00c to 7.05c for fine granulated, although some refiners were said to be willing to accept orders at 6.95c. Aside from December the market for sugar futures displayed considerable strength on scattered covering and buying for outside account, owing to the unfavorable prospects for peace, with prices 6@13 points higher. December opened at an advance of 4 points, but under moderate liquidation eased off to a net decline of 4 points, only to rally again at the close, and closed 2 points above last night's final figures. December sold from 4.20c to 4.12c, closing 4.15c; January, 4.06@4.13c, closing 4.13c; March, 3.80@3.90c, closing 3.89c; May, 3.94@3.97c, closing 3.95c; July, 4.00@4.01c, closing 4.00c.

For the second time this week, the eastern shipping demand for hogs at Chicago yesterday was responsible for the maintenance of prices on a firm basis in spite of efforts on the part of local packers to force lower costs. Receipts were placed at 50,000 head and exceeded expectations, but shippers took 14,000 of the offerings and packers had to fill their orders on a fully steady basis in late rounds, after holding out nearly all day. Top sales were made at $10.25 and the bulk at $9.75@10.00.

Cattle demand proved fully equal to the offerings and the market for beef steers, cows, and heifers held on a firm basis at Monday's prices. Receipts were posted at 8,500 head. Best steers offered made $11.25. Calves cleared on a steady basis, with prime vealers at $11.50, and the bulk of the choice killers at $11.00@11.25.

Sheep Steady; Lambs Lower.

Sheep held on a steady basis, while lambs and yearlings were unchanged to 10@15c lower. Receipts were 14,000 head. Lambs topped at $13.00 to packers.

EARLY RISE IS SWIFT.

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Reading of the summaries of Lloyd-George's answer to Germany's peace proposals convinced Wall street this morning that the war would be continued indefinitely. Accordingly, there was much jubilation among the holders of war stocks, and prices advanced all along the line, making up a considerable part of the recent losses.

The summaries, however, were followed in the afternoon by the mention that the "gates of peace are left ajar," and whether that suggested a peace possibility, after all, or whether the traders lost their courage, or whether the market is still wary after the collapse of last week, the upward movement ended abruptly. There were a few sales at unchanged quotations. Then there was a retreat, and at length a complete rout. For half an hour the market's demoralization was as startling as last Thursday's.

Steel Off 6 from High.

Steel had climbed laboriously from yesterday's 113 to a fraction over 116. Utah Copper had worked up 4 points, to 109. Central Leather had gained 3½ points. Before the raid ended these three typical issues had been kicked far down the scale. Steel lost 6 points in less than two hours, and Utah and Central Leather each gave way 7 points.

Among the oils, Texas receded 6 points from high. Smelting, Car and Foundry, and Locomotive, fairly representative of the munitions issues, each lost 6 points from high. The Marines suffered, the common slipping 3½ points and the preferred 7½ points from the day's crest.

Toward the end there was a recovery which enabled several of the issues to record a net gain. This was particularly noticeable with the rail issues, several of which rebounded nearly to the high point of the day's trading.

Bankers Again Warn.

From conservative bankers again comes the patient warning that the market cannot fairly be expected to soar upward on the strength solely of a belief that the war will last much longer—and retain the gains thus made. It was overspeculation of this sort which provoked the collapse of last week, and it is not unlikely it was the too swift advance of this morning which contributed to the still swifter decline of the afternoon.

One of the steel issues which did not lose its whole day's gain was Republic Iron and Steel. It lost nearly 5 points before the recovery, but it is hard for complete dejection to be felt by holders of this stock on which, during the day, the first dividend in its history was declared, a 1½ per cent declaration. The stock had been strong of late, based on the belief that it would pay at the rate of 5 per cent next spring or summer.

Encouraging Progress.

To have it pay at a higher rate and at this season is far from discouraging. It is only a month since the directors cleaned up the accumulated dividends on the preferred. Earnings for the first half of the year were equivalent to 16 per cent on the common, but as revenue has been larger lately, it is declared that the calendar year should show much more than 36 per cent earned.

Steel men are beginning to exhibit more anxiety about the rail situation. The shortage of cars is embarrassing in two ways, not only in limiting the companies' ability to get the finished products away from the plant and into the hands of the purchaser, but in limiting the amount of coal and ore which can be brought to the furnaces. It is asserted that some plants are closing because of the latter reason. No anxiety is shown over the sales outlook, provided rolling stock can be found, for unfilled orders continue to pile up and inquiries continue brisk.

Aside from another shading of international issues, the bond market failed in any marked essential to reflect the stock market. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

CHICAGO BANKS AT VARIANCE ON INTEREST RATES

Money Conditions Irregular—Higher Charges Possible After New Year's.

Money conditions at the local banks show considerable irregularity. One of the largest national institutions has marked up all its call loans from 4 to 4½ per cent. The largest trust companies still are carrying their call loans at 4 per cent, although charging 4½ on new business. Unless there should be a change in the general money situation, it is possible after the turn of the year there may be a marking up by the trust companies of present 4 per cent loans.

Some of the national banks report declines in deposits due to firmer money conditions and withdrawal of funds for lending purposes. Country banks are said to be buying commercial paper rather freely at 4¼ per cent.

Advance in Crude Oil.

The Texas company announces an advance of 10 cents a barrel to 90 cents in the price of Crichton crude oil. In the mid-continent field generally there has been an advance of 20 cents a barrel in the last fortnight.

The consumption of gasoline grows with the increased output of automobiles, and oil interests assert that the consumption is running ahead of production.

Chicago Securities.

Several local stocks started off well, but eventually followed New York, declining rapidly from the high prices of the session. This was notably true of Swift & Co. shares, which opened at 147½, rose to 150½, and then dropped to 145. The final quotation was at 147. There is good buying in the market and prediction of much higher prices.

Prestolite also had a quick advance from an opening at 144 to 147. The decline was almost as rapid, though the close was 1 point above the opening.

There was not a great deal doing in Chicago City and Connecting Railways preferred. The shares opened at 40. There were moderate offerings at this price. Just before the close the shares sold at 39½. Chicago Pneumatic Tool sold off. Union Carbide rose quickly to 204, but closed at 200. There is an undercurrent of strength in the market for the issue, though the business yesterday was relatively small.

Bonds were moderately active and in good tone.

Schwab Controls Cornwall Mines.

Charles M. Schwab, according to a dispatch from Lebanon, Pa., has purchased the Lackawanna Steel company's interests in the Cornwall ore mines and also the Freeman interests in the Cornwall railroad, ore mines, and furnaces at Cornwall. This gives Mr. Schwab control of the Cornwall ore mines.

He will own outright the American Iron and Steel plants, including the $2,000,000 steel mill, the twin Lebanon furnaces and concentrator plant, and the twin Colebrook furnaces, and will direct, under lease, the twin Bird Coleman furnaces at Cornwall, Pa., the North Cornwall furnace, the Cornwall railroad, and the Freeman interests in the Cornwall mines.

Fairbanks-Morse Stock Plan.

Fairbanks, Morse & Co. will issue 900 shares of preferred stock at $100 per share, bearing 6 per cent interest, and will give preference in selling to employés. By a proviso in the sale the company in 1920 may buy back all shares sold to employés at $105 per share.

Mercantile Trust Extra.

The Mercantile Trust and Savings bank yesterday declared an extra dividend of 2 per cent in addition to the regular disbursement of 1 per cent quarterly. The bank is four years old, with deposits of $2,700,000.

Union Pacific Officials Meet.

Garritt Fort, passenger traffic manager of the Union Pacific system, yesterday completed a three day conference of the general and traveling passenger agents of the railroad. The meetings are being developed to standardize the talking points of the Union Pacific as the western route.

C. A. Cairns, general ticket and passenger agent of the Northwestern, one of the Union Pacific connections in Chicago, conducted the party through the Madison street terminal.

Railway Car Report.

The American Railway association reports a shortage of 105,527 freight cars throughout the country on Dec. 1. On Aug. 1, the statement asserts, there was an actual net surplus of 9,102 idle cars.

Money and Exchange.

Money rates in Chicago steady at 4½ per cent on collateral, 4 per cent on commercial paper, and 4¼@5 per cent over the counter. New York exchange sold at 10c discount. Chicago bank clearings, $22,630,182.

NEWS OF THE FINANCIAL WORLD

New York banking interests that are bullish on the railroad outlook during the next three months say it should not be expected that railroad shares will advance while weakness throughout the industrial list continues. As soon, however, as the readjustment is completed in industrials and coppers the trunk lines and coalers may be expected to respond to favoring conditions.

Returns to the bureau of navigation of the department of commerce at Washington, D. C., show that steel merchant vessels building or under contract to be built in private American yards on Dec. 1 numbered 400 of 1,428,003 gross tons, against 402 of 761,511 gross tons on Dec. 1, 1915. The December figures, however, are smaller by seventeen vessels and 51,943 gross tons than on Nov. 1 last.

It is reported that the new securities, when issued, of the Pere Marquette shortly will be listed on the stock exchange. The new common earned last year about 4½ per cent and this year is expected to earn between 5½ and 6¼ per cent.

The Cosden Oil and Gas company has brought in well No. 6 on the Sam Sawyer tract in the Cushing pool, and it is declared to be flowing 10,200 barrels daily. Nearly 6,000 barrels a day are being produced by the company on this tract alone. A lease has been made on 8,000 acres in the southern part of Marshall county, Okla.

It is said that in steel circles hints are given of important developments among the independent companies. A prominent Youngstown concern is to be listed on the stock exchange after the declaration of a large special dividend.

The Jewel Tea company reports sales of $1,157,428 for the four weeks ended Dec. 2. This is an increase o. $420,931. Sales for the forty-eight weeks ended Dec. 2 totaled $11,279,819, an increase of $4,008,525.

Application has been made in the New York stock exchange to list $18,000,000 first and refunding mortgage twenty-five year bonds, series A, of the Northern States Power company.

The Italian government has purchased from one of the leading selling agencies in this country about 7,000,000 pounds of copper, delivery to be made in June.

The receipt of $6,500,000 gold from Canada makes a total of $608,500,000 received on the present movement from all sources since Jan. 1 of this year.

DROP 17 YEAR LITIGATION OVER $500,000 SITE

Real Estate Transfers.

Lake View	12	Lake	39
Jefferson	15	Hyde Park	17
North town	5	West town	56
South town	18	Outside towns	46
Towns sy'm.	13	Calumet	7

After seventeen years of litigation in the courts action in the suit of the heirs of Potmer L. Morris, who formerly owned the land where Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. now have a department store, to recover part of the land, said to be worth $500,000, on a technicality, was dropped by the plaintiffs yesterday before Judge Martin M. Gridley in the Circuit court.

The suit was directed against the Marshall Field estate and Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. by Juliette Hanson and Frederick J. Howe. The Field estate owns the property while Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. hold a ninety-nine year lease of it.

The heirs contended that they had title to a strip of property ten feet wide and 129 feet long 100 feet east of State street, which was used as an alley before the present building was erected in 1898.

North Clark Street Trade.

A noteworthy transaction in North Clark street business property was reported in the purchase by Adolph H. Bernstein from Louis Solomon of the property at 3241-49, between Belmont avenue and School street for a reported consideration of $75,000. The lot has a frontage of 100 feet with a depth of 179 feet to Craft street. It is improved with a three story brick building having a depth of 100 feet, leaving a vacant lot, 100x119 feet with frontage on Craft street. Mr. Bernstein plans to improve with a suitable building.

In part payment Mr. Solomon has conveyed to Mr. Bernstein the property at the southeast corner of Van Buren street and Ogden avenue at a reported consideration of $45,000. It is a triangular corner having a frontage of 75 feet with irregular depth and is improved with a two story brick building at the corner with one story stores adjoining. George S. Lusie & Co. represented both parties.

Lincoln Avenue Lease.

The same brokers also have leased for Abraham J. Franks to Abraham Bernstein the north 60 feet of the store room and both upper floors, size 125x190 feet at the northwest corner of Lincoln and Barry avenues for a gross term rent of $80,000. The premises are to be occupied as a furniture house in connection with the stores of A. Bernstein Sons company at 1650 West Chicago avenue and Bernstein Bros. at 2300 Milwaukee avenue. This leaves a space at the corner of 60x90 feet vacant.

An important transaction in north side manufacturing property was another interesting feature of the day's business. It covers the property in Ontario street, 761 feet north of Orleans street, which was sold by Kate E. Herbert to Y. C. Maynard, a paper box manufacturer. The lot is 134x100 feet south front, and is partly improved with a four story building which Mr. Maynard will occupy with his business. A nominal consideration is given in the transfer, but Mr. Maynard gave back a part purchase money mortgage for $75,000 five years at 5½ per cent.

Flat Changes Hands.

Record was made of the sale by William E. Henry to George R. Hotchkiss of the property at the southwest corner of Newport avenue and Lincoln street, lot 52x124 feet with apartment improvements for a stated consideration of $71,750, subject to an incumbrance of $60,000.

The estate of Edward Mott Robinson of which Edward H. R. Green is executor, has sold through Willis & Frankenstein to Charles S. Osborn, trustee of the estate of Lucius G. Fisher, the fee of the property at 1416-18 South Wabash avenue, lot 37½x147, a nominal consideration being given, but the actual figure is said to be about $35,000. The land was leased through the same brokers to the Fisher estate for nineteen years at an annual rent of $1,000 for five years, $1,400 for five years and $1,600 for the remainder of the term. The lot is improved with a new seven story mill construction building which belonged to the lessee.

Washington Street Lease.

Record was made of the lease of the store at 171 West Washington street, in the Sterling Hudson building, occupied by the Hotel Washington, by the Washington Hotel company to Theodore B. W. Bernstein of Freeport, Ill., to be used for saloon purposes. The lease is for ten years from Oct. 1 last at a stated term rent of $79,000.

Record was made of the lease by Thomas C. and Virginia Denehy to Frederick R. Barnheisel of the ground at 618-22 South Michigan avenue, owned by Edward H. R. Green. The new lease, which was the result of the failure of Mr. Denehy to acquire the leasehold interest and ten story building on the premises in the exercise of an option held by him at the time he acquired the lease for $665,000, is identical in its terms with the old lease held by Mr. Barnheisel.

An annual rent of $20,000 is provided for the five years after March 31, 1917; $25,000 for the next thirty-nine years, and $35,000 for the remaining fifty years of the term. The rearrangement of the old lease is understood to have been made necessary by a loan of $400,000 made on the leasehold estate and building by S. W. Straus & Co. The loan, which is of the serial character, matures in two to ten years and bears 6 per cent interest.

Norwood Park Deal.

Record was made of the purchase by Louis H. Hinsey of Martin Hansen of the property on Avondale avenue, between Ardmore avenue and Hurlbut street, 420x888 feet, a nominal consideration being named.

Record was made of the purchase by Albert W. Harris, president of the Harris Trust company, from J. D. Hawes et al. of the property at the northeast corner of Kimbark avenue and Fiftieth street, 151x129 feet, a nominal consideration being given. The property, which is vacant, is 100 feet south of the handsome home of Mr. Harris. Mr. Harris is said to have no immediate plans for improving the property.

The forty acre tract at the southeast corner of State and Eighty-seventh streets, which recently was purchased by T. W. Tiley, has been conveyed by him to Frederick H. Bartlett.

Realty Election Today.

The annual election and meeting of the Chicago real estate board will be held today. The polls will be open from 10 to 2, and as there is no opposition ticket in the field the regular ticket, headed by Valentine H. Surghnor, is assured of election. A buffet luncheon will be served between 12 and 1:30 o'clock.

"Christmas party" is the designation given the weekly luncheon of the Cook county real estate board at the Hotel Sherman today. A real live 350 pound Santa Claus is to be a feature in connection with an entertaining musical program. It will be held in the Louis XV. room and it is stated there will be gifts for every one.

Board to Consider New Bill.

At a meeting of the Cook county real estate board this afternoon at 3 o'clock consideration will be given to a bill to be introduced in the state legislature to compel the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company to furnish for each vacant lot a supply of pipe for gas when the street is being paved.

The assertion is made that there is nothing more injurious to real estate at the present time than conditions which obtain in connection with gas supply. If the street has just been paved the gas company has a right to tear up the street and connect service pipes to the new building, and after a street pavement has been opened, it is asserted, no amount of repairing will put the street in as good condition as it was before. If the property owner wants to construct a building it costs from $20 to $50 to open up the street, something of a tax.

Chicago Title and Trust Company

For seventy years the title service of Chicago has been efficiently performed by this Company and its predecessors.

In early days the highest type of abstracts of title was instituted in this city and title service was placed upon a sound basis.

The increasing development of the city induced the company to introduce the title insurance plan, which has been developed into an unequaled system for safely, sanely and speedily transacting all title business.

A trust department and an escrow and settlement department fill appropriate places.

The company does not compete with its clients, pays strict attention to its own business and so does that business well.

SALESMEN AND District Sales Managers.
Having developed an unusually successful organization in the East, we are ready to assign territory in the rich Central West and Southwest. Our work consists of installing modern methods of advanced training for department heads, salesmen, correspondents, and clerks of progressive business concerns. Although all this training is under the personal direction of authorities of national repute and is of the highest quality, the fees have been kept remarkably low and sales are made with corresponding ease. With the active support of executives everywhere, contracts may be taken in groups.
Our representatives must possess both a broad business education and proved selling ability; previous experience in educational work, however, is not essential. Such men can quickly build up large and steady sales, which will be augmented within a few months by a growing volume of re-sales. This new field is rapidly expanding and offers practically unlimited opportunities.
We are looking for a few able men of sufficient caliber to become district managers within a short time. If you belong in that class, you should get into touch with us at once. Your compensation will be based on a liberal commission and you will be expected to finance yourself, if you are able in addition to finance the upbuilding of a district organization, it will be well worth your while to do so.
To men who possess the qualifications above suggested this will prove a genuine ground floor opportunity; it cannot be repeated nor held open indefinitely. If it interests you, call or telephone Wednesday or Thursday morning.
W. H. LOUGH, President Business Training Corporation, La Salle Hotel, Chicago.

FOR

To insure Victor quality, always look for the famous trademark, "His Master's Voice." It is on every Victrola, and every Victor Record. It is the identifying label on all genuine Victrolas and Victor Records.

Will there be a Victrola in your home this Christmas?

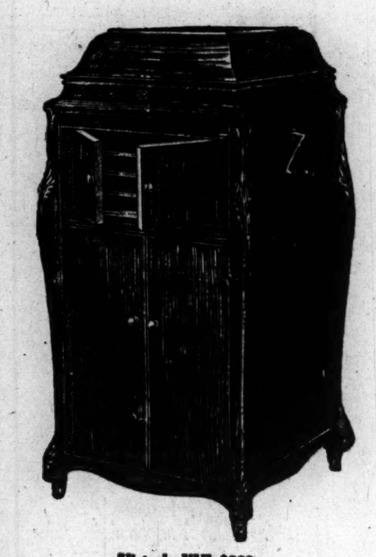
Victrola IV, $15
Oak

Victrola VI, $25
Oak

You can search the whole world over and not find anything else that will bring so much pleasure to every member of the family.

Victrola VIII, $40
Oak

Victrola IX, $50
Mahogany or oak



Victrola XVI, $200
Victrola XVI, electric, $220

Victrola XI, $100

Victrola X, $75

Victrola XIV, $150

Victrola XVIII, $300
Victrola XVIII, electric, $330
Mahogany

Owing to the enormous demand it is possible that some Victor dealers may not have in stock just the style Victrola you want—but it is also just as reasonable to suppose that the exact Victrola you want will be found at some of the regular qualified dealers listed below.
